A guard of honour presented arms
when the train entered the station, where thousands paid silent tribute.

The Secretary of State, Baron von Weizsaecker represented the Foreign Office at the ceremony before the Cathedral, where the provincial party leader, Herr Grohe made a of Representatives that the Commonwealth Government will proceed

LONDON, Nov. 16.

LONDON GAVE KING CAROL and Prince Michael a great reception when they left Buckingham Palace in an open carriage for the Guildhall to-day.

They were welcomed by the Lord Mayor, and a large company of distinguished people, including Mr. Neville Chamberlain and Lord Halifax.

An illuminated address of welcome was read, and a few presentations made to the King, after which King
Carol, accompanied by Prince Michael, the Duke of Gloucester and the Lord Mayor, headed a procession to the luncheon hall.

Addressing the assembly and tendering thanks for the reception given him and his son by the people of England, King Carol said the fact that "in my veins flows the same blood as that of your King, I am convinced has contributed to this splendid welcome.

Moreover, in recent times, neither
I, nor my people, could forget that Rumania belonged to the same mighty army of allies, fighting for the same cause and for the same faith.—

Britain And France
Define Positions

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Nov. 16.

CONSIDERABLE EXCITE-MENT has been aroused here by reports of the meeting of the Tanganyika League at which Dr. S. B. Malik, an Indian member of the Tanganyika Council, read with the authority of the Governor, a communique issued by Sir Mark Young.

The Governor in the Communique, referred to Mr. Chamberlain's negative reply to the House of Commons question whether the Government was contemplating the transfer of territory on any terms, and added that Mr. Malcolm Mac-Donald had authorized him to state that Mr. Chamberlain's answer is to be understood as meaning that His Majesty's Government is not contemplating the transfer of any territories under British administration.—Reuter.

FRENCH ATTITUDE

Paris, Nov. 16.

The French Government's attitude towards the colonial problem was defined—more rapidly than had been anticipated—in a communique issued by the Premier, M. Daladier to the press this afternoon, in which it was emphasized that the French Government does not contemplate entering into negotiations regarding the cession of any part of French colonial possessions.

It is further stressed that no such negotiations have ever been opened at any previous time.

Publication of the communique was followed by a visit paid to the Premier by the deputy chairman of the Chamber's Colonial Commission,
M. Taillinger.—Trans-Ocean.

POSITION DEFINED IN COMMONS

London, Nov. 16.

In the House of Commons to-day
Mr. G. le M. Mander asked the Premier what action he proposed to take with reference to the demand for the return of colonies advanced by Herr Hitler at Godesberg, and whether he would give assurance that it is still the policy of the Government that the matter will only be considered as part of a general settlement.

In reply, Sir John Simon referred
Mr. Mander to the reply given by Mr. Chamberlain on November 10.

Mr. Mander asked for a specific answer to the latter part of the question with regard to a general settlement, and Sir John Simon answered that the statements that had been made on the subject could certainly stand.—Reuter.

These Two Looters Were Caught In Canton

TWO OF THE HUNDREDS OF LOOTERS who ravaged Canton after its evacuation by Chinese troops and police, and preceding the Japanese entry into the city. Chinese Self-Defence forces, who operated even after the Japanese entry, rounded up the looters and tied them to posts with suitable notices pinned to their clothing. What happened to them subsequently is unknown.

Japan's Attempt To Crush Trade

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16.

REGARDING THE JAPANESE REFUSAL to open the Yangtze, a Chinese spokesman said to-day that this was Tokyo's reply to the French, British and American notes, and it indicates that Japan insists upon the "exclusive use of the most important Chinese waterway."

This measure is a "most powerful weapon with which to crush foreign trade all over China, besides enabling Japan to carry out other illegal actions."

The spokesman said that Japan, by so doing, intends to reduce China to an exclusive market for Japanese exporters.

He added that the Japanese will hastily exploit "the illegal position maintained by 'Jooce', whereby Japanese mercantile ships can move freely."

He said that shipping was the last line of defence of Western commercial interests in China, and added that the measures taken by the Western Powers in presenting merely diplomatic notes was insufficient because in Tokyo there was a large heap of Western protests to most of which Japan offers excuses, and an effective "No" to the latest tri-Power protest.

The spokesman said that the Western Powers should take "firm action and suitable reprisals" against the Japanese position.

Further delay on the part of the Western Powers to adopt proper actions would mean further increasing losses by Western interests in China.—United Press.

U.S. KNOWS OF BRITISH ATTITUDE

London, Nov. 16.

Mr. A. C. Moberg put two questions in the House of Commons today about the American note to Japan on October 8.

Firstly he asked whether the Government had notified Japan that it was in agreement with this note, to which Mr. Butler, in a written reply, referred Mr. Moberg to a written answer given on November 10, adding "I am satisfied that the Japanese Government is fully aware of the attitude of the Government."

JAPAN'S CURRENCY JUGGLING

London, Nov. 16.

In the House of Commons to-day
Mr. J. C. Hannah (Cons.) asked whether the Government was aware that British trade in North China was still held up by the continued imposition of an inconvertible paper currency by the Japanese; whether any action had been taken by the Government to permit the resumption of normal credit facilities; and if not,
what steps were being taken.

Japanese In Retreat In South China

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16.

AT A PRESS CONFERENCE to-day the Chinese military spokesman reviewed the recent military situation and said that in Kiangsi the opposing forces were facing each other on the Hsiu River, while sanguinary fighting had taken place in the mountainous regions north of Pingkiang.

Chinese forces had retreated from Yochow only after inflicting heavy casualties on the Japanese in a three-day battle on the Yochow sector.

Regarding South China, the spokesman said that in the course of a counter-offensive the Chinese had recaptured most of the cities around Canton, including Taiching, Waichow, Pokio, east of Canton, and Tsungshu
north-east of Canton.

He said that the Japanese counter-attacks on Tamshui, east of Canton, had so far been repulsed.

The Canton-Kowloon railway
had been cut in several places by
the Chinese troops, and at present
all of the Japanese troops from north of Canton had been withdrawn to inside Canton city, desperately defending Canton, while anxiously awaiting reinforcements.

He said that over 40 Japanese war ships were reported to be sailing northward up the Pearl River to Canton.

A Japanese unit holding Samshui had suffered heavy losses as result of Chinese counter-attacks, and he said that despite the Japanese intention to cross the Yellow River from Shanghai and north Homan, the Chinese defence around the loop of the Yellow River had tightened, and it was believed that the Yellow River defence
was unpenetrable.

The spokesman, giving a bird's-eye view of all the fronts said that in North China the Japanese were anxious to occupy the entire Peking-Hankow railway by attacking Cheng-
chow, and also to cut the Lunghai railway at Tungshan by crossing the Yellow River at Fenglingtu or Motsintu.

In South China the Japanese military were maintaining a defensive position at Canton. However, a fierce attack on north Hunan aimed at an early capture of Changsha in order to swallow the entire Canton-Hankow railway.

At West Hupoh, he said, the Japanese were doing their utmost to advance to Sashih.

The spokesman refused to reveal the names of the commanders in the Canton counter-offensive but said
that there were "capable men."

CHANGSHA ADVANCE
CONTINUING

Shanghai, Nov. 16.

The Japanese advance on Changsha
is continuing, with two columns striking southward, the first of which is following the railway from Yochow, while the second is progressing along the Tuncheng-Changsha highway,
east of the railway.

The next objectives of these columns is Shishih, about seven miles east of the railway line which will be attacked by the first column,
while the second column will attack Pingkiang, about 32 miles east of the railway.

Both towns are situated on the Hsi River, and are about halfway to Changsha from Yochow and Tung-cheng respectively, the remaining distance in each case being about 44
miles.

Fires are still raging in Changsha
and are now spreading to the north
gate where foreign missionary property is situated. There are still a number of foreigners in Changsha, including 30 Germans, mostly missionaries, and also several businessmen.—Trans-Ocean.

London, Nov. 16.

Negotiations for the Anglo-American trade agreement have successfully concluded, and the agreement will be signed to-morrow in Washington, declared Mr. Oliver Stanley, ambassador in the House of Commons today.

He added that the agreement would come into force on January 1.
Mr. Stanley said he understood the agreement between the United States and Canada would be signed simultaneously.—Reuter.

TERRIBLE YAUMATI HOLOCAUST

RAGING INFERNO
TRAPS CHILDREN

Nine people including seven children from two to eight years old and two small-footed women were burnt to death, one boy and two women including an expectant mother were badly injured, and eight women and children were injured when fire gutted No.
227, Shanghai Street at Yaumati at midnight.

Wooden stairs in the two-storey building were mainly responsible for the heavy casualties in the worst fire of the year in Hongkong.

When the fire was discovered by the inmates of the first and second stories of the building, the stairs were already ablaze.
A number of inmates escaped to the neighbouring buildings by the roof top while 11 women and children jumped down from the first storey.

Though all of them were injured, they escaped the fate of others who were buried in the fire.

The fire which broke out at midnight was extinguished at 1.45 a.m.

A large number of the ill-fated people were refugees, women and children from Canton.

ing the Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese forces in South China arrived in harbour this morning and salute were exchanged preparatory to conversations between Mr. E. Admiral Sir Percy Noble and the distinguished visitor.

Vice-Admiral Shiozawa, who is

tion from Admiral Sir Percy Noble to discuss means of improving Anglo-Japanese naval relations.

Admiral Shiozawa has accordingly taken the opportunity afforded by the conclusion of present Can-

Police Found 257 Bottles in Flat Poison Search

Mrs. Elsie Rose Newlands (39), of Temple Chambers, E.C., wife of Frank Newlands, the poisoned City steward, was found not guilty of his murder and discharged at the Mansion House recently.

Horace Budd (29), engineer, of Hacton Drive, Hornchurch, Essex, also charged with the murder, was committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court.

Before the Court rose, Mrs. Newlands, accompanied by a friend, went down to the cells and later left the Mansion House with friends.

It was stated that the police, searching for poison in the Newlands' flat, found 257 bottles of various drinks. They did not find any poison.

Newlands, who was steward of a block of offices and flats at Temple Chambers, died in St. Bartholomew's Hospital on August 21.

Dr. A. Jordan, house physician at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, said that Mrs. Newlands visited the hospital several times on the Sunday and offered to give a blood transfusion for her husband. The transfusion did not appear to help him very much. He telephoned to Mrs. Newlands later and told her that her husband was in a grave condition. She came to the hospital again and sat at her husband's bedside. She was a little worried.

WHEN NEWLANDS DIED

Mr. H. A. K. Morgan (prosecuting in the absence of Mr. G. B. McClure) said she remained there until the end?—No, after about 20 minutes she told me that it distressed her too much to see him in that condition and she went outside the ward.

Dr. Jordan said that when Mrs. Newlands was dead she started to cry.

Cross-examined by Mr. Maurice Healy, K.C. (for Mrs. Newlands), Dr. Jordan said that a pint of blood was taken from Mrs. Newlands. Detective Inspector W. Francis said that he searched the Newlands' flat for any bottle containing poison. He searched every conceivable hiding place, including the roof, the lift-shaft and gutters. He was not successful.

Two hundred and fifty-seven bottles, including gin, whisky, beer and ginger-beer bottles were found.

HAPPY MARRIED LIFE

Inspector Francis produced a statement which he said Mrs. Newlands made on August 21.

In this alleged statement Mrs. Newlands described what happened at the flat on the morning of August 20 and how she cooked lunch for her husband and his friends. Her husband had a drink of whisky, and she heard him shout, "Cecili, come and taste this." The statement concluded, "We have enjoyed happiness during the whole of our married life." Inspector Francis said that Mrs. Newlands made a further statement after being cautioned on August 21. In this, which was also quoted by counsel when the case was opened, Mrs. Newlands, it was alleged, explained in greater detail the events of August 20.

BUDD'S ALLEGED DENIALS

Mr. Morgan next read a statement alleged to have been made by Budd on August 21, in which he said that his attache-case did not contain a bottle of any kind, neither did he use one on the job of mending the urn. He did not see a black bottle with a white label in the kitchen or in the bedroom.

Inspector Francis said that on August 22 Budd again called at Snow Hill and said: "I have been thinking over the matter, and I realise I have not told you all I know."

"I was worried about it, and a solicitor advised me to inform the police of the whole of the facts."

"SPILT ON THE TABLE"

"As a matter of fact I did have a bottle at Temple Chambers and I used the contents, or some of them, on the job when cleaning the metal before I turned it."

"There was some spirits of salt in the bottle, some of which I spilt on the table and on the side of the bottle. I wiped this off and put the bottle down on the floor."

Budd described how after the job he packed his tools and put the bottle on the floor by the side of the table. Later he found that it had gone. He searched the fourth and fifth floors, but could not find it.

TOOK MRS. NEWLANDS OUT

Inspector Francis said that on August 30 Budd made another statement, after being cautioned.

Mr. Morgan read this statement, which explained in detail the relationship between Budd and the Newlands. Budd said that it was at Mrs. Newlands' invitation that he at times took Mrs. Newlands out.

The statement continued, "When I looked for the bottle and could not find it I was surprised. Someone had taken it."

"It struck me for the first time that Frank had drunk the spirits of salt. I reasoned out what had happened—that Frank had at some time or another entered the kitchen, seen the bottle on the floor, thought it was whisky, and took it into the bedroom and drank it or poured it into a partly consumed bottle of whisky."

TOLD TO GET OUT

George A. Ring, fruiterer and florist, of Thornhill Square, Barnsbury, said he delivered goods at the Newlands' flat on August 19 and 20. On Saturday, August 20, he called in the afternoon about 2 o'clock and was invited with his sister to go into the sitting room and have a drink.

Mr. G. B. McClure (who appeared as a witness) said that he saw Mrs. Newlands. "He seemed rather excited," he said. "In what mood was Mr. Newlands?"—He seemed rather excited. The happy side yet agitated at times. Ring added that in the sitting room he saw Budd. "Mr. Newlands asked him to get out," he continued. "He asked him a second time: 'Go on, get out.'"

MRS. NEWLANDS LEAVES

Mr. McClure asked the Lord Mayor to consider the question of committing Budd and Mrs. Newlands for trial. The Lord Mayor: I am satisfied that no jury would convict Mrs. Newlands and she is discharged.

Mrs. Newlands, who throughout the day's hearing had sat in the dock closely following the evidence, immediately rose and left the dock.

She sat among friends just behind the dock while Mr. Daybell made a submission that there was no prima facie case against Budd.

"These two persons," said Mr. Daybell, "were arrested jointly upon a charge of murder. Why, I do not know. If I may respectfully say so, I think you have done the right thing in discharging Mrs. Newlands."

NO LOVE PACT

"Having done that, where does it leave this joint charge of murder? There was some time when the prosecution probably thought that they might be able to suggest or prove something like a pact between Mrs. Newlands and Budd for the purpose of supplying a motive. There was no love pact—that you have found because you have held that if any offence was committed she was not a party to it."

That leaves only Budd. What motive was there for him to kill his best friend? No motive is attempted to be shown here."

The Lord Mayor said he was satisfied that there was sufficient evidence for a prima facie case, and that Budd should stand his trial.

Budd, who formally pleaded not guilty and reserved his defence, was committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court.

He made application for legal aid, and when asked by the Clerk what were his means, replied, "I have nothing at all." Legal aid was granted.

BONFIRE NIGHT

"BLACK-OUT"

The Home Office A.R.P. Department decided recently to stage a "black-out" test throughout the whole of Hertfordshire on November 5—Guy Fawkes night.

The "black-out" ran from 11:45 p.m. to 2:30 a.m., and the idea was that no light should be visible from the air.

Herts County Council put all the local A.R.P. organisations into practice, including the warning signals.

Bonfires and fireworks displays were not to be banned. "Bonfires were rather encouraged, I fancy, because they usefully represented the effect of incendiary bombs and do not distinguish any particular place," said Mr. Elton Longmore, Clerk to the Hertfordshire County Council.

"We took all the possibilities of Guy Fawkes night into consideration, and the 'black-out' did not lose any of its value by being held then."

The re-commencement of dances at the Repulse Bay Hotel has proved most popular as can be seen from the large crowd photographed recently at the Hotel.—Staff Photographer.

Over 400 per cent Profit Made on Crisis Sandbags

The Home Office A.R.P. Department is to deal not only with the problem of the disposal of the large quantities of sandbags, timber and corrugated iron bought by local authorities during Crisis Week, but also with allegations of profiteering.

Inquiries have already been made into the sharp rise in the price of timber. Some local authorities express alarm at the bills they will have to face.

It is probable that a conference will be arranged with the Iron and Steel Federation with a view to solving the problem of disposal of surplus stocks, and that cases of alleged profiteering will be dealt with by negotiation with individual traders.

Mr. F. S. Cathro, Dundee secretary of the Association of Jute Spinners and Manufacturers, told the News Chronicle that the price of jute sandbags as supplied to the Government was fixed by agreement and there was no increase during the crisis.

It remained at approximately 2½d. each.

Mr. F. S. Cathro, Dundee secretary of the Association of Jute Spinners and Manufacturers, told the News Chronicle that the price of jute sandbags as supplied to the Government was fixed by agreement and there was no increase during the crisis.

He mentioned a case in which a merchant secured a supply of imported Indian jute cloth and made a profit of £200 in one night. Glasgow Corporation will discuss allegations of profiteering. It is stated that thousands of sandbags normally priced at about 2d. were sold for 10d.

Middlemen are alleged to have bought sacks at a low price and then

Footing the A.R.P. Bill: Westminster £64,275

A.R.P. measures carried out during the emergency in the City of Westminster cost (estimate) £64,275.

The net amount payable by the Council is expected to be about £25,700, after allowing for a 60 per cent. Government grant.

The Council's A.R.P. Committee in a report make no allegation of profiteering, but state that one of the lessons of the crisis is that steps should be taken to prevent an undue rise in prices of materials.

Here are outstanding items in Westminster's bill of expenses:

£30,000—Trench digging, labour and transport;
£22,000—Timber;
£2,415—Sand and filling machines.

In all, 99,059 were fitted with masks the highest daily total being 25,443.

Twelve hundred wardens offered their services, and altogether a staff of 1,900 was available for part-time service.

Nearly four miles of trenches were dug by 3,500 men.

Half a million sandbags were requisitioned from the Government.

The committee recommend regular tactical exercises for all A.R.P. workers.

PROFITS AND HOARDS
Detailed accounts of profiteering are not yet available at the Home Office, but cases have already come to light of materials jumping 200 per cent in price.

A committee of Leicester City Council alleged that sandbags cost 25s. a hundred, whereas the price a few days before the crisis was 10s. In one case of hoarding mentioned it was stated that an order delivered to a home "not in a working-class

PROHIBITION POLL IN AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE.
After a bitter campaign on the question whether liquor licences should be abolished, Victoria went to the polls recently. The abolitionists sustained a crushing defeat.

The number of votes cast in favour of abolition was 343,130. Those against numbered 634,276.

A 60 per cent. majority, or at least a vote representing 30 per cent. of the registered electorate is necessary for abolition to become law. The results show that only about 34 per cent. of those voting were in favour of change. At the polling in 1930 the percentage was 43.

Victoria's two "dry" areas this time polled against abolition, and in all areas, especially in industrial centres, the anti-abolition vote was increased.

Observers claim that the experience of the United States was largely used to sway the voters. The prohibition party maintain that voters were persuaded incorrectly that the issue was prohibition, rather than abolition of licences.

If licences had been abolished, the sale, supply, barter or disposal of liquor within the State would have been prohibited. Manufacture would still have been permitted.

The liquor interest has throughout the campaign argued that this would amount to virtual prohibition. The temperance parties, however, denied this, maintaining that liquor quotas for each citizen could be established by law.

"BABY RACE" PRIZE WINNER CHARGED

TORONTO.
A charge of arson has been made against Mrs. Kenny, a recipient of a consolation prize from the estate of Mr. Vance Miller the eccentric millionaire, who left £100,000 to the Toronto woman giving birth to the most children in the 10 years following his death.

She was arrested after a fire broke out at the house which she purchased with her winnings. She has been remanded for an examination of her mental condition.

In March Mr. Justice Middleton decided that the £100,000 should be divided among three women, each of whom gave birth to nine children in 10 years.

Mrs. Kenny, three of whose children were stillborn, was not one of these beneficiaries. It was stated, however, that following the lodging of a claim by her an agreement had been reached.

FIRST 80 M.P.H. MAN 'CARELESS' Crashed, drove on, fined

Lieut.-Colonel Charles Jarrott, the most famous man in motor racing thirty years ago, a founder and past chairman of the Automobile Association, and the first man to keep up a speed of more than 80 m.p.h. on a long stretch, was fined £5 and ordered to pay £7 costs at West London Police Court recently for careless driving.

He was also fined 40s. for failing to stop after an accident. His licence was endorsed.

Colonel Jarrott, it was alleged, after colliding with a car in Kensington-road, drove on.

A taxi chased him to the Knightsbridge Barracks. There the driver told the colonel there had been an accident and asked him to wait.

Colonel Jarrott declined and drove off. The taxi driver again stopped him and a policeman was called.

Colonel Jarrott, who lives at Vandor Court, Buckingham Gate, S.W., said he had been driving for over forty-two years without an accident of any sort, except on the race track.

'I WAS ANNOYED'

He attributed the collision to a large saloon car pulling out and causing him to swerve across the road.

Questioned about why he drove on, Colonel Jarrott added: "I was annoyed with the taxi driver because I thought he was taking it upon himself to interfere."

The magistrate (Sir Gervais Bennett) said: "One would have thought that Colonel Jarrott would have thanked the taxi driver instead of thinking it was impertinence on his part to stop him."

"It surprises me that Colonel Jarrott, with all his experience, should have taken that attitude at all. He took the most high-handed attitude about it, and then, driving on, has to be pursued again."

"He does not appear to have treated the matter in at all the right way."

When Gas-Masks Are Dangerous

It has been reported to the Home Office that people have been testing their gas-masks with domestic gas and with exhaust fumes from motor-cars.

"The public are warned against this highly dangerous practice," the Home Office states. "The Government respirators are not designed to give any protection against ordinary domestic gas, which would not be used in the event of war."

MOBILE POLICEMEN HUNT THEIR OWN CAR

New York. Somebody telephoned the police that a motorcar was being driven recklessly up and down the street at Rock Hill, South Carolina, and gave the licence number of the car.

Two officers, cruising in a patrol car were ordered to hunt the offender and they hunted—until one of them noticed that the number reported was that of their own car.

Grass Salads Help Blue Boy to Grow Into a Champion

Champion Heatherland Blue Boy was brought to London by his owner, Mrs. Askew, recently to take part in the Blue Persian Cat Society's Championship Show.

And so wonderful was his colour—even to the roots—his broad skull, his huge "copper" eyes, his short nose and his strong muscles, that they not only plastered his cage with red tickets but voted him the best cat in the show.

And how does a champion do himself at home in Takeley, near Bishops Cleeve? Mrs. Askew said: "Fish in the morning, rabbit or raw meat at night, goats' milk—no cows' milk—lots of cold water and plenty of fresh grass—a cat's salad."

HE LIKES CUCKOOS

The next best cat in the show was Judy—Judy of Pensford. Judy is a young person seventeen months' old and left her family, three "boys" and two "girls," at home at Beckenham to come to town for the show—her first adult competition.

Tweddledum—of Dunask, received two firsts, a couple of seconds and a reserve.

Tweddledum has a fancy for cuckoos, though he has never tasted one. But his mistress, Mrs. Jackson, of Worcester Park, often finds him climbing up the chain of the cuckoo clock when the bird pops out.

Tweddledum has learned that, tugging at a tug and Tweddledum is off like a flash up the chain.

Highcourt Judge Leaves His Clerk £3,000

A faithful clerk is remembered in the will of Mr. Justice Horridge, published recently. They had been together for nearly fifty years.

The judge, who retired in May of last year, left a net fortune of £27,468. He gave £3,000 to his clerk, Mr. Thomas Edward Barton, of Canonbie-road, Honour Oak, S.E., and another £10,000 goes to him on the death of the judge's widow.

"Tommy" Barton entered the service of the judge in Southampton nearly half a century ago. He followed him to London when he was called to the bar; was with him when he was building up a big reputation as a K.C.

When Mr. Horridge—as he then was—was elevated to the Bench, the day after Mr. Justice Ivory was made a judge, "Tommy" Barton went along.

Barton was the ideal judge's clerk. He knew his master and his methods so well he could usually anticipate the judge's needs. He always sat alongside him on the bench, followed so closely the cases heard by Horridge that he often had text books ready before the judge called for them.

When ill-health and failing eyesight finally drove Mr. Justice Horridge from the Bench, the faithful Barton went along, too. He had offers from other judges, but preferred not to change.

Judge and clerk were both Lancashire men.

12,000,000th Visitor For Empire Exhibition

London. Mrs. George Wilson, of Glasgow, was welcomed through the turnstile recently, as the 12,000,000th visitor to the exhibition, (Glasgow).

In the south-stand she was presented by Sir Cecil Weir, chairman of the board of management with a gold watch and a cheque for £10. Had she been a season ticket holder the cheque would have been for £15.

She was also given the freedom of the exhibition. It was hoped that 15,000,000 people would visit the exhibition, but that was too much to expect.

Dog Ownership Restricted

San Carlos, Cal. The city council has passed an ordinance limiting the number of dogs that can be kept in the city to two for each family. The idea was to banish the number of dog kennels formerly maintained here.

Premier Mussolini of Italy has no sympathy for paunchy men, but admires an athlete. Here the 55-year-old dictator sets the pace for his officers.

Babies Are To Have Their Own Masks

The Chemical Defence Research Department have now produced a protective device against poison gas for babies under four years.

'ONE ERROR IN 150,000'

ARMED MAN IN THE ADMIRALTY

—Court Story
12.20 a.m. Arrest
Described

Charged with breaking into an office in the Admiralty with intent to commit a felony, George Arthur Cooper, aged 19, a homeless seaman, was remanded in custody at Bow-street, recently.

Cooper was also charged with having in his possession without lawful excuse a Colt automatic .25 calibre pistol, and house-breaking implements.

Det.-Insp. Salisbury asked for a remand to inquire into certain property found in Cooper's possession. Police-constable Sedgwick said that while on duty in Trafalgar-square at 12.20 a.m. he heard a police whistle blowing.

CROUCHING UNDER A DESK

He ran to the Admiralty, jumped into an area, climbed through a window which apparently had been forced, and found Cooper crouching underneath a desk.

Lying on the desk was a Colt automatic pistol.

Two of the desk drawers were open and an attempt had been made to force open another.

ATTACHE CASE FOUND

When Cooper was charged he replied, "No."

He had on him gloves, a glass cutter, two penknives, two bolts, and other things.

An attache case containing several articles was found at the Admiralty.

BROKE LEG WHILE ASLEEP

A hospital patient at Burton-on-Trent awoke one morning recently to find his leg had been broken since he went to bed. Neither he nor the attendants had any idea how it happened.

The injury proved fatal, and at the inquest recently the jury found that the patient, Joseph William Smith, aged 31, died from myocardial failure, following a fracture of the right leg. Dr. J. B. Stanley expressed the opinion that Smith had a fit during the night and fractured his leg during his struggles.

The Cash Register

Germany had a £4,200,000 trade deficit for the month of September it is just revealed.

Imports totalled 492,700,000 marks (£241,000,000), and exports were 441,800,000 marks (£230,000,000).

These stark economic facts cannot be obliterated by either the blusterings of Five-Year Planner Goering or prosperity-propagandist Goebbels.

Nor can a wondering world quite reconcile the boast of fewer than 5,000 unemployed in Germany with the need of street collections to provide winter relief for nine millions.

DOCTOR'S BLOOD TESTS

A 28-year-old mother made legal history recently when she appealed at Middlesex Quarter Sessions against the dismissal of an application for a patent order following evidence of a blood test.

It was the first appeal of its kind to be heard in this country, and, after a three-hours hearing, it was dismissed.

The girl was Miss Marie Louise Morrison, of Nelson-road, Hornsey, N., who alleged that Sidney Baron, of Dunsmore-road, Stamford Hill, N., was father of her eight-months-old son.

When she summoned him at Highgate last June, the case was dismissed after the Bench had heard evidence of blood tests taken by Dr. J. C. Thomas, a Wimpole-street consulting pathologist.

Still in his early thirties, Dr. Thomas was the chief witness. He said he made four blood tests.

"No biological test can be infallible," he pointed out, "but in this case I am convinced that Baron is not the father of Miss Morrison's child."

TESTS WITH 3 SERA

"The tests showed that Miss Morrison's blood belonged to group 'M,' and Baron's to group 'N,' while the baby possessed only group 'M.'"

Baron was the doctor. "If Baron were the father he would be bound to pass on substance 'N' to the child."

In cross-examination by Mr. Frank Milton, defending, Dr. Thomas said the chance of an error in such a blood test was 150,000 to 1.

Accidental Death Of Dentist

London. At the inquest of Mr. Frederick Ransom Pickard, thirty-six-year-old dentist, held at Southgate recently, a verdict of accidental death was returned.

Dr. John Oliver, of Cockfosters, said Mr. Pickard was wearing a nasal piece of the gas apparatus and holding a bulb attached to a tube. It was a new invention for patients to give themselves gas if they felt pain during the filling of teeth.

An analgesia attachment which was connected to the patient's end of the tube should have been attached to the mixing top-cock of gas and oxygen apparatus. Mr. George Wellesley, managing director of the firm manufacturing the apparatus, explained that if the attachment were at the patient's end and were tilted, gas would not be held back owing to the gravity valve not being closed.

Death was due to poisoning by nitrous-oxide gas.

Son's Body in Father's Net

Rome. When a Cagliari fisherman pulled in his net recently he found the body of his 12-year-old son. The boy had been on the way down the shore to his father's boat when he was drowned.

British Envoy
In Capital

Chungking, Nov. 16.
The British Ambassador, Sir Archibald
Kerr Clark Kerr, called on Dr.
H. H. Kung this morning, and Mr.
Wang Chung-hui this afternoon.

Mr. Wang Chung-hui's dinner in honour of Sir Archibald to-night has been postponed owing to the Ambassador's slight eye trouble.

Sino-British circles point out that Sir Archibald's visit is a routine one.
In British circles it is understood that the Ambassador has not offered to mediate in the Sino-Japanese conflict because he has not received a mandate to do so.—United Press.

FIVE-POWER PARLEYS

Government to the Jews.

U. S. REPRESENTATION

Another message from Berlin says that it is learned that the United States has formally made representations regarding damage to American property, reserving all rights which include a demand for reparations.
It is reported that other countries have taken, or contemplate taking, similar steps. It is understood that Americans have at least four claims, one of which is outside Berlin.

Diplomatic circles emphasised that foreign governments were not only interested in forcing recognition of damage claims, but were desirous of obtaining a definite ruling concerning foreign Jews being exempted from finances. They were also determined to obtain a reply to the contention that foreign Jews are entitled to re-open their shops.

Meanwhile Germany has answered world-wide attacks with a furious press onslaught on foreign countries, including America, and some well-informed circles believe that Herr Hitler will answer President Roosevelt's condemnation at Herr von Rath's funeral at Dusseldorf.—

CATHOLICS INCLUDED IN STATEMENT

Washington, Nov. 16.
It was stated at the White House to-day that President Roosevelt's statement regarding Germany's treatment of the minorities applies to Catholics as well as Jews.

Mr. Stephen Early, the President's secretary, stated that President Roosevelt's statement was treated in the press as a rather unusual and firm statement regarding Jews only, but it refers to the Catholic situation too.

Mr. Early added that the statement intended to cover the sloning of Cardinal Innitzer's house in Vienna, and measures against Catholics, who,
Mr. Early said, had been mistreated in other parts of Germany.—Reuter.

Apprentice Obtains Keys
To the Safe

Before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday, Fung
King-tai, a 17-year-old apprentice fitter employed at Gilman's Garage, Hennessy Road, was charged with breaking into the Garage on September 28, and stealing $3.00. Another fitter, Chan Ho, 28, was charged with counselling Fung to commit the theft.

Detective-Sergeant J. R. Bentley said that both men were employed at the garage, and early on the morning of September 28, Fung broke in by removing a pane of glass from a door.
He opened a safe in the office and took $3.00. The youth had a relative named Wu Chik-kan, who was a clerk employed in the garage, and knowing that Wu kept the keys to the safe, had stolen them from his home.

Before the theft took place, Chan had urged the youth to steal the keys. Chan was paid wages of $30 per month, while Fung earned $6 per month. Sergeant Bentley added that there had recently been many petty thefts from the garage.

Mr. Forrest remarked that he viewed Chan's offence as more serious, as he had not only been prepared to steal, but had got another person to do the stealing for him.

Chan was sentenced to two months' hard labour, and Fung was bound over in the sum of $50 to be of good behaviour for a year.

Mr. C. Sloan, manager of the garage, appeared as complainant.

Burma-Yunnan
Highway Nears Completion

London, Nov. 16.
"It is hoped that an all-weather road from Lashio to Yunnanfu will be open to regular traffic shortly."
"The practicability of constructing a railway is, I understand, being examined by financial interests concerned."

This reply was given by Mr. R. A.
Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to a question by Mr. Hamilton
W. Kerr in the House of Commons to-day.

Mr. Kerr asked the Prime Minister whether, in view of Japan's action in "hampering foreign trade carried on by sea on the east coast of China," the Government would pay increased attention to the importance of railway communication between Burma and south-west China, and would "cooperate with the Chinese Government," which now had the matter in hand in constructing both road and railway which would carry British exports "free from Japanese interference."—Reuter.

How To Do The Dance The King And Queen Did

Pat Sykes and J. A. Andrews, popular ballroom experts who are entertaining patrons of the Gloucester Hotel nightly, specially posed for these exclusive Telegraph Photographs illustrating the Lambeth Walk. The first picture shows the start of the turn, then the slap and finally the Cockney salute ("Oi").—Staff Photographer.

Lambeth Walk Is Now The Royal Walk

So was set the royal approval on this dance which Eddie Cantor calls a "freak", but which Hongkong socialites are raving about since Pat Sykes and Andy Andrews demonstrated it at the Gloucester Hotel a fortnight ago.

Now it's "Oi, Oi, Oi" everywhere. They're doin' the Lambeth Walk, "Oyez, oyez!" they're doin' the Lambeth Walk, even in Balmoral Castle, though north of the Border they are apt to forget themselves and cry "Hoch Oii!"

Communists, Fascists, Republicans, Royalists; rich men, poor men, beggars, thieves; tinkers, tailors, soldiers, sailors—all dance it. Negroid wiggles were relegated to the bam-bum-bommy shores whence they came, crooners forgot their desire to go back to Dixie, and in the stately homes of England dowagers ejaculated joyful "Ois". Yet it all began in Malda Vale. Mr. Douglas Furber, playwright who has wrought 50 plays, was brought a new piece of music by composer Noel Gay, ex-choirboy of Wakefield Cathedral and deviser of a top-clever revue called "Stop Press."

Furber was inspired. In seven minutes he wrote the words. "It's easy once you get the knack," he said, but no one believes him.

The newly-born dance number was incorporated in "Me and My Girl," the then new Victoria Palace show, and was danced by Lupino Lane, Teddy St. Denis, and the company.

Audiences rolled in their seats, shouted "Oii!" with the company. Astute dance-hall director C. L. Heilmann saw it, sent Miss Adele England, his chief dance teacher, to see it and prepare a ballroom version.

In July the London Conference of the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing declined to take notice of it. They walked. In August the citadel of dimmed tradition at Cowes capitulated, and the elegant company at Northwood House stuck their thumbs in the air and "Oled" with the best of them.

"CHILDISH JIG"

The Walk crossed the Channel and gamblers left the tables to dance it. A Frenchman, shocked at the lack of English "phlegm," wrote: "The Lambeth Walk is in principle a sort of childish jig, danced by couples who walk arm in arm, clapping their hands occasionally to convince themselves that they are very happy, and who at times utter, probably for the same reason and at certain moments indicated by the rhythm, crazy cries."

Now the King and Queen have danced it. The Lambeth Walk has become a Royal walk; it has progressed from Lupino Lane to Park Lane. It has arrived.

office that Governor Davis saw fit to appoint him in addition to the post of Master in Equity, and his nomination was only duly published in the Government Gazette on January 5, 1847. Exactly a week later, he was named to serve in the additional capacity as Registrar of the Admiralty Court, whose Proctor Mr. Norcott D'Esteiro Parker, of whom mention has been made in a previous article in this series.

ESCAPED SCANDAL

Mr. Cay was fortunate in being a man who was interested solely in the pursuit of his official duties, and appears not to have become involved in the series of scandals which were early to centre round the career of Judge Hulme, who was accused by his enemies of being a drunkard, and therefore incapable of occupying the highest seat on the local bench. It was undoubtedly this aloofness from colonial politics which enabled him to remain in his post until April 29, 1856, when he resigned his Registrarship. No reason is given in contemporary records for his withdrawal from his appointment, but it is hinted, that, owing to the death of his wife four years earlier, Mr. Cay found life in Hongkong to be utterly intolerable, and considered it advisable to return to the land of his youth. There he dabbled in politics, and except acting as an agent for the Oriental Bank, entirely severed his connections with the Far East.

The news of his death at Shepperton, near Edinburgh on March 19, 1888, at the age of 81 years, was received with particular regret in the Colony where he had passed some twelve years of his life. The local newspapers spoke of his passing as "marking the end of a decade in our earlier history, which was signalled by the presence of great men, who, during the first years of Hongkong's existence, laid the foundation of the Colony which shall remain throughout the ages as a perpetual memorial to the achievements of the British people."

AMERICAN WOMAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Incident in Tientsin's Danger Zone

Tientsin, Nov. 16. When passing the bridge bordering the racecourse in Chinese territory this morning, Mrs. J. K. Caldwell, wife of the United States Consul-General, narrowly escaped being hit by a bullet, apparently fired by someone hidden in the tall reeds nearby. She heard the shot and saw the bullet strike the water. An unprecedented series of attacks, allegedly by bandits, has occurred here since an order was issued forbidding Chinese and Japanese to attend the races. The outrages include the murder of a Russian dairy proprietor, the hold-up of a prominent Belgian family at their residence and the maltreatment and robbing of a hospital matron. All the attacks occurred in the racecourse area, the insecurity of which is being brought to the attention of consuls.—Reuter.

History's Blot

To find a parallel for the insensate wave of anti-Semitism that has overwhelmed Germany one must turn back the pages of history fifty-seven years to the infamous Russian pogrom of 1881. This pogrom was paralleled in European history only by the Black Death massacres of the 14th century.

The revulsion of feeling which swept Russia and the rest of Europe after the 1881 massacres led to the belief that the word pogrom would never again be heard in European contemporary history.

Germany has proved to the world that modern civilisation can find room for barbarism in times of peace as well as in times of war. The events of recent years had led to the belief that mankind had advanced from the Middle Ages to the extent that the veneer of civilisation was sufficiently strong to preserve at least an elementary form of humanity in countries at peace with their neighbours. It is not in the Third Reich.

Majesty of the Law

The spectacle of police constables arresting small children for the heinous offence of selling newspapers is, to say the least of it, absurd.

It is realised that they would be denied a licence even if their parents applied for one.

Yesterday afternoon, an Indian constable was observed with a bundle of English newspapers in one hand—the damning evidence—the other hand firmly grasping the coat of a young criminal of some nine years of age—marching him off to the police station. With increasing crime in the Colony, it would be thought that the force could be better engaged, especially when it is borne in mind that it has been necessary to mobilise the Special Police Reserve. In any case, the child is making an effort to lead an honest life, and doubtless wonders why he should be prevented from so doing.

It is usually the English newspapers which appear to be singled out for this unpleasant business, although the sellers do not make a nuisance of themselves by shouting. To say that they cause obstruction is also absurd, and they are outnumbered by the sellers of the vernacular papers by probably five to one. The sellers of the English newspapers receive two cents per copy commission, and are thus able to make a comfortable living. Actually, the commission equals the price at which some of the Chinese papers are sold. One wonders whether there is any discrimination shown against sellers of English journals, and if so, why?

creator of the famous wartime character, reports:

Old Bill marches again

OLYMPIA has sheltered many spectacles of considerable diversity in its time—tournaments, prize fights, circuses, mystery plays and exhibitions.

But one might safely assume that the recent display was perhaps the most peculiar in the career of the mammoth show garage.

Over a thousand ex-soldiers, each shedding his peace-time garments and rapidly emerging disguised by the British Legion as an entirely new mammal, known as the Plebiscite Policeman—that is what one could see.

It is only a short while ago that any of this sturdy array of men became even Czechoslovakia conscious, yet here they were ready to leave for that tempestuous and agonised land in the capacity of Pleb 'Cops.

One might imagine that this most bizarre and unexpected happening would lead to bewildered excitement. Not at all.

Uniforms and equipment were dealt out as prosaically as at any military depot, for any ordinary expedition. You can turn yourself into a Plebiscite Policeman as calmly and methodically as collecting component parts for a meal in a canteen.

You just move along from table to table and collect what you want.

Sturdy, bronzed survivors of the twenty years ago struggle took the whole thing as calmly as if it were just one more belated phase of the last Big Bother, which as a matter of fact it is.

More astonishing still is the fact that the men look not only fit enough to be capable temporary policemen, but able to tackle another war as well if necessary. To me they had all the appearance of the best of our veteran soldiers as they existed in reserve battalions when the late war started.

If I had the misfortune to be running a battle at this present time I could wish for no better cast. Put them in khaki and they would be just right for scrambling over mud or lurking in trenches.

This widely representative array of men is culled from all walks of life and from many diverse jobs, which, I was glad to hear, are all being kept open for them to go back to when the stunt is over, by the co-operation of their respective employers.

Some few of them are unemployed, so one welcomes this fairy-

tale-like opportunity for them to have a short, colourful and novel experience coupled with the feeling that they are doing a good job and getting paid for it.

Whether employed or unemployed, whether they come from Devon or Northumberland, Little-Crumble-under-Ledge or London, they all fall into the same mental mould which forever seems to have formed the British soldier.

There he is, as always, the dear fellow, ready to go anywhere just as a matter of course, and with that "thinks not to reason why" attitude which gives one the mixture of a lump in the throat and a laugh.

Terrible as that last war was, it failed to kill the cheer resulting from soldierly companionship. Even the worst wars are not all battle, and these excavated warriors are tickled to death to gather together again, whatever the new job may bring forth.

Their past experiences in common, the brotherly affection

bred of joint hardships and anguish endured in the past, have cemented them forever into one great fraternity.

They are eminently suitable to play the part they are now being organised to play in Czechoslovakia, with that restraint and strength which only comes from hard experience.

They are all around 40 or 50 years of age. Aged in the mud, one might say, and there are not a few who have distinct traces of Old Billism.

Many and many a memory have they mutually and pleasantly to discuss, and they are not going to wait till they get to Czechoslovakia to do so!

Their conversation already, although composed of comparing notes on their peace-time homes and occupations, is highly spirited with old war-time memories of the "Remember when we was back of the line at La Basse" order.

To find Old Bill himself in this environment was what I fully expected, and what came to pass.

It may not be generally known, but Old Bill is now a taxi-driver, and has been of this persuasion for the last ten years.

He belongs to that almost ex-

ting species of driver that has a cab about as old as himself. Rather rare, ultra-loyal within, very high off the ground, a synchro-pating engine, and a wheel base that can do miracles of turning in impossibly narrow streets.

His business largely depends on picking up people when it's pouring with rain and they can't see what they are doing, or being hailed by stray and exhausted pedestrians in taxi-less areas in the dead of night.

It is only natural, therefore, that a chance of blowing a whistle at a Plebiscite would form a welcome rest from his normal work.

I found Old Bill in the Water Bottle Department, and I guessed by the profound look on his face that he was probably calculating how much of the cheapest Pilsen one receptacle would hold.

"Hello, Bill," I said, coming up quietly behind him. "So you are off to Czechoslovakia, eh?"

The great amphibian turned and regarded me with an old and mild stare.

"Yes, Sir, I never been on a Plebiscite job before, but I'll 'ave a good go at it. It's a Plebby sight better than a war, anyway."

"It's nothing to do with a war, Bill. All you've got to do is help sort everybody out, and see that they all go where they want to go."

Bill frowned.

"I'll get the Homes and Aways all right, but the Draws is goin' to be difficult."

A general noise of men mustering together as at a "Fall In" disturbed our conversation. Turning, I saw that a company of Legionnaires had by now been completely served out with their equipment, and were about to march in a body out of the hall.

"Come on, Bill, let's see them come out into the road. Perhaps there is a parade out there or something."

Old Bill agreed, and together we left Olympia, going out into the road and night outside. Buses roared past, and a medley of yellow street lights punctuated the damp, cold darkness.

Out came the body of Legionnaires, carrying their loaded dark blue kit bags over their shoulders. For no other reason than habit, they started trudging two deep along the shiny wet pavement towards Hammersmith.

With slow, confident tread, the veterans plodded on, those self-same veterans who had long ago plodded so often together before.

Perhaps to many of them the lamp-posts became shattered trees; the pavement, a muddy sunken road; Hammersmith, maybe, was Hooge, and the sound of buses the noise of clanking equipment. Who knows?

By the look on Old Bill's face I think they did to him.

To-day's Thought

PACK up your troubles in the old kit-bag and smile, smile, smile!

Man Who Started The Supreme Court In H.K.

ONE of the early officials in the service of the Hongkong Government was Mr. Robert Dundas Cay, the first Registrar of the Supreme Court. He was a man of unusual ability, and his name is inseparably linked with that of the establishment of British justice in the Far East; for like the founder of the Court, Judge John Walter Hulme, he was noted for his rigid adherence to the course of duty.

SCOTTISH OUTLOOK

Mr. Robert Dundas Cay was born at North Charlton, Northumberland in the year 1807. He was the youngest son of Robert Hodshon Cay, Esq., a landowner of some means and incidentally a Calvinist of strong leanings. This factor and the proximity of the County to the Scottish border were largely instrumental in determining that the education of his son should be entirely in a Caledonian atmosphere. As a result, Mr.

Cay grew up more Scottish than English in his outlook—a fact which was abundantly evidenced in his speech—which, according to contemporary accounts, was, in addition to the customary Northumbrian burr distinguished by a fund of anecdote typically Scottish in origin, and testified his cultural affinities with the land and people of Sir Walter Scott and Robbie Burns.

Although very little is known of the early life of Mr. Cay in his Homeland, we do know that after his graduation at the University of Edinburgh, he obtained the situation of writer to the Signet which he held for many years. His diligence in this post won for him a wide recognition among members of the legal profession, so that by the time that he was thirty-five or thereabouts, he came under the notice of John Walter Hulme, who had just been appointed to organise a Court of Superior Jurisdiction in

Her Majesty's newly acquired Colony of Hongkong. As a result of the recognition of Judge Hulme of his capacity, Mr. Cay was chosen to accompany him to the Far East as a member of the personnel of the new Governor, Sir John Davis.

STARTED COURT

Mr. Cay, as a component of one of the most distinguished official groups which have ever set sail for the Far East arrived in Hongkong on board H.M.S. Spitfire on May 7, 1844. The specific task of creating a complete court of judicial procedure was no sinecure, and it is an eloquent testimony to the determination of the founders that the work which they set upon to accomplish was completed less than six months later, and the Supreme Court of the Colony of Hongkong was opened on October 1, 1844.

Air Raid Precautions

SEVERAL "BLACKOUT" EXERCISES DURING COMING MANOEUVRES

During combined manoeuvres which will be held in the last week of this month, Government is taking the opportunity afforded by the atmosphere of military exercises to make thorough tests of the air raid precautions of the Colony.

Detailed instructions are given below for the guidance of the general public, who will not be inconvenienced by the arbitrary severance of electric current, but are asked to co-operate fully to make the tests a success.

The programme and information given below have been circulated by the Air Raid Precautions Officer for Hongkong, Wing-Commander A. H. S. Steele-Perkins.

It has been decided by Government that during the forthcoming combined manoeuvres from 10 p.m. on November 21 to the morning of November 22, a series of "blackout" exercises will also be held in the Colony and certain Air Raid Precaution services will be tested.

The first "blackout" exercise will commence at 9.15 p.m. on November 24 and will end at 11.15 the same night.

The second "blackout" exercise will consist of two parts described as Phase I and Phase II. The total duration of the whole of this exercise will be approximately one hour, and will commence at any time during the dark hours between November 25 and 27.

For the purpose of these exercises there will be a "precautionary period" commencing at 10 p.m. on the night of November 21 and ending at midnight on November 23. This period will be followed immediately by an air raid warning period which may last until the night of November 27.

Objects of Exercises

The objects sought in the tests are: to ascertain the degree of darkness which can be obtained; the speed with which all lights in the Colony can either be extinguished or obscured; to exercise certain Air Raid Precaution services under restricted lighting conditions; and to obtain observation reports from aircraft on the efficiency of the Colony's darkening arrangements.

The following particulars of Exercise No. 1 are announced:

(i) Date and time.—November 24 at 9.15 p.m.

(ii) Air Raid Alarm.—No air raid alarm will be sounded for this exercise, and the exercise will automatically commence at 9.15 p.m. on November 24.

(iii) Action to be taken by Heads of Departments and by the General Public.

Extinguish all illuminated advertisements and signs.

Extinguish or obscure all domestic lighting, so that no light is visible external to the building.

Extinguish all street lighting.

Blinds of railway carriages to be lowered.

Shipping in or entering the harbour to darken ship.

Extinguish headlights and internal lights of all motor vehicles and other types of transport, including rickshaws and bicycles.

Dim the side and rear lights of all vehicular traffic with two thicknesses of dark blue cloth.

(iv) Termination of Exercise No. 1.—11.15 p.m., November 24.

Note.—Railway Station signal lights and navigation lights, both shipping and aircraft, must remain alight.

In the interval between No. 1 and No. 2 exercises, lighting restrictions will not be enforced, but it would be unwise for the community to relax lighting restrictions to any great extent as it must be remembered that the community will be called upon to again restrict lighting for exercise No. 2.

Second Exercise

Exercise No. 2 consists of two phases.

(i) First phase, date and time.—Will not be made public.

(ii) Period of first phase.—Thirty minutes.

(iii) Air Raid Alarm.—The sounding of ships' sirens and of whistles in possession of private factories.

The brilliancy of all public and private electric lighting will be alternatively reduced and increased over the period of one minute.

An announcement immediately prior to the "blackout" will be made over the wireless.

The switching off of street lighting, Sounding of railway whistles.

The firing of maroons from Police Stations in the New Territories.

(iv) Action to be taken by Heads of Departments and the general public as previously set out.

(v) Termination of phase I of the exercise.—The switching on of street lighting which will remain alight for an interval of two minutes.

Phase 2 of the Exercise follows the first test.

(vi) Time of second phase.—Two minutes after the expiration of phase I.

(vii) Period of second phase.—Twenty minutes.

(viii) Air Raid Alarm.—The temporary switching on and off of street lighting.

(ix) Action to be taken by Heads of Departments and the general public.—As indicated above but all types of traffic will cease to run during this period, except those authorised by the Naval, Military, Air Force, Air Raid Precautions, Fire, Police and Medical Services.

(x) Termination of Phase II of the exercise.—The switching on of street lighting.

Transport Precaution

During Phase II all other forms of transport should, where applicable, be drawn into the side of the road, etc., when all lights should be extinguished and every precaution taken to park vehicles, etc., in a safe place so as to avoid the possibility of accidents.

All the "blackout" exercises will be considered in complete darkness (phases I and II) and other forms of phase II, and will be indicated by the switching on of all street lighting when all private lighting may again be switched on and normal conditions resumed.

During the whole of exercise No. 2 (phases I and II) all other forms of public and private lighting are to remain either extinguished or obscured.

Sounding of Alarm Signals.—It would be greatly appreciated if the Naval, Military, Air Force, and other companies and owners of factories would issue instructions to those concerned to the effect that the sounding of ships' sirens etc. and factory whistles to indicate the commencement of exercise No. 2 should commence automatically as soon as the air raid warning is either seen or heard by any of the methods indicated above.

It will be observed that the main difference between these two separate "blackouts" are that in the first "blackout" (Exercise No. 1) the date and time of the commencement of the exercise will be known beforehand, and traffic may continue running provided that lights are dimmed in accordance with instructions, while for the second "blackout" (Exercise No. 2) no date or time of the commencement of the exercise will be promulgated beforehand, and during the second phase of the exercise all types of traffic other than those authorised by the Military, Naval, Air Force, and other services will cease to run.

General Information

The objects of the "precautionary period" are to enable all concerned to prepare the necessary plans to darken their premises, grounds and transport vehicles so that they will be ready at any time during the "air raid warning" period to carry out the darkening plans in effect with the minimum of delay.

It is suggested that under this heading the following action might well be taken:

Preparation of the lighting restriction plans it is proposed to adopt for the premises etc.; ensure that all members of the household and the domestic staff are conversant with these plans; remove all external advertisement lighting and illuminated signs, and any other lights which cannot be extinguished immediately; obtain a stock of dark blue cloth and dark tissue paper etc. and cut it up into the required sizes and shapes; place dark curtains in such a position that they can be lowered without any delay; ensure that electric torches are in working order; prepare material for darkening motor cars, cycles, rickshaws etc.; put your lighting restriction scheme into force for a trial run and remedy faults, if any.

It is hoped that during this period all concerned will use their own ingenuity and endeavour to think out the arrangements they will have to make in order to solve the very important problem of darkening their premises in the shortest possible period of time.

Hostile Aircraft

It is vital that in time of war hostile aircraft should not see the lights of a town and obtain a complete "blackout" of the Colony within three minutes of the sounding of the "air raid warning." Our object should be to ensure that as far as is practicable, hostile aircraft passing over the Colony at night would see no lights which might serve to guide them to a particular objective or assist them to determine their position.

It is not proposed to pass any special legislation in regard to the restriction of lighting, but to place reliance on the general public to do their utmost to darken the buildings for which they are responsible; in fact the public is asked to co-operate wholeheartedly with the Government in an earnest endeavour to make a success of the proposed "blackout."

The following information is furnished as a guide which the public is requested to observe:

Object to attain: To darken your house or business premises so that no lights are visible external to the building. To screen the lights of all transport vehicles so as to make them invisible from the air.

How this object can be attained: Immediately the "air raid warning" is seen or heard, (a) turn out all unnecessary lights and remove the globes, (b) obscure the remaining lights.

This latter can be done either:

(i) By covering the lights with two layers of a dark and thick cloth which should be allowed to hang down for a distance of two feet, the cloth being gathered together in the middle by a piece of string etc.

(ii) By inserting the globe (if electric light is used) in an empty fruit can or tin, e.g. first take the cover of the tin or can, cut or drill a round hole approximately 7/8 inches in diameter to allow the flexible lead or wire from the lamp

GARY COOPER

May Visit Hongkong In New Year

Gary Cooper, popular Hollywood film star, will probably visit Hongkong next year, which has just been revealed last night during the relay by ZBW of the London broadcast of "In Town To-night," during which Cooper announced that his next film would be "The Last Frontier," in which some of the shots would be shot on location in the Philippines.

Cooper, who is visiting England with his wife, said in the broadcast that he spent two years in England at school as a child and had always been keen to return. He referred to his most recent film, "The Adventures of Marco Polo," which has just been screened in Hongkong and revealed that during the shooting he had accidentally fallen into the lion's pit and was rescued by the villain, Basil Rathbone. These scenes were, however, deleted from the film.

INDIAN PLAYERS' SUCCESSFUL TOUR OF NEW ZEALAND

WIN ALL TEST GAMES: A SPLENDID RECORD

The Nawab of Manavadar's team, which included six members of the last Indian Olympic side, have just returned to India after a successful tour of New Zealand where they won 30 of their 31 matches.

Their only reverse was at Auckland, where the provincial team defeated them by five goals to four and thus earned the distinction of being the first team in that country ever to lower the Indians' colours—a splendid achievement and one which received the unstinted congratulations of the Nawab, who did not plead that casualties had played havoc with his side.

As the ladies have just commenced their League and the new Hongkong Hockey Association Tournament is in full swing, I have approached Mr. Amar Singh, manager of International Sports, for a generous donation of Indian sticks to be presented to the top goal-scorers of each League, the Caer Clark Cup, Brawn Cup and the Hongkong Hockey Association Tournament.

A stick will also be given to the best all-rounder in the Caer Clark Cup and Hongkong H. A. Tournament.

The most-improved player in the Brawn Cup will also receive a stick. Six sticks in all will be presented and towards the end of the season the winners, who will be nominated by me, will have their names and photos published in the Telegraph.

More Tours For Islington Corinthians

London, Oct. 26.
You will remember the Islington Corinthians side that toured Malaya

FOUR TESTS WON

The Indians, however, had the satisfaction of winning all four of the Test matches—by 2-1 at Dunedin, 5-1 at Christchurch, 4-0 at Wellington and 3-2 at Auckland.

The biggest victory of the tour was scored at Rotua where the Indians beat the local team by 24-0. They also entered double figures on ten other occasions.

The major portion of their trip (omitting matches in Ceylon and Australia) brought the Indians a total of 242 goals and only 19 were netted against them.

In the opinion of New Zealand players, the Manavadar State XI was even better than the Indian Hockey Federation side which toured the islands in 1935. The latter side, it is true, scored more goals, but were favoured with far better weather, which entailed heavy pitches on only three occasions whereas the Manavadar XI enjoyed good conditions only three.

Those who participated in both tours considered that the standard of play in the islands had risen perceptibly.

RETURN VISIT

India wants New Zealand to pay a return visit, but the New Zealand hockey authorities are inclined to think that the standard of their own players has not yet attained a sufficiently high level and that it is unlikely to do so until the game is played during both summer and winter.

At the beginning of the year. The club seems to enjoy travelling for already it is endeavouring to arrange a visit to Luxembourg at Easter and a tour of Iceland in July. The team which visited Hongkong has not been together since the end of its tour but it will be on view at the end of this week when a side is to be fielded against Tottenham Hotspurs.

Sherswood and Miller, two of the outstanding forwards, have since turned professional with Reading and Fulham respectively, but they have been granted special permission by the F. A. to turn out in this game.

HERE AND THERE WITH "PILGRIM"

THE C.B.S. "A" crashed very badly in their first match in the Caer Clark Cup competition at King's Park last Saturday. Miss Nora Witchell, at centre-half, was the only one who played her usual game; she did grand work both in defence and attack. I was very surprised to see Miss E. McKelvie give such an erratic display at left back. I am positive she is capable of doing better.

MISS D. McCaw, as leader, attacked strongly but like the rest of the line, was not quick enough to break through the home defence. The girls, to improve their forward line, must try and develop long passing tactics—a phase of the game in which they are not too happy. Most of their short passes, while at times clever, were very often intercepted by their faster opponents. A four-nil defeat is not too encouraging for a debut game, but the girls must bear in mind that they are playing in a higher division and naturally a higher standard of play is necessary. If they keep their chins up, they should learn a great deal in their first season among the senior teams.

THAT St. Andrew's won so easily was due to the opportunism of their forwards, Miss F. Wong, Miss P. Gittins and Miss A. Greiner, but there were also some bad finishing and misses by Miss E. Churn and Miss Wong when in the circle. The Saints' defence marked very closely and kept their forwards well pined with the ball. I hope Miss Marie Rosa has secured her place in the team; she played amazingly well at left back. The game clearly showed the difference between the standard of hockey as played in the senior and junior divisions. The schoolgirls individually or combined were no match for the team-work of their opponents.

IN the Brawn Cup series the C.B.A. proved themselves far superior to the C.B.S. "B", being faster on the ball and more ready to take advantage of openings. As a team, they showed a marked improvement on their last-season form. They should do well for themselves in future games. The quality of hockey served up by the junior schoolgirls was very poor. They relied on "hit and rush" tactics and many attacks were broken up by the more solid defence of their opponents. The girls should have done better, though they have lost a few players who have gone up to their senior XI. I would like to remind their coach that the juniors must always be seriously considered. I need not point out that in hockey, as in every other sport, the junior player constitutes the backbone. Break that backbone (Continued on Page 9)

NASTY ACCIDENT MARS GAME

Lt. Patterson Hit
In The Face

A good goal scored by Tom Whitely just before the interval gave the Club victory in a friendly hockey game played on their own ground last evening against the Royal Scots. Speedy forwards and equally capable defences were held by both teams.

The second half found the Club attack definitely superior; but their shooting when in the circle was poor. S. Fowler and Divett missed a couple of sitters when well placed. The forwards, however, received splendid support from Lowe and W. A. Reed, the halves.

The re-start was only ten minutes old when an unfortunate accident befell Lt. Patterson, the Scots' inside left. During a raid on the Club goal, he received a nasty crack from a stick across the nose. He was wearing glasses at the time and received a deep cut under the left eye. Bleeding freely and in a dazed condition, he was immediately taken by car to the Military Hospital.

The game ended there and then, due to fading light. Robb, in goal for the Scots, defended well, while Kennedy on the right wing, put in some nice centres. The game lasted only 35 minutes—which is hardly sufficient to really test the capabilities of either side.

Mrs. Garon And Storey Win Mixed Golf Title In Worplesdon Tourney

By George Greenwood

London, Oct. 15.

Mrs. Marjorie Garon, a former English champion, and Eustace Storey, an ex-Cambridge captain and Walker Cup player, won the Open Scratch Mixed Foursomes at Worplesdon yesterday. In the 36 holes final they beat Miss Wanda Morgan, a former holder of the British and English titles, and Kenneth Morrice, captain of Oxford in 1934, by the surprisingly big margin of 6 and 5.

This overwhelming defeat was due principally to the inability of Miss Morgan to produce anything approaching the game of which she is capable. Not only had she lost her putting touch, but some of the in-between shots were unconvincing. The side produced something of a rally, but it was of the briefest nature and gradually but inevitably the match developed into a procession.

In the first half the tale of misfortune was largely one of putting; in the second, bunkers and heather were the fatal attraction. With Morrice far less accurate than usual, Mrs. Garon putted beautifully, and it was mainly through her efforts that the side had only 31 putts for the first 18 holes.

"If you hit 'em straight they'll drop," was the dictum of Bobby Jones. This is precisely what Mrs. Garon did, and appropriately enough, finished the match by holing a put of 12 feet for a 2 at the short 13th.

She was ably supported by Storey,

who, faithful to his "corkscrew" stance, and using a putter with a head no longer than a safety-razor blade, holed several useful putts. In brief, by outplaying their opponents at practically every point of the game, Mrs. Garon and Storey richly deserved to win. At the same time it was possible to sympathise with the losers, whose display was far too indifferent to be true.

Mrs. Garon and Storey finished the first round a hole to the good, having been three up at the 15th. Making their first concerted effort, the opposition won the next two holes and would have squared at the 18th had not Miss Morgan hooked an iron shot wide of the green. Miss Morgan's iron shots lacked their customary crispness and the putting, usually one of her strong points, was indecisive.

MRS. GARON'S LONG PUTT

With six holes played, the side were two down, having lost the 15th, of which they made a complete hash, (Continued on Page 9)

Brilliant Performance By William Hall In International Soccer

London, Nov. 16.

William Hall, of Tottenham, playing at inside right for England, in a brilliant display of opportunism and marksmanship, scored five goals and helped England to overwhelm Ireland in the International soccer match at Manchester to-day by seven goals to nil.

Hall's feat of scoring five times was an England international record, and his three goals in three minutes became the first of international fast scoring records.

The Irish defenders were unable to check the speedy English forwards, who indulged in long swinging passes and brilliant combination.

The Irish forwards were given little of the ball by the English defenders, who were deadly in their tackling.

Other English goal-scorers were Lawton, the centre-forward, Matthews, outside right.

England led 4-0 at half-time. Ireland's defeat ensures that they will finish at the bottom of the International table.

One change was made in each side, Morris, the Wolverhampton right back, coming in to take the place of Sproston, who was injured.

Twoomey, of Leeds, playing in goal for Ireland instead of Breen, of Manchester United.

Team: England—Woodley; Morris, Hapgood; Willingham, Cullis, Mercer; Matthews, Hall, Lawton, Stephenson and Smith.

Ireland—Twoomey; Hayes, Cook; Broly, McMillen, L. D. Brown; Cochrane, Stenhouse, Baird, Doherty and Brown (Birmingham).—Reuter.

BADMINTON PROGRAMME COMMENCES

TWO FIXTURES DECIDED IN "B" DIVISION

Only two matches were played in the "B" Division of the Men's Doubles Badminton League last evening, the other two games being postponed.

At Talkoo, Chung Wah had little difficulty in disposing of the V.R.C., winning by seven games to two. Among the players turning out for Chung Wah were several who represented the C.R.C. in the League last year.

St. John's, winners of the "B" Division last season, made a good start in their game against the Wanderers and conceded only one game out of nine. As the St. Andrew's Hall was not available, the tie between St. Andrew's "A" and Club de Recreo was not played. It is understood that St. Andrew's cannot play home matches on Wednesdays.

V.R.C. v. CHUNG WAH

At Talkoo, Chung Wah defeated the V.R.C. by seven games to two. Scores:

S. A. Rummah and W. Fisher (V.R.C.) beat S. S. Lee and W. H. Choy 23-20; lost to P. C. Leung and S. C. Liang 21-24; lost to C. F. Chiu and H. L. Chau 21-24.

O. el Arcull and F. Castro (V.R.C.) lost to Lee and Choy 8-21; lost to Leung and Liang 15-21; lost to Chiu and Chau 6-21.

A. Alves and D. Xavier (V.R.C.) beat Lee and Choy 21-11; lost to Leung and Liang 23-24; lost to Chiu and Chau 18-21.

WANDERERS v. ST. JOHN'S

St. John's won their opening match, beating the Wanderers by 8-1. Scores:

F. H. Kwok and R. Beavan (St. John's) beat T. J. Ong and C. Y. Yung 21-13; beat S. L. Cheung and J. S. Ho 21-12; beat S. W. Liang and E. S. Ho 21-6.

P. Wilson and N. Smith (St. John's) beat Ong and Yung 21-10; beat Cheung and Ho 21-13; lost to Liang and Ho 21-24.

ROYAL SCOTS BEAT CLUB "A" SIDE

Helped by a couple of Club players, the Royal Scots defeated the Club "A" XV in a rugged match at Happy Valley yesterday by nine points (three tries) to eight (a goal and a try). Exchanges were fairly even throughout the encounter.

and the sixth, where Mrs. Garon, one of the soundest putters in women's golf, holed from 15 feet for eagle 3.

Down the bank at the back of the green, Storey lost the eighth for his side and was extraordinarily fortunate to snatch a half at the next, where he sliced his drive up into the woods. Espying an opening in the trees, Mrs. Garon got the ball on to the fairway and finally holed another long putt for a great half in 4.

Miss Morgan was the culprit at the long eleventh, bunkering her approach shot and then missing a holeable putt. This was two down, the side becoming three down. In the 13th where Mrs. Morgan again missed a short putt for a half in 3, after the opponents had been bunkered. This time it was Storey who holed the putt.

There was a curious incident at the 14th. Playing out of a bunker, Storey inadvertently struck the ball twice, the second time with the shaft of his mallet. The side gave up the hole, but regained their lead of three up by winning the 15th in 4. Mrs. Garon again holding the vital putt. With the game running against them Miss Morgan and Morris made a sudden spurt and, winning the next holes, went in to lunch only one down.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS
The match was squared at the third, but alas! Morris hit his tee shot into thick heather at the short fourth and the side were one down again. Meeting with a chapter of accidents, including a dead style, they lost the fifth and were two down once more. There was a similar story at the sixth, Morris hitting his drive into the rough and Miss Morgan topping the next shot a few yards—three down.

The position was unchanged at the 9th, the only hole of the outward half that was halved, all the others being either won or lost—a most unusual circumstance in a foursome. Four down at the tenth, where Morris put his tee shot into the rhododendrons, was a serious if not a critical position. The end was now in sight. The 11th was halved in an adventurous 6, and then Mrs. Garon and Storey clinched the match with a great 4 at the 12th and a 2 at the next.

and the health of the game quickly disappears. It may sound facetious but in all sport, the "rabbit" provides the real and definite foundation.

THE K.I.T.C. last Saturday received a surprise revelation from the Y.M.C.A. when they suffered a 3-1 defeat on the "Y" ground. Praise must be given to the "Y" defence, in which Taylor, Austen and Dawson gave a highly creditable display. The attack, with Bartlett and Rose, continually worried the K.I.T.C. defence and prevented them from settling down. The K.I.T.C. attack (without their military players) led by Evans Singh were rather overshadowed by the home side, except for a brief period at the beginning of the first half. A. P. Souza, at inside-left, was dangerous but held on the ball too long. Pinto and Malik were good defenders but the pace set up by the "Y" forwards in the second half proved too much for them. On current form, the "Y" look like having a very successful season. Here's luck!

I BELIEVE the "Y" ladies will be greatly strengthened by the inclusion of Miss Helen Bockler, former D.G.S. star centre-forward. She has just arrived back in the Colony and will prove a great acquisition to the future. Mrs. M. Read will in future be seen in goal and Miss Bockler, I presume, will lead the attack. I can imagine the "Y" forwards bagging a heap of goals this season.

THE R.A.O.C. suffered the biggest defeat to date in the H.K.H.A. Tournament when they went down to the R.A.F. by ten goals to nil at Kai Tak last Monday. The R.A.F. have a very impressive record, having played three games and won three, with 18 goals for and three against. The aviators have since their encounter with the Nomads had two goal-getters to aid them in Lieut. Woods (inside right) and Lieut. Medd (inside-left). Lieut. Miller is also a tower of strength at right back. With this outfit they could be capable of holding their own against the stronger civilian teams.

SEVERE PAINS
IN THE STOMACH

Everyone who has endured the torment of stomach pains will sympathize with Mr. P. Many who still suffer with stomach trouble can benefit from his experience. If you neglect nature's warning you may be faced with serious danger. If you do as Mr. P. did—as tens of thousands of stomach sufferers have done—then you have no need to fear.

He writes:—
I was suffering agony with pains in the stomach, wind round the heart and loss of appetite. I tried medicine, tablets and various other remedies, but seemed to get worse instead of better.

A friend recommended Maclean Brand Stomach Powder and I purchased a bottle. After one dose I felt relief and now, after a fortnight's treatment, I am well again, all pain has gone and my appetite is practically normal.

Now remember, for your own sake, the very next time you feel pains in the stomach—however slight they may be—go out and get a bottle of the genuine MACLEAN BRAND Stomach Powder. Make sure the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" is on the bottle and carton. Then you are certain of quick relief from stomach discomfort. Genuine Maclean Brand Stomach Powder is sold only in bottles in cartons. Never sold loose. Powder or Tablets Cheap imitations are useless, and may only make your trouble worse. Try it with PINEAPPLE

MOST children like the flavour of pineapple and a tin of chunks or rings can be made to go much farther round if used in conjunction with everyday food.

Let's start off with recipes for the children. Adding pineapple to rice is a capital way of getting them to eat this. Rice is so good for them that they really must be encouraged to like it.

This is how I serve "Sunshine Rice," and my family look on it as a treat. There is never any left over.

Bring one pint of milk to the boil, add 2oz. of washed rice, and cook in a double saucepan until creamy and soft. This usually takes about two hours. Cool slightly, stir in a beaten egg and cook gently for a few minutes. Pour into a hot glass dish and add the pineapple chunks, stirring them into the rice.

Bread Pudding

Made with left-over bread and butter. Arrange the slices of stale bread and butter in a buttered pie-dish, sprinkling each layer with sugar and pineapple. Add some salt to 1 pint milk, heat, and pour it on to a beaten egg. Strain into the pie-dish, grate a little nutmeg on the top and cook for half an hour. Bake in a moderate oven.

Pineapple Jelly

There will be no pineapple jelly left to clear up, if you make it in this way.

If you serve it with cream and sweet biscuits this becomes quite a party sweet. Children, of course, love it.

Empty the contents of a large tin of pineapple cubes into a large jug. Strain the juice into a saucepan, and make up to not quite a pint with water.

Add a pint pineapple jelly square, dissolve it in the water and stir it well before pouring into the mould, to make sure it all dissolves evenly. When the jelly is dissolved, pour a little into a mould and leave to set. Then arrange a ring of pineapple and pour over a little more jelly and continue with pineapple rings and jelly, leaving each layer of jelly to set before.

Greaseproof Tips

A SMALL store of greaseproof paper in the kitchen can prove invaluable to the housewife in many ways. Here are some of them:—

A folded piece of greaseproof paper, well-floured, makes a good substitute for a baking board. No scrubbing is necessary as the paper is burned after use.

Dustbins keep much cleaner when lined with greaseproof paper which is changed once a week.

Greaseproof paper covers prevent cookery books from getting soiled and sticky.

Any fried foods placed on greaseproof paper for one minute before serving lose all sogginess and become crisp and appetising.

Tomato Crystals

DISSOLVE a pint packet of lemon jelly slightly less than 1 pint of boiling water. Pour a little of the jelly into the bottoms of small individual moulds and leave to set.

Then place a thin slice of peeled tomato on the jelly and add a little more jelly. Leave to set again and continue in this way till the moulds are full.

When set turn out on to crisp lettuce leaves and decorate with chopped hard-boiled egg.

Making The Most Of Needlework

ONE of the pleasant things about autumn and winter is that needlework comes into its own. Drawn curtains and dancing fire-light are such incentives to get out our workbags and go ahead with some attractive needlework.

Whether you are an old hand at the game or an enthusiastic beginner, embroidery hints are usually fascinating when it comes to planning out the shades of silk to be used in a piece of work? Are you aware that mid-shades of greens, pinks, or blues, placed against a darker background will appear quite pale? But put these colours against a lighter ground and they will at once appear much deeper.

For fine stitches, fairly strong shades are the best choice, but for "filling in" purposes pin your faith to paler shades. They are much more effective.

Purples, vivid blues, and the new shades of red, such as fuchsia, deep burgundy, "shocking" pink, and the deeper shades of mauve, are topical colour news, but for embroidery purposes do not lose your head over them if you are working a mixed colour scheme, or they will swamp the rest of the shades.

The Favourite Foundation Material

Linen is public favourite No. 1 as a foundation material, and, if good embroidery silks or cottons are used, it will return triumphantly from the washtub time after time.

Washing is a process for light fingers. Soak and do up and down as much as you will, but avoid rubbing. And use powdered borax (in the proportion of 2 ozs to 10 gallons of nearly boiling water) instead of soda. Rinsing must be thorough, and the water must be warm only. A touch of blue in the last rinsing water will brighten the colours.

In ironing embroidery, whether a finished piece of work or after laundering, remember to use the iron on the wrong side with several thicknesses of soft cloth under a clean lining sheet.

With a satin background, embroidery should be ironed first on the right side (to gloss up the satin and the silk embroidery) and then on the wrong side (to throw up the embroidery into relief). Do not use a damp cloth.

Applique Work

Applique work is very decorative and gives the artistic woman a good deal of scope for her creative instinct. But often with an important piece of work it is difficult to baste the pieces in their respective places. Try brushing over the back of each piece with a little thin starch and then place carefully into position. Leave until dry, or press dry with a hot iron. The starch will not harm the material at all, and will come out after the first washing.

And here is a useful tip about transfers. When a transfer design is to be stamped on to a piece of work there is no need to heat an iron.

Place the transfer sheet in position, then damp a cloth with methylated spirit and apply it to the back of the transfer until it is moistened all over. The result will be a beautifully clear design, and, what is more attractive, the same transfer sheet can do duty several times in succession.

FAR EAST SERVICE New Planes To Speed-Up Air Mail

With the introduction of the Ensign type of aircraft by Imperial Airways on the Far East route, a number of changes will be made in the arrangement for carrying mail to Egypt, India and other countries, all of which will mean a speed-up in the delivery of the air mail to Hongkong.

At present most of the delays on the main route from London have occurred in India, where the weather often is against flying. The present flying boat services are to be supplemented as far as Calcutta by land services operated over a new route.

Between London and Calcutta Imperial Airways will operate jointly with Indian Transcontinental Airways, a company in which Imperial Airways has a large share-holding interest and which in the past has operated between Karachi and Singapore.

To enable this to be done the capital of the company is to be trebled, and it will take over four of the eight new Ensigns for use on the Calcutta route.

At the moment, as well as flying boats, Harbin and Almaty aircraft operate two of the services on the Far East route between Alexandria and Karachi, each service being operated by one machine of each type so as to cope with the heavy mail and freight. The normal services between Alexandria and Sydney will continue to be operated by flying boats.

In consequence of the reorganisation of services and the introduction of the new planes, the cost to the Indian company for the carriage of mail will be reduced to little more than one shilling and threepence per ton-mile.

ICE FORMS ON WINGS

Dolphin Has Adventurous Trip With Air Mail

The Imperial Airways plane Dolphin reached Kai Tak at 5.50 p.m. yesterday with the inward mails from Bangkok, where it had held up for two hours by engine trouble.

According to a message which reached Hongkong yesterday, it was understood the plane had been forced to return to Bangkok, but Captain Wilson explained on arrival at Kai Tak that the trouble developed before the plane had taken off.

When flying between Hanoi and Port Boyard, the plane climbed to 14,000 feet to catch a tail-wind, but was soon forced to descend several thousand feet when ice began to form on the wings and the instruments became dead. This is unusual in this part of the world.

The Dolphin reached Hongkong in six hours flying time. If it had arrived a quarter of an hour later, the ground lights would have had to be lit.

Della Takes Passengers. The Imperial Airways plane Della left Hongkong yesterday for Bangkok with two Japanese Government engineers as passengers. They were Mr. Kiso Tabei and Mr. T. Ono.

REPLACING PLANES

Hongkong's Relation To Main Air Companies

In view of local opinion and discussion on the types of aeroplanes being used by the international airline companies at Kai Tak, a declaration by Edward J. Noble, recently appointed head of the Civil Aeronautics Bureau—the American equivalent of the P.W.C. Air Ministry—is of particular interest.

In one of his first public statements, Noble pointed out that aircraft were never ordered for, virtually never wear out. This is a truth which men of aviation have long realised, but a fact which the general public in general does not appreciate. It is difficult for the Hongkong

FOG COVERED GROUND

Cause of Disaster To Dutch Air Liner

Amsterdam, Nov. 16.

The number of victims of the disaster to the Dutch Airways machine IJvogel, which, as previously reported, crashed on Monday night near the Amsterdam airport at Schiphol, was ascertained on Tuesday morning to amount to six, namely four members of the crew and two passengers. All the other 12 passengers, of whom eight were Germans and four British were more or less severely injured.

Among the dead are the commander of the aeroplane, Captain Dimeelaar, who was an experienced flier on the East Indies route, and the second pilot, Captain Van Gemenen, who was at the head of the school of aviation at Soesterberg. The two passengers killed were German women.

It is stated that the machine, just before crashing, flew over the airport at Schiphol but could not land owing to dense fog. The pilot thereupon flew back to Amsterdam, but then veered round and returned to Schiphol, evidently in the hope that the fog would meanwhile have lifted somewhat.

The machine was heard to strike the ground violently twice, and it slid some hundreds of metres before coming to a standstill at the edge of a ditch. The violence of the shock caused the machine to lose its wheels, propeller, and motors, and the occupants were thrown out—Trans-Ocean.

WINTER IN GERMANY

Doubtful Report About Colonel Lindbergh

Berlin, Nov. 16.
It is learned that Col. Lindbergh will return to Germany late in November to get the aeroplane which he left on a recent trip due to bad weather.

However, those well informed are sceptical of reports that Col. Lindbergh is considering spending the winter in Berlin—Trans-Ocean.

"Pirow Plan" For Return Of Colonies

London, Nov. 16.
Mr. Oswald Pirow, the South African Minister of Defence, is said by the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Mail to be taking with him to Germany a so-called "Pirow plan," in which an offer is made to the Reich of extensive African colonial territory as well as economic advantages.

The territory itself is said to be a somewhat part of the fertile equatorial coast of West-Africa. It will embrace a part of Cameroons, part of Angola and also a strip of Congo territory. Apart from the excellent coast, this territory will have a rich and varied hinterland with a peaceful and scattered population of bush negroes. Raw materials are said to be available in abundance.

Moreover the Pirow plan proposes, says the Daily Mail, a formation by the European colonial powers of a common colonial pool with an international board of control. Mr. Pirow intends, adds the London paper, to negotiate with Herr Walter Funk, the German Minister of Economics, regarding the extension of the trade between Germany and the South-African Union.

Mr. Pirow is said to be desirous of purchasing commercial aeroplanes in Germany or America whilst he is settling in England to supply war planes. Mr. Pirow asserts the diplomatic correspondent, is going to Germany with a clear insight into the policy of appeasement which Downing Street wishes to be applied to the colonial question.

His direct proposal will be that Germany should forget about its former protectorates, and express itself willing to back the idea of an international conference to discuss every aspect of the Pirow plan. France and Belgium would be prepared to lend support to this conference, provided Germany does not set its demand too high.

CHINESE CONVERGE ON CANTON
Japanese Retreat Into The City

CHUNGKING, Nov. 17. SHATTERING THE JAPANESE outer defences, Chinese forces are closing in on Canton and are ready to storm the city itself, according to military advisers.

The main body of the Japanese troops which fled back from various directions in the Canton area, are reported to have retreated into the city waiting for reinforcements. Over forty Japanese warships and transports are now busy transporting reinforcements to Canton for the defence of the city.

After clearing up the Japanese remnants at Fushan, about 10 miles south-west of Canton, the Chinese column advancing along the Canton-Samsui Railway has reached Shek-watong, the eastern terminus of the railway, which lies on the south bank of the Pearl River opposite Wongchi. It is ready to strike at Canton immediately.

The approach of the Chinese column driving down along the Canton-Hankow Railway is now at Shaping, about seven miles from Canton.

Meanwhile, the Canton-Kowloon Railway has been cut at several places by the Chinese.

In the East River area Tsunglin, Poldo, Wanchow, Tientsin, Tamshu and Lungmoon have all been reportedly recaptured by the Chinese after a series of harassing attacks launched by the regular and guerrilla forces in close co-operation.

In view of the disruption of their communication between Blue Bay and inland as a result of the Chinese recapture of Tamshu, the Japanese have made several attempts to retake the town during the last few days. Their assaults, however, have been repulsed by the Chinese.

A squadron of Chinese planes yesterday morning heavily bombed the Japanese at Samsui, and Samsui on the West River, which are still held by the Japanese. Heavy damage to their defence works is believed to have been done by the Chinese explosive dumper.

Fighting continues to rage between the Chinese and Japanese around Samsui, Samsui and Mahow. The Chinese are making determined attempts to dislodge the Japanese and remove the enemy's menace on the West River.—Central News.

Many, Injured In Jump, Not Expected To Live

AT LEAST TEN PEOPLE ARE DEAD AND TEN ARE IN HOSPITAL A CRITICALLY INJURED AS THE RESULT OF ONE OF THE MOST TRAGIC FIRES IN HONGKONG IN RECENT YEARS.

The outbreak commenced on the ground floor of 227, Shanghai Street, shortly after midnight.

Within two hours it had completely gutted the entire building, in which resided, it is estimated, at least seventy or eighty people.

A tragic feature of the disaster is that seven of the dead are children whose ages range from two to twelve years.

They were members of a refugee family which was completely wiped out by the fire.

Eleven people were critically injured when they were forced to jump thirty feet from the first floor into a alleyway, thirty feet below.

One of the injured died en route to the Kowloon Hospital, and several of the remaining ten are not expected to survive.

The seven children and their parents were, it is now indicated, suffocated to death before the flames reached them.

They were living on the second floor and when the only stairway became a raging inferno sought escape through the communal kitchen at the back of the building.

They fought their way through the flames and reached the kitchen, only to find that the only window was barred and locked on the outside.

They could not return the way they came and, one by one, fell unconscious as the poison-laden smoke choked off all oxygen from the ill-ventilated room.

The nine bodies were found huddled in a corner in the room, burnt almost beyond recognition.

So far as can be ascertained at present, no other people were on the top floor of the building, although a thorough examination of the debris has not yet been made.

The fire started at 12.20 a.m. in the medicine store on the ground floor of the building.

Two folks living in the store were the first to raise the alarm.

When they rushed out on to the street, they left the door leading to the stairway ajar.

The draught quickly sent the flames shooting up the narrow and only passage-way, and the retreat of all the people on the first and upper floors was almost immediately cut off.

The people living on the first floor were driven to the rear of the tenement, and their only way of escaping was to leap to the ground below.

Only one or two escaped without broken limbs and they quickly disappeared in the crowd.

Among the seriously injured are an expectant mother and five children. The condition of the children is believed to be critical.

Burma-Yunnan Highway Nears Completion

LONDON, Nov. 16. "It is hoped that an all-weather road from Lashio to Yunnanfu will be open to regular traffic shortly."

"The practicability of constructing a railway is, I understand, being examined by financial interests concerned."

This reply was given by Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to a question by Mr. Hamilton W. Kerr in the House of Commons to-day.

Mr. Kerr asked the Prime Minister whether, in view of Japan's action in "humpering foreign trade carried on by sea on the east coast of China," the Government would pay increased attention to the importance of railway communication between Burma and south-west China, and would "co-operate with the Chinese Government in constructing both road and railway which would carry British exports "free from Japanese interference."—Reuter.

Fireman's Craft Taught

Atlantic City, N. J. The small boy who wants to grow up and be a fireman will soon have a chance to study that trade in school. A course in fire fighting will be added to the curriculum of the Atlantic City vocational school. It will include the maintenance of fire apparatus and equipment.

Important Change In Tactics

Chinese Withdrawal Of Troops

CHUNGKING, Nov. 17. THE LARGE-SCALE withdrawal of Chinese troops from the north-eastern part of the province of Hunan is believed here to indicate an important change in the Chinese military plans.

As informed quarters here point out, the Japanese have advanced so far into the provinces of Hunan that the loss of further important strategic positions in the mountainous regions could be prevented by the Chinese only with great difficulty.

The Chinese were compelled to withdraw their troops, so it is declared, because the railway line running through lowlands in the east of Hunan would enable the Japanese troops to advance with great rapidity. The Japanese mechanised units would likewise be able to push forward quickly.

The Chinese therefore plan to concentrate the greater part of their troops in the province and southern part of the province along the boundary between Hunan and Kwangtung. The mountainous terrain there would favour defence.

CHINESE AIM

The Chinese High Command above all is anxious to prevent the Canton-Hankow Railway from falling completely into the hands of the Japanese.

Chinese troop concentrations on the boundary between Hunan and Kwangtung also appear to indicate that the Chinese High Command will attempt to recapture Canton.

The Japanese columns are reported to have made a further progress in their advance on Changsha and to have reached the vicinity of Ping-kiang. Informed Chinese quarters declare that the population in the regions from which the Chinese troops had withdrawn, have been trained for guerrilla operations and are provided with arms and ammunition for self-defence.

An official statement issued here declares that the Chinese set fire to Changsha in order to prevent the hands of the Japanese undisturbed. The entire town with all its industrial plants has been converted into a heap of ruins by the fire which raged for three days and two nights. The Chinese emphasise, however, that all foreign residents in Changsha are safe.

JAPANESE SUCCESSES

Foreigners were given quarters on the property of a foreign oil company and provided with food supplies. The Chinese authorities admit that the Japanese scored minor successes on the northern Yangtze along the Han River.

The Chinese attack on Canton is held to be making satisfactory progress on the other hand. It is reported that the town of Tsungshui, 50 kilometres north-east of Canton has been captured by the Chinese troops. Although no details are given, the resolution is reported to be...

Seven Britons Adrift in Junk, Land on Pescadores

ACCORDING TO A "Domei News Agency" message, telephoned from Taihoku to Tokyo by telephone and relayed to Hongkong by cable, seven Britons have landed at Koseisho, in the Pescadores Islands.

They include a British lady, the report states.

The British subjects, whose names are not given, are stated to have drifted for some time in the China Sea in a Chinese junk.

When they landed at Koseisho they were in the last stages of exhaustion.

The seven people have been taken from the Pescadores to Makao, in Formosa, where they are now undergoing examination by Customs and gendarmerie authorities.

There is considerable mystification in Hongkong regarding the report. Hongkong naval authorities have not been informed.

It is believed possible that the seven Britons are members of one of the innumerable junks which are now travelling across the Pacific to the United States in a race to reach New York in time for the World Exposition.

£30,000,000 Plan To Aid Jewish Refugees

LONDON, Nov. 16. WHILE BRITISH AND AMERICAN leaders studied £30,000,000 plans for German Jews refugees, the strongest statement yet made by a member of the Cabinet was uttered by Sir Thomas Inskip in a speech at Manchester to-day, when he said of the anti-Jewish demonstrations in Germany:

"Such appalling treatment of innocent people will most certainly find us unyielding. Our first duty as a nation is to help these people; not only in our own country, but also, if possible, in the Empire."

It is understood that Mr. Joseph Kennedy told Mr. Chamberlain that it was impossible for the United States officially to contribute towards "gates of Zion" for the return of the Jewish people.

The appeal declares that Palestine offers an immediate possibility for the settlement of many thousands of homeless children and young people.

German people to dissociate themselves from this persecution.—Reuter Special.

ZIONISTS MEET

LONDON, Nov. 16. A meeting of the Zionist General Council in London, attended by 80 delegates, representing Zionists from all over the world, opened in the evening of the 16th at the Grosvenor Hotel.

The meeting was opened by the Rev. Dr. Isaac Herzog, President of the Council, who declared that the Jewish people "in this dark hour of Jewish history" to open wide the "gates of Zion" for the return of the Jewish people.

The appeal declares that Palestine offers an immediate possibility for the settlement of many thousands of homeless children and young people.

CABINET DISCUSSES QUESTION

LONDON, Nov. 16. At an 80-minute meeting of the Cabinet to-day, it is understood that the Jewish problem was considered.

No reply has yet been received from the German Government to the strong British protest against the association of names of British politicians with the murder of von Rath.

APPROACHES TO GERMANY

LONDON, Nov. 16. Considerable attention is being devoted to the question of Jewish refugees from Germany, states Reuter's diplomatic correspondent, who says that it is understood that consideration is being given to the advisability of calling in London shortly, a meeting of the committee of the Vice-Chairmen under Lord Winterton, and representatives of the United States, France, Holland and Brazil.

Japanese Admiral Here: Seeks Better Relations

The improvement of Anglo-Japanese naval relations is mentioned as the reason for the visit of Admiral Shiozawa to Hongkong this morning.

The Japanese cruiser Myoko bearing the Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese forces in South China arrived in harbour this morning and salutes were exchanged preparatory to conversations between H. E. Admiral Sir Percy Noble and the distinguished visitor.

Vice-Admiral Shiozawa, who is Commander of the 5th Cruiser Squadron, received Mr. T. Nakamura, Consul General in Hongkong, soon after his arrival, and local residents also came on board.

The exchange of visits was arranged to take place between the Myoko and H.M.S. Folmouth after which the Japanese admiral will entertain Sir Percy to luncheon.

Neither of the Admirals would give an interview to the Press but a communiqué will be issued by the Japanese Navy to the effect that Admiral Shiozawa received an invitation from Admiral Sir Percy Noble to discuss means of improving Anglo-Japanese naval relations.

Admiral Shiozawa has accordingly taken the opportunity afforded by the conclusion of present Canton operations to come to Hongkong for such an interview and for a frank exchange of views.

HUNGARY'S NEW ANTI-JEW LAWS

Severer Measures Are Contemplated

Budapest, Nov. 6. Still severer Hungarian legislation against Jews announced by Prime Minister Imredy to be prepared in the next few days by a special committee of the Government party will consist of two laws states the Liberal newspaper, As Est.

One of these two laws aims at facilitating and promoting Jewish emigration from Hungary, while the other will deal with a percentage restriction of Jewish participation in activities not yet dealt with in the previous legislation.

This legislation will chiefly affect the ownership of property and various branches of trade and industry.

It is also possible writes the As Est. that the participation of 20 per cent. of Jews in the occupations will be reduced.—Trans-Ocean.

Police Found 257 Bottles in Flat Poison Search

Mrs. Elsie Rose Newlands (39), of Temple Chambers, E.C., wife of Frank Newlands, the poisoned City steward, was found not guilty of his murder and discharged at the Mansion House recently.

Horace Budd (29), engineer, of Hacton Drive, Hornchurch, Essex, also charged with the murder, was committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court.

Before the Court rose, Mrs. Newlands, accompanied by a friend, went down to the cells and later left the Mansion House with friends.

It was stated that the police, searching for poison in the Newlands' flat, found 257 bottles of various drinks. They did not find any poison.

Newlands, who was steward of a block of offices and flats at Temple Chambers, died in St. Bartholomew's Hospital on August 21.

Dr. A. Jordan, house physician at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, said that Mrs. Newlands visited the hospital several times on the Sunday and offered to give a blood transfusion for her husband. The transfusion did not appear to help him very much.

He telephoned to Mrs. Newlands later and told her that her husband was in a grave condition. She came to the hospital again and sat at her husband's bedside. She was a little worried.

WHEN NEWLANDS DIED

Mr. H. A. K. Morgan (prosecuting) in the absence of Mr. G. B. McClure, did not remain there until the end? No, after about 20 minutes he told her that it distressed her too much to see him in that condition and she went outside the ward.

Dr. Jordan said that when Mrs. Newlands was told that her husband was dead she started to cry.

Cross-examined by Mr. Maurice Healy, K.C. (for Mrs. Newlands), Dr. Jordan said that a pint of blood was taken from Mrs. Newlands.

Defective Inspector W. Francis said that he searched the Newlands' flat for any bottle containing poison. He searched every conceivable hiding place, including the roof, the lift-shaft and gutters. He was not successful.

Two hundred and fifty-seven bottles, including gin, whisky, beer and ginger-beer bottles were found.

HAPPY MARRIED LIFE

Inspector Francis produced a statement which he said Mrs. Newlands made on August 21.

In this alleged statement Mrs. Newlands described what happened at the flat on the morning of August 20 and how she cooked lunch for her husband and his friends. Her husband had a drink of whisky, and she heard him shout, "Ceil, come and taste this." The statement concluded, "We have enjoyed happiness during the whole of our married life."

Inspector Francis said that Mrs. Newlands made a further statement after being cautioned on August 21. In this, which was also quoted by counsel when the case was opened, Mrs. Newlands, it was alleged, explained in greater detail the events of August 20.

BUDD'S ALLEGED DENIALS

Mr. Morgan next read a statement alleged to have been made by Budd on August 21, in which he said that his attack-case did not contain a bottle of any kind, neither did he use one on the job of mending the urn. He did not see black bottle with a white label in the kitchen or in the bedroom.

Inspector Francis said that on August 22 Budd again called at Snow Hill and said: "I have been thinking over the matter, and I realise I have not told you all I know."

"I was worried about it, and a solicitor advised me to inform the police of the whole of the facts."

"SPILT ON THE TABLE"

"As a matter of fact I did have a bottle at Temple Chambers and I used the contents, or some of them, on the job when cleaning the metal before I turned it."

"There was some spirits of salt in the bottle, some of which I spilt on the table and on the side of the bottle. I wiped this off and put the bottle down on the floor."

Budd described how after the job he packed his tools and put the bottle on the floor by the side of the table. Later he found that it had gone. He searched the fourth and fifth floors, but could not find it.

TOOK MRS. NEWLANDS OUT

Inspector Francis said that on August 30 Budd made another statement after being cautioned.

Mr. Morgan read this statement, which explained in detail the relationship between Budd and the Newlands. Budd said that it was at Mr. Newlands' invitation that he at times took Mrs. Newlands out.

The statement continued, "When I looked for the bottle and could not find it I was surprised. . . . Someone had taken it."

"It struck me for the first time that Frank had drunk the spirits of salt. I reasoned out what had happened—that Frank had at some time or another entered the kitchen, seen the bottle on the floor, thought it was whisky, and took it into the bedroom and drank it or poured it into a partly consumed bottle of whisky."

TOLD TO GET OUT

George A. Ring, fruiterer and florist, of Thornhill Square, Barnsbury, said he delivered goods at 20, Newlands' flat on August 19 and 20. On Saturday, August 20, he called in the afternoon about 2 o'clock and was invited with his sister to go into the sitting room and have a drink.

Mr. G. B. McClure (who appeared) asked: "In what mood was Mr. Newlands?" He seemed rather on the happy side yet agitated at times. Ring added that in the sitting room he saw Budd. "Mr. Newlands asked him to get out," he continued. "He asked him a second time: 'Go on, get out.'"

Mr. McClure: What did Budd do? Did he go out?—Yes, slowly. He went into the hall or passage.

MRS. NEWLANDS LEAVES

Mr. McClure asked the Lord Mayor to consider the question of committing Budd and Mr. Newlands for trial. The Lord Mayor: I am satisfied that the jury would convict Mrs. Newlands and she is discharged.

Mrs. Newlands, who throughout the day's hearing had sat in the dock closely following the evidence, immediately rose and left the dock.

She sat among friends just behind the dock while Mr. Daybell made a submission that there was no prima facie case against Budd.

"These two persons," said Mr. Daybell, "were arrested jointly upon a charge of murder. Why, I do not know. If I may respectfully say so, I think you have done the right thing in discharging Mrs. Newlands."

NO LOVE PACT

"Having done that, where does it leave this joint charge of murder? There was some time when the prosecution probably thought that they might be able to suggest or prove something like a pact between Mrs. Newlands and Budd for the purpose of supplying a motive. There was no love pact—that you have found because you have held that if any offence was committed she was not a party to it."

"That leaves only Budd. What motive was there for him to kill his best friend? No motive is attempted to be shown here."

The Lord Mayor said he was satisfied that there was sufficient evidence for a prima facie case, and that Budd should stand his trial.

Budd, who formally pleaded not guilty, and reserved his defence, was committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court.

He made application for legal aid, and when asked by the Clerk what were his means, replied, "I have nothing at all." Legal aid was granted.

BONFIRE NIGHT "BLACK-OUT"

The Home Office A.R.P. Department decided recently to stage a "black-out" test throughout the whole of Hertfordshire on November 5—Guy Fawkes night!

The "black-out" ran from 11:45 p.m. to 2:30 a.m., and the idea was that no light should be visible from the air.

Herts County Council put all the local A.R.P. organisations into practice, including the warning signals.

Bonfires and fireworks displays were not to be banned. "Bonfires were rather encouraged, I fancy, because they usefully represented the effect of incendiary bombs and do not distinguish any particular place," said Mr. Edon Longmore, Clerk to the Hertfordshire County Council.

Over 400 per cent Profit Made on Crisis Sandbags

The Home Office A.R.P. Department is to deal not only with the problem of the disposal of the large quantities of sandbags, timber and corrugated iron bought by local authorities during Crisis Week, but also with allegations of profiteering.

Inquiries have already been made into the sharp rise in the price of timber. Some local authorities express alarm at the bills they will have to face.

It is probable that a conference will be arranged with the Iron and Steel Federation with a view to solving the problem of disposal of surplus stocks, and that cases of alleged profiteering will be dealt with by negotiation with individual trades.

Mr. F. S. Cathro, Dundee secretary of the Association of Jute Spinners and Manufacturers, told the News Chronicle that the price of jute sandbags as supplied to the Government was fixed by agreement and there was no increase during the crisis.

It remained at approximately 2½d. each.

WILL NOT PAY

A manufacturer explained that the mills had not profited. What had happened, he said, was that speculators bought up stocks of imported Indian jute cloth and got it "sewn together any old way" into bags. The demand became tremendous and these inferior bags were then sold at extravagant prices.

He mentioned a case in which a merchant secured a supply of imported Indian jute cloth and made a profit of £200 in one night. Glasgow Corporation will discuss allegations of profiteering. It is stated that thousands of sandbags normally priced at about 2d. were sold for 10d.

BRIDE WAITS AN HOUR AT CHURCH

Miss Iris Liddington, aged twenty-two, waited for an hour at Croydon Parish Church for a bridegroom who did not appear. The wedding was then postponed.

Miss Liddington, of Crowley-crescent, Waddon, Surrey, said that she was to have married Mr. Robert Henderson, who had been lodging in Davidson-road, Addiscombe.

She met him at a Croydon dance two years ago, and had given up her work to marry. She hoped to hear from him. Inquiries had shown he was no longer at his Addiscombe address.

Added to A.R.P. committees at Addiscombe.

Glasgow Corporation will refuse to pay until a Government inquiry into profiteering has been held.

Footing the A.R.P. Bill: Westminster £64,275

A.R.P. measures carried out during the emergency in the City of Westminster cost (estimate) £64,275.

The net amount payable by the Council is expected to be about £25,700, after allowing for a 60 per cent. Government grant.

The Council's A.R.P. Committee in a report make no allegation of profiteering, but state that one of the lessons of the crisis is that steps should be taken to prevent an undue rise in prices of materials.

Here are outstanding items in Westminster's bill of expenses:

£30,000—Trench digging, labour and transport;
£22,000—Timber;
£2,415—Sand and filling machines.

In all, 99,650 were fitted with masks the highest daily total being 25,443.

Twelve hundred workmen offered their services, and altogether a staff of 1,900 was available for part-time service.

Nearly four miles of trenches were dug by 3,600 men.

Half a million sandbags were requisitioned from the Government.

PROFITS AND HOARDS

Detailed accounts of profiteering are not yet available at the Home Office, but cases have already come to light of materials jumping 200 per cent in price.

A committee of Leicester City Council alleged that sandbags cost 25s. a hundred, whereas the price a few days before the crisis was 19s. In one case of hoarding mentioned there was stated that an order delivered to a home "not in a working-class

MELBOURNE. After a bitter campaign on the question whether liquor licences should be abolished, Victoria went to the polls recently. The abolitionists sustained a crushing defeat.

The number of votes cast in favour of abolition was 343,138. Those against numbered 664,276.

A 60 per cent. majority, or at least a vote representing 30 per cent. of the registered electorate is necessary for abolition to become law. The results show that only about 34 per cent. of those voting were in favour of it. At the polling in 1930 the percentage was 43.

Victoria's two "dry" areas this time polled against abolition, and in all areas, especially in industrial centres, the anti-abolition vote was increased.

Observers claim that the experience of the United States was largely used to sway the voters. The prohibition party maintain that voters were persuaded incorrectly that the issue was prohibition, rather than abolition of licences.

If licences had been abolished, the sale, supply, barter or disposal of liquor within the State would have been prohibited. Manufacture would still have been permitted.

The liquor interest has throughout the campaign argued that this would amount to virtual prohibition. The temperance parties, however, denied this, maintaining that liquor quotas for each citizen could be established by law.

"BABY RACE" PRIZE WINNER CHARGED

TORONTO. A charge of arson has been made against Mrs. Kenny, a recipient of a consolation prize from the estate of Mr. Vance Miller, the eccentric millionaire, who left £100,000 to the Toronto woman giving birth to the most children in the 10 years following his death.

She was arrested after a fire broke out at the house which she purchased with her winnings. She has been remanded for an examination of her mental condition.

In March Mr. Justice Middleton decided that the £100,000 should be divided among three women, each of whom gave birth to nine children in 10 years.

FIRST 80 M.P.H. MAN 'CARELESS' Crashed, drove on, fined

Lieut.-Colonel Charles Jarrott, the most famous man in motor racing thirty years ago, a founder and past chairman of the Automobile Association, and the first man to keep up a speed of more than 80 m.p.h. on a long stretch, was fined £5 and ordered to pay £7 costs at West London Police Court recently for careless driving.

He was also fined 40s. for failing to stop after an accident. His licence was endorsed.

Colonel Jarrott, it was alleged, after colliding with a car in Kensington-road, drove on.

A taxi chased him to the Knightsbridge Barracks. There the driver told the colonel there had been an accident and asked him to wait.

Colonel Jarrott declined and drove off. The taxi driver again stopped him and a policeman was called.

Colonel Jarrott, who lives at Vandown Court, Buckingham Gate, S.W., said he had been driving for over forty-two years without an accident of any sort, except on the race track.

'I WAS ANNOYED'

He attributed the collision to a large saloon car pulling out and causing him to swerve across the road.

Questioned about why he drove on, Colonel Jarrott added: "I was annoyed with the taxi driver because I thought he was taking it upon himself to interfere."

The magistrate (Sir Gervase Rantoul) said: "One would have thought that Colonel Jarrott would have thanked the taxi driver instead of thinking it was impertinence on his part to stop him."

"It surprises me that Colonel Jarrott, with all his experience, should have taken that attitude at all. He took the most high-handed attitude about it, and then, driving on, has to be pursued again."

"He does not appear to have treated the matter in at all the right way."

'Plane Shortage Delays Air Guard Training

Civil Air Guard training is progressing rapidly at flying clubs throughout the country, but the flood of applicants has been so great since the scheme was inaugurated in September that the Air Ministry has had to announce that no further applications can be received by flying clubs.

Thirty thousand men and women have applied to join this auxiliary arm of the Royal Air Force, which enables them to learn to fly for as little as 2s. 6d. an hour and to become members of flying clubs for subscriptions of 2s. 6d. instead of the usual three or four guineas.

In future, applications should be addressed directly to the Civil Air Guard Commission at Ariel House, Strand.

As clubs pass out licensed pilots, they will notify vacancies to the Air

When Gas-Masks Are Dangerous

It has been reported to the Home Office that people have been testing their gas-masks with domestic gas and with exhaust fumes from motor-cars.

Grass Salads Help Blue Boy to Grow Into a Champion

Champion Heatherland Blue Boy was brought to London by his owner, Mrs. Askew, recently to take part in the Blue Persian Cat Society's Championship Show.

And so wonderful was his colour—"even to the roots"—his broad skull, his huge "copper" eyes, his short nose and his strong muscles, that they not only plastered his cage with red tickets but voted him the best cat in the show.

And how does a champion do himself at home in Takeley, near Bishops Cleeve? Mrs. Askew said: "Fish in the morning, rabbit or raw meat at night, goats' milk—no cows' milk—lots of cold water and plenty of fresh grass—a cat's salad."

HE LIKES CUCKOOS

The next best cat in the show was Judy—Judy of Pensford. Judy is a young person seventeen months old and left her family, three "boys" and two "girls," at home at Beckenham to come to town for the show—her first adult competition.

Tweedledum—of Dunask, received two firsts, a couple of seconds and a reserve.

Tweedledum has a fancy for cuckoos, though he has never tasted one. But his mistress, Mrs. Jackson, of Worcester Park, often finds him climbing up the chain of the cuckoo clock when the bird pops out.

Tweedledum has learned that, tugging at the weight brings out the cuckoo. A tug and Tweedledum is off like a flash up the chain.

Tweedledum, always has a cup of tea at tea-time—at the table.

Highcourt Judge Leaves His Clerk £3,000

A faithful clerk is remembered in the will of Mr. Justice Horridge, published recently. They had been together for nearly fifty years.

The judge, who retired in May of last year, left a net fortune of £31,468. He gave £3,000 to his clerk, Mr. Thomas Edward Barton, of Canonic-road, Honour Oak, S.E., and another £10,000 goes to him on the death of the judge's widow.

"Tommy" Barton entered the service of the judge in Southport nearly half a century ago. He followed him to London when he was called to the bar; was with him when he was building up a big reputation as a K.C.

When Mr. Horridge—as he then was—was elevated to the Bench, the day after Mr. Justice Avey was made a judge, "Tommy" Barton went along.

Barton was the ideal judge's clerk. He knew his master and his methods as well as he could usually anticipate the judge's needs. He always sat alongside him on the bench; followed so closely the cases heard by Horridge that he often had text books ready before the judge called for them.

When ill-health drove Mr. Justice Horridge from the Bench, the faithful Barton went along, too. He had offers from other judges, but preferred not to change.

Judge and clerk were both Lancashire men.

12,000,000th Visitor For Empire Exhibition

London. Mrs. George Wilson, of Glasgow, was welcomed through the turnstile recently, as the 12,000,000th visitor to the exhibition, (Glasgow). In the south bandstand she was presented by Sir Cecil Weir, chairman of the board of management with a gold watch and a cheque for £10. Had she been a season ticket holder the cheque would have been for £15.

She was also given the freedom of the exhibition. It was hoped that 15,000,000 people would visit the exhibition, but that was too much to expect.

Dog Ownership Restricted

San Carlos, Cal. The city council has passed an ordinance limiting the number of dogs that can be kept in the city to two for each family. The idea was to banish the number of dog kennels formerly maintained here.

Premier Mussolini of Italy has no sympathy for paunchy men, but admires an athlete. Here the 55-year-old dictator sets the pace for his officers.

Babies Are To Have Their Own Masks

The Chemical Defence Research Department have now produced a protective device against poison gas for babies under four years.

ARMED MAN IN THE ADMIRALTY

—Court Story

12.20 a.m. Arrest Described

Charged with breaking into an office in the Admiralty with intent to commit a felony, George Arthur Cooper, aged 19, a homeless seaman, was remanded in custody at Bow-street, recently.

Cooper was also charged with having in his possession without lawful excuse a Colt automatic .25 calibre pistol, and house-breaking implements.

Det.-Insp. Shillbury asked for a remand to inquire into certain property found in Cooper's possession.

Police-constable Sedgwick said that while on duty in Trafalgar square at 12.20 a.m. he heard a police whistle blowing.

He ran to the Admiralty, jumped into an area, climbed through a window which apparently had been forced, and found Cooper crouching underneath a desk.

Lying on the desk was a Colt automatic pistol.

Two of the desk drawers were open and an attempt had been made to force open another.

ATTACHE CASE FOUND

When Cooper was charged he replied, "No."

He had on him gloves, a glass cutter, two penknives, two bolts, and other things.

An attache case containing several articles was found at the Admiralty.

BROKE LEG WHILE ASLEEP

A hospital patient at Burton-on-Trent awoke one morning recently to find his leg had been broken since he went to bed. Neither he nor the attendants had any idea how it happened.

The injury proved fatal, and at the inquest recently the jury found that the patient, Joseph William Smith, aged 31, died from myocardial failure, following a fracture of the right leg.

Dr. J. B. Stanley expressed the opinion that Smith had a fit during the night and fractured his leg during his struggles.

The Cash Register

Germany had a £4,200,000 trade deficit for the month of September it is just revealed.

Imports totalled 492,700,000 marks (£41,000,000), and exports were 441,800,000 marks (£36,800,000).

These stark economic facts cannot be obliterated by either the blustering of Five-Year Planer Goebbels or prosperity-propagandist Goebbels.

Nor can a wondering world quite reconcile the boast of fewer than 3,000 unemployed in Germany with the need of street collections to provide winter relief for nine millions.

Japanese In Retreat In South China

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16.

AT A PRESS CONFERENCE to-day the Chinese military spokesman reviewed the recent military situation and said that in Kiangsi the
opposing forces were facing each other on the Hsiu River, while sanguinary fighting had taken place in the mountainous regions north of Ping-
kiang.

Chinese forces had retreated from Yochow only after inflicting heavy casualties on the Japanese in a three-day battle on the Yochow sector.

Regarding South China, the spokesman said that in the course of a counter-offensive the Chinese had recaptured most of
the cities around Canton, including Tainghsing, Waichow, Poklo, east of Canton, and Tsunghua
north-east of Canton.

He said that the Japanese counter-attacks on Tamsui, east of Canton,
had so far been repulsed.

The Canton-Kowloon railway
had been cut in several places by
the Chinese troops, and at present
all of the Japanese troops from north of Canton had been withdrawn to inside Canton city, de-spicately defending Canton, while anxiously awaiting reinforcements.

He said that over 40 Japanese war
ships were reported to be sailing northward up the Pearl River to Canton.

A Japanese unit holding Samshui
had suffered heavy losses as result of Chinese counter-attacks, and he said
that despite the Japanese intention to cross the Yellow River from Shanai and north Honan, the Chinese defence around the loop of the Yellow
River had tightened, and it was believed that the Yellow River defence
was unpenetrable.

The spokesman, giving a bird's-eye
view of all the fronts said that in North China the Japanese were anxious to occupy the entire Peking-Hankow railway by attacking Cheng-

chow, and also to cut the Lunghai railway at Tungkwan by crossing the Yellow River at Fenglingta or Mao-tsintu.

In South China the Japanese military were maintaining a defensive position at Canton. However, a decree attack on north Hunan aimed at an early capture of Changsha in order to swallow the entire Canton-
Hankow railway.

At West Hupch, he said, the Japanese were doing their utmost to advance to Sashih.

The spokesman refused to reveal
the names of the commanders in the Canton counter-offensive but said
that there were "capable men."—

CHANGSHA ADVANCE CONTINUING

Shanghai, Nov. 16.

The Japanese advance on Changsha
is continuing, with two columns
striking southward, the first of which is following the railway line which north of Canton is progressing along the Tuncheng-Changsha highway,
east of the railway.

The next objectives of these columns is Sinsih, about seven miles east of the railway line which
will be attacked by the first column,
while the second column will attack
Pingkiang, about 32 miles east of
the railway.

Both towns are situated on the Mi River, and are about halfway to Changsha from Yochow and Tung-
cheng respectively, the remaining distance in each case being about 44
miles.

Fires are still raging in Changsha
and are now spreading to the north
gate where foreign missionary property is situated. There are still a number of foreigners in Changsha,
including 30 Germans, mostly missionaries, and also several businessmen.—Trans-Ocean.

How To Do The Dance The King And Queen Did

Pat. Sykes and J. A. Andrews, popular ballroom experts who are entertaining patrons of the Gloucester Hotel nightly, specially posed for the illustrating the Lambeth Walk. The first picture shows the start of the turn, then the slip and finally the Cockney salute ("Oi").

So was set the royal approval on this dance which Eddie Cantor calls a "freak", but which Hongkong socialites are raving about since Pat Sykes and Andy Andrews demonstrated it at the Gloucester Hotel a fortnight ago.

Unnoticed for generations, costers lurched in Lambeth and "Oled" each other, while the West End gawped, polka'd, fox-trotted, tango'd, Charleston'd, shimmed, Big Apple'd and shuffled around while truckin'.

Now it's "Oi, Oi, Oi" everywhere. They're doin' the Lambeth Walk. "Oyez, oyez, oyez!" they're doin' the Lambeth Walk, even in Balmoral Castle, though north of the Border they are apt to forget themselves and cry "Hoch Oi!"

Communists, Fascists, Republicans, Royalists; rich men, poor men, beggar-men, thieves, tinkers, tailors, soldiers, sailors—all dance it.

Negroid wiggles were relegated to the bam-bum-bammy shores whence they came, crooners forgot their desire to go back to Dixie, and in the stately homes of England dowagers ejaculated joyful "Ois". Yet it all began in Maida Vale. Mr. Douglas Furber, playwright who has wrought 50 plays, was brought a new piece of music by composer Noel Gay, ex-choirboy of Wakefield Cathedral and deviser of a too-clever revue called "Stop Press."

Furber was inspired. In seven minutes he wrote the words. "It's easy once you get the knack," he said, but no one believes him. The newly-born dance number was incorporated in "Me and My Girl," the then new Victoria Palace show, and was danced by Lupino Lane, Teddy St. Denis, and the company.

Audiences rolled in their seats, shouted "Oi!" with the company. Astute dance-hall director C. L. Heilmann saw it, sent Miss Adele England, his chief dance teacher, to see it and prepare a ballroom version.

In July the London Conference of the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing declined to take notice of it. They walked. In August the claret of dignified tradition at Cavers capitulated, and the elegant company at Northwood House stuck their thumbs in the air and "Oled" with the best of them.

"CHILDISH JIG"

The Walk crossed the Channel and gamblers left the tables to dance it. J. Frenchman, shocked at the lack of English "phlegm," wrote: "The Lambeth Walk is in principle a sort of childish jig, danced by couples who walk arm in arm, clapping their hands occasionally to convince themselves that they are very happy, and who at times utter, probably for the same reason and at certain moments indicated by the rhythm, crazy cries."

Now the King and Queen have danced it. The Lambeth Walk has become a Regal walk; it has progressed from Lupino Lane to Park Lane. It has arrived.

office that Governor Davis saw fit to appoint him in addition to the post of Master in Equity, and his nomination was only duly published in the Government Gazette on January 5, 1847. Exactly a week later, he was named to serve in the additional capacity as Registrar of the Admiralty Court, whose Proctor was the brilliant but unfortunate Mr. Norcott D'Este Parker, of whom mention has been made in a previous article in this series.

ESCAPED SCANDAL

Mr. Cay was fortunate in being a man who was interested solely in the pursuit of his official duties, and appears not to have become involved in the series of scandals which were early to centre round the career of Judge Hulme, who was accused by his enemies of being a drunkard, and therefore incapable of occupying the highest seat on the local bench. It was undoubtedly this aloofness from colonial politics which enabled him to remain in his post until April 29, 1856, when he resigned his Registrarship. No reason is given in contemporary records for his withdrawal from his appointment, but it is hinted, that, owing to the death of his wife four years earlier, Mr. Cay found life in Hongkong to be utterly intolerable, and considered it advisable to return to the land of his youth. There he dabbled in politics, and except acting as an agent for the Oriental Bank, entirely severed his connections with the Far East.

The news of his death at Shepperton, near Edinburgh on March 19, 1858, at the age of 81 years, was received with particular regret in the Colony where he had passed some twelve years of his life. The local newspapers spoke of his passing as "marking the end of a decade in our earlier history, which was signalled by the presence of great men, who, during the first years of Hongkong's existence, laid the foundation of the Colony which shall remain throughout the ages as a perpetual memorial to the achievements of the British people."

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS Weekly Return Gives One Fatality

In the Colony of Hongkong, including the island, Kowloon and the New Territories, during the week ending at 8 a.m. last Saturday there were altogether 78 traffic accidents, as the result of which one person was killed and 31 persons were injured.

The person killed, a Chinese male, age 15, was knocked down by a private car while walking across the road. Of the persons injured, 18 were pedestrians, who were either walking or running across the road and were struck by vehicles.

Five tram passengers and three bus passengers were injured while alighting from moving trams and moving buses, respectively.

Of the 78 accidents, 30 were collisions between vehicles; 28 were collisions between vehicles and pedestrians; and 20 were due to other causes.

The vehicles involved were—Private motor cars 53; motor lorries 18; motor buses 13; public motor cars 6; trams 12; bicycles 2; and tricycles 2.

Incident in Tientsin's Danger Zone

Tientsin, Nov. 10. When passing the bridge bordering the racecourse in Chinese territory this morning, Mrs. J. K. Caldwell, wife of the United States Consul-General, narrowly escaped being hit by a bullet, apparently fired by someone hidden in the tall reeds nearby. She heard the shot and saw the bullet strike the water.

An unprecedented series of attacks, allegedly by bandits, has occurred here since an order was issued forbidding Chinese and Japanese to attend the races. The outrages include the murder of a Russian dairy proprietor, the hold-up of a prominent Belgian family at their residence and the maltreatment and robbing of a hospital matron. All the attacks occurred in the racecourse area, the insecurity of which is being brought to the attention of consuls.—Reuter.

Withdrawal of Entire Community Envisaged

LONDON, NOV. 16.

IT IS INDICATED THAT A FIVE-POWER CONFERENCE WILL PROBABLY BE SUMMONED TO MEET IN LONDON IN A FEW DAYS TO DISCUSS RELIEF FOR GERMAN JEWS.

VON RATH'S BODY GOES BACK HOME

Funeral Takes Place This Morning

AACHEN, Nov. 16. A SPECIAL TRAIN carrying the mortal remains of the German Legation officer, Herr von Rath, who was assassinated in Paris, reached the German border at Aachen this morning.

A guard of honour prevented arms when the train entered the station, where thousands paid silent tribute. The Secretary of State, Baron von Weizsaecker represented the Foreign Office at the ceremony before the Cathedral, where the provincial party leader, Herr Grohe made a speech voicing the horror felt by the German people at the crime, and expressing gratitude to the French people for their sympathy.

The funeral will take place at Dusseldorf on Thursday.—Trans-Ocean.

Australians Recognise Annexation

Canberra, Nov. 16.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Joseph Lyons, announced to-day in the House of Representatives that the Commonwealth Government will proceed without delay formally to recognise de jure the conquest of Abyssinia by Italy.

The Prime Minister expressed the hope that the Anglo-Italian agreement would have the effect of restoring and consolidating the old traditional friendship between the two countries.—Trans-Ocean.

British Envoy In Capital

Chungking, Nov. 16.

The British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Kerr, called on Dr. H. H. Kung this morning, and Mr. Wang Chung-hui this afternoon.

Mr. Wang Chung-hui's dinner in honour of Sir Archibald to-night has been postponed owing to the Ambassador's slight eye trouble.

Sino-British circles point out that Sir Archibald's visit is a routine one. In British circles it is understood that the Ambassador has not offered to mediate in the Sino-Japanese conflict because he has not received a mandate to do so.—United Press.

ALL JEWS MAY BE WITHDRAWN FROM REICH

LONDON, Nov. 16. The Daily Mail political correspondent stated to-day that it was possible Mr. Joseph Kennedy, the American Ambassador, was in possession of Britain's views on the settlement of German Jews overseas, and that Mr. Kennedy would leave for the United States during the week-end personally to confer with President Roosevelt.

It is suggested that plans are under consideration which envisage the withdrawal of all Jews from Germany.—United Press.

LONDON CABINET HEARS PROPOSALS

LONDON, Nov. 16. It is understood that proposals for helping German refugees were discussed at this morning's usual meeting of the Cabinet.

A Berlin message says that Germany will not recall her Washington Ambassador, Herr von Dierckhoff, as an answer to the recall of Mr. Hugh Wilson, the American Ambassador to Berlin.

This is indicated in the newspaper Essener National Zeitung, which observes: "The United States may be convinced that National Socialism is not affected by the anti-German agitation in the United States, and its official reaction, because it has long been a tradition of United States policy to create anti-German sentiment by unfair methods in order to overcome domestic difficulties."

Mr. Wilson's trip to the United States may be even useful if thereby the anti-German campaign is stopped by the White House, as he witnessed the Austrian Anschluss and the Sudeten's return to the Reich, and he is therefore in a position objectively to report about Germany."

Mr. Hugh Wilson made his farewell to-day, when he visited Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop. In some quarters it is doubted whether the Ambassador will ever return, while the newspapers say that his recall is a concession by the United States Government to the Jews.

U. S. REPRESENTATION

Another message from Berlin says that it is learned that the United States has formally made representations regarding damage to American property, reserving all rights which include a demand for reparations. It is reported that other countries have taken, or contemplate taking, similar steps. It is understood that Americans have at least four claims, one of which is outside Berlin.

Diplomatic circles emphasised that foreign governments were not only interested in forcing recognition of damage claims, but were desirous of obtaining a definite ruling concerning foreign Jews being exempted from fines. They were also determined to obtain a reply to the contention that foreign Jews are entitled to re-open their shops.

Meanwhile Germany has answered world-wide attacks with a furious press onslaught on foreign countries, including America, and some well-informed circles believe that Herr Hitler will answer President Roosevelt's condemnation at Herr von Rath's funeral at Dusseldorf.—United Press.

CATHOLICS INCLUDED IN STATEMENT

Washington, Nov. 16. It was stated at the White House to-day that President Roosevelt's statement regarding Germany's treatment of the minorities applies to Catholics as well as Jews.

Mr. Stephen Early, the President's secretary, stated that President Roosevelt's statement was treated in the press as a rather unusual and firm statement regarding Jews only.

Britain And France Define Positions

PARIS, Nov. 16.

CONSIDERABLE EXCITEMENT has been aroused here by reports of the meeting of the Tanganyika League at which Dr. S. B. Maik, an Indian member of the Tanganyika Council, read with the authority of the Governor, a communique issued by Sir Mark Young.

The Governor in the Communique, referred to Mr. Chamberlain's negative reply to the House of Commons question whether the Government was contemplating the transfer of territory on any terms, and added that Mr. Malcolm MacDonald had authorised him to state that Mr. Chamberlain's answer is to be understood as meaning that His Majesty's Government is not contemplating the transfer of any territories under British administration.—Reuter.

FRENCH ATTITUDE

PARIS, Nov. 16. The French Government's attitude towards the colonial problem was defined—more rapidly than had been anticipated—in a communique issued by the Premier, M. Daladier to the press this afternoon, in which it was emphasised that the French Government does not contemplate entering into negotiations regarding the cession of any part of French colonial possessions.

It is further stressed that no such negotiations have ever been opened at any previous time.

Publication of the communique was followed by a visit paid to the Premier by the deputy chairman of the Chamber's Colonial Commission, M. Taillinger.—Trans-Ocean.

POSITION DEFINED IN COMMONS

LONDON, Nov. 16. In the House of Commons to-day Mr. G. L. M. Mander asked the Premier what action he proposed to take with reference to the demand for the return of colonies advanced by Herr Hitler at Godesberg, and whether he would give assurance that it is still the policy of the Government that the matter will only be considered as part of a general settlement.

In reply, Sir John Simon referred Mr. Mander to the reply given by Mr. Chamberlain on November 10.

Mr. Mander asked for a specific answer to the latter part of the question with regard to a general settlement, and Sir John Simon answered that the statements that had been made on the subject could certainly stand.—Reuter.

LONDON, Nov. 16.

Negotiations for the Anglo-American trade agreement have successfully concluded, and the agreement will be signed to-morrow in Washington, declared Mr. Oliver Stanley amid cheers in the House of Commons to-day.

He added that the agreement would come into force on January 1. Mr. Stanley said he understood the agreement between the United States and Canada would be signed simultaneously.—Reuter.

Mr. Early added that the statement intended to cover the stoning of Cardinal Innitzer's house in Vienna, and measures against Catholics, who, Mr. Early said, had been mistreated in other parts of Germany.—Reuter.

Japan's Attempt To Crush Trade

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16.

REGARDING THE JAPANESE REFUSAL to open the Yangtse, a Chinese spokesman said to-day that this was Tokyo's reply to the French, British and American notes, and it indicates that Japan insists upon the "exclusive use of the most important Chinese waterway."

This measure is a "most powerful weapon with which to crush foreign trade all over China, besides enabling Japan to carry out other illegal actions."

The spokesman said that Japan, by so doing, intends to reduce China to an exclusive market for Japanese exporters.

He added that the Japanese will exploit "the illegal position maintained by force," whereby Japanese merchant ships can move freely.

He said that shipping was the last line of defence of Western commercial interests in China, and added that the measures taken by the Western Powers in presenting merely diplomatic notes was insufficient because in Tokyo there was a large heap of Western protests to most of which Japan offers excuses, and an effective "No" to the latest tri-Power protest.

The spokesman said that the Western Powers should take "firm action and suitable reprisals" against the Japanese position.

U.S. KNOWS OF BRITISH ATTITUDE

LONDON, Nov. 16. Mr. A. C. Moring put two questions in the House of Commons to-day about the American note to Japan on October 6.

Firstly he asked whether the Government had notified Japan that it was in agreement with this note, to which Mr. Butler, in a written reply, referred Mr. Moring to the answer given on November 10, adding "I am satisfied that the Japanese Government is fully aware of the attitude of the Government."

The second question was whether the Government, with reference to the note, had signified to the United States Government its desire to co-operate in maintaining a policy of the Open Door.

Mr. Butler stated that Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador to Japan, had been in "constant touch" with his American colleague, and he (Mr. Butler) did not think the United States Government could be in "any doubt" as to Britain's policy with regard to the Open Door.—Reuter.

"VERDICT: Smash hit! This is the most exciting film I have seen for a year. The prize-fighting sequences betray the touch of the master. "Magnificently done. Mr. Taylor and the director do a splendid job of entertainment. Frank Morgan, Lionel Stander, Edward Arnold and Nat Pendleton are immense. Every possible device of suspense and humour is used, the dramatics of boxing which the stage can never approach are fully exploited and interludes of wailing and gangsterism balance a brilliantly made picture which holds you for every second."

WIN ALL TEST GAMES: A SPLENDID RECORD

The Nawab of Manavadar's team, which included six members of the last Indian Olympic side, have just returned to India after a successful tour of New Zealand where they won 30 of their 31 matches.

Their only reverse was at Auckland, where the provincial team defeated them by five goals to four and thus earned the distinction of being the first team in that country ever to lower the Indians' colours—a splendid achievement and one which received the unstinted congratulation of the Nawab, who did not plead that casualties had played havoc with his side.

Auckland, in fact, won on their merits and the Indians were as pleased as the home team, who had fashioned their tactics on those of the visitors.

FOUR TESTS WON

The Indians, however, had the satisfaction of winning all four of the Test matches—by 2-1 at Dunedin, 5-1 at Christchurch, 4-0 at Wellington and 3-2 at Auckland.

The biggest victory of the tour was scored at Rotorua where the Indians beat the local team by 24-0. They also entered double figures on ten other occasions.

The major portion of their trip (omitting matches in Ceylon and Australia) brought the Indians a total of 243 goals and only 10 were netted against them.

In the opinion of New Zealand players, the Manavadar State XI was even better than the Indian Hockey Federation side which toured the islands in 1935. The latter side, it is true, scored more goals, but were favoured with far better weather, which entailed heavy pitches on only three occasions whereas the Manavadar XI enjoyed good conditions only thrice.

Those who participated in both tours considered that the standard of play in the islands had risen perceptibly.

RETURN VISIT

India wants New Zealand to pay a return visit, but the New Zealand hockey authorities are inclined to think that the standard of their own players has not yet attained a sufficiently high level and that it is unlikely to do so until the game is played during both summer and winter.

At the beginning of the year. The club seems to enjoy travelling for already it is endeavouring to arrange a visit to Luxembourg at Easter and a tour of Iceland in July. The team which visited Hongkong has not been together since the end of its tour but it will be on view at the end of this week when a side is to be fielded against Tottenham Hotspurs.

Sherwood and Miller, two of the outstanding forwards, have since turned professional with Reading and Fulham respectively, but they have been granted special permission by the F. A. to turn out in this game.

STICKS FOR LEADING SCORERS

Generous Gesture By
Mr. Amar Singh

As the ladies have just commenced their League and the new Hongkong Hockey Association Tournament is in full swing, I have approached Mr. Amar Singh, manager of International Sports, for a generous donation of Indian sticks to be presented to the top goal-scorers of each League, the Caer Clark Cup, Brown Cup and the Hongkong Hockey Association Tournament.

A stick will also be given to the best all-rounder in the Caer Clark Cup and Hongkong H. A. Tournament.

The most-improved player in the Brown Cup will also receive a stick. Six sticks in all will be presented and towards the end of the season the winners, who will be nominated by me, will have their names and photos published in the Telegraph.

The winners will have their own choice of sticks, either "The Royal Prince" or "The Tournament." These are splendid Indian sticks which can be seen on display in the International Sports' shop-window.

At the close of the season, Mr. Amar Singh himself will present the sticks to the winners.

HERE AND THERE WITH "PILGRIM"

THE C.B.S. "A" crashed very badly in their first match in the Caer Clark Cup competition at King's Park last Saturday. Miss Nora Wicheil, at centre-half, was the only one who played her usual game; she did grand work both in defence and attack. I was very surprised to see Miss E. McKelvie give such an erratic display at left back. I am positive she is capable of doing better.

MISS D. McCaw, as leader, attacked strongly but like the rest of the line, was not quick enough to break through the home defence. The girls, to improve their forward line, must try and develop long passing tactics—a phase of the game in which they are not too happy. Most of their short passes, while at times clever, were very often intercepted by their faster opponents. A four-nil defeat is not too encouraging for a debut game but the girls must bear in mind that they are playing in a higher division and naturally a higher standard of play is necessary. If they keep their chins up, they should learn a great deal in their first season among the senior teams.

THAT St. Andrew's won so easily was due to the opportunism of their forwards, Miss E. Wong, Miss P. Gittins and Miss A. Greiner, but there were also some bad finishing and misses by Miss E. Churn and Miss Wong when in the circle. The Saints' defence marked very closely and kept their forwards well pilled with the ball. I hope Miss Marie Rosa has secured her place in the team; she played amazingly well at left back. The game clearly showed the difference between the standard of hockey as played in the senior and junior divisions. The school-girls individually or combined were no match for the team-work of their opponents.

IN the Brown Cup series the C.B.A. proved themselves far superior to the C.B.S. "B", being faster on the ball and more ready to take advantage of openings. As a team, they showed a marked improvement on their last-season form. They should do well for themselves in future games.

The quality of hockey served up by the junior schoolgirls was very poor. They relied on "hit and rush" tactics and many attacks were broken up by the more solid defence of their opponents. The girls should have done better, though they have lost a few players who have gone up to their senior XI. I would like to remind their coach that the juniors must always be seriously considered. I need not point out that in hockey, as in every other sport, the junior player constitutes the backbone. Break that backbone (Continued on Page 9)

Lt. Patterson Hit
In The Face

A good goal scored by Tom Whitely just before the interval gave the Club victory in a friendly hockey game played on their own ground last evening against the Royal Scots. Speedy forwards and equally capable defences were needed by both teams.

The second half found the Club attack definitely superior; but their shooting when in the circle was poor. S. Fowler and Divett missed a couple of sitters when well placed. The forwards, however, received splendid support from Lowe and W. A. Reed, the halves.

The re-start was only ten minutes old when an unfortunate accident befell Lieut. Patterson, the Scots' inside left. During a raid on the Club goal, he received a nasty crack from a stick across the nose. He was wearing glasses at the time and received a deep cut under the left eye. Bleeding freely and in a dazed condition, he was immediately taken by car to the Military Hospital.

The game ended there and then, due to fading light. Robb, in goal for the Scots, defended well, while Kennedy on the right wing, put in some nice centres. The game lasted only 33 minutes— which is hardly sufficient to really test the capabilities of either side.

Mrs. Garon And Storey Win Mixed Golf Title In Worpleston Tourney

By George Greenwood

London, Oct. 15.

Mrs. Marjorie Garon, a former English champion, and Eustace Storey, an ex-Cambridge captain and Walker Cup player, won the Open Scratch Mixed Foursomes at Worpleston yesterday. In the 36 holes final they beat Miss Wanda Morgan, a former holder of the British and English titles, and Kenneth Morris, captain of Oxford in 1934, by the suprisingly big margin of 6 and 5.

This overwhelming defeat was due principally to the inability of Miss Morgan to produce anything approaching the game of which she is capable. Not only had she lost her putting touch, but some of the in-between shots were unconvincing. The side produced something of a rally, but it was of the briefest nature and gradually but inevitably the match developed into a procession.

In the first half the tale of misfortune was largely one of putting; in the second, bunkers and heather were the fatal attraction. With Morris far less accurate than usual, there was little hope of the side's success. Mrs. Garon putted beautifully, and it was mainly through her efforts that the side had only 31 putts for the first 18 holes.

"If you hit 'em straight they'll drop," was the dictum of Bobby Jones. This is precisely what Mrs. Garon did, and appropriately enough, finished the match by holing a putt of 12 feet for a 2 at the short 13th.

She was ably supported by Storey,

who, faithful to his "corkscrew" stance, and using a putter with a head no longer than a safety-razor blade, holed several useful putts. In brief, by outplaying their opponents at practically every point of the game, Mrs. Garon and Storey richly deserved to win. At the same time it was possible to sympathise with the losers, whose display was far too indifferent to be true.

Mrs. Garon and Storey finished the first round a hole to the good, having been three up at the 18th. Making their first concerted effort, the opposition won the next two holes and would have squared at the 18th, had not Miss Morgan hooked an iron shot wide of the green. Miss Morgan's iron shots lacked their customary crispness and the putting, usually one of her strong points, was indecisive.

MRS. GARON'S LONG PUTT

With six holes played the side were two down, having lost the fifth, of which they made a complete hash.

London, Nov. 16.

William Hall, of Tottenham, playing at inside right for England, in a brilliant display of opportunism and marksmanship, scored five goals and helped England to overwhelm Ireland in the international soccer match at Manchester to-day by seven goals to nil.

Hall's feat of scoring five times was an England international record, and his three goals in three minutes becomes the first of international fast scoring records.

The Irish defenders were unable to check the speedy English forwards, who indulged in long swinging passes and brilliant combination.

The Irish forwards were given little of the ball by the English defenders, who were deadly in their tackling.

Other English goal-scorers were Lawton, the centre-forward, Matthews, outside right.

England led 4-0 at half-time.

Ireland's defeat ensures that they will finish at the bottom of the International table.

One change was made in each side. Morris, the Wolverhampton right back, coming in to take the place of Sproston, who was injured, and Twoomey, of Leeds, playing in goal for Ireland instead of Breen, of Manchester United.

Team: England.—Woodley; Morris, Hapgood; Willingham, Cullis, Mercer; Matthews, Hall, Lawton, Stephenson and Smith.

Ireland.—Twoomey; Hayes, Cook; Broily, McMillan, L. D. Brown; Cochrane, Stephenson, Baird, Doherty and Brown (Birmingham).—Reuter.

TWO FIXTURES DECIDED IN "B" DIVISION

Only two matches were played in the "B" Division of the Men's Doubles Badminton League last evening, the other two games being postponed.

At Talkeo, Chung Wah had little difficulty in disposing of the V.R.C., winning by seven games to two. Among the players turning out for Chung Wah were several who represented the C.R.C. in the League last year.

St. John's, winners of the "B" Division last season, made a good start in their game against the Wanderers and conceded only one game out of nine. As the St. Andrew's Hall was not available, the tie between St. Andrew's "A" and Club de Recreo was not played. It is understood that St. Andrew's cannot play home matches on Wednesdays.

J. C. WHITE INJURED

Famous Left-hand Bowler Loses Eye in Shooting Accident

London, Nov. 16.

J. C. White, former Somerset and England slow left-hand bowler, who has played in fifteen cricket Tests between 1921 and 1931, lost his left eye in a shooting accident to-day.

An operation was performed immediately, but he may not be able to see again.

White took 100 wickets in each of fourteen consecutive seasons.—Reuter.

ELIMINATION BOUT

Tiger Jack Fox Matched With Al Gainer

New York, Nov. 15.

Tiger Jack Fox, of Spokane, has been matched with Al Gainer, of Newhaven, for a 15-round bout at the Bronx Coliseum on November 20. It is the first of a series of eliminations in the light-heavyweight division. Both are negroes.

Athletic Commission physicians have examined Ceferino Garcia and Henry Armstrong, and have pronounced both in excellent condition. They are training daily for the welterweight bout in which Armstrong will defend his title.—United Press.

and the health of the game quickly disappears. It may sound facetious but in all sport, the "rabbit" provides the real and definite foundation.

THE K.I.T.C. last Saturday received a surprise reverse from the Y.M.C.A. when they suffered a 5-1 defeat on the "Y" ground. Praise must be given to the "Y" defence, in which Taylor, Austen and Dawson gave a highly creditable display.

The attack, with Bartlett and Rose, continually worried the K.I.T.C. defence and prevented them from settling down to their military players) led by Pyra Singh were rather overshadowed by the home side, except for a brief period at the beginning of the first half. A. P. Souza, at inside-left, was dangerous but held on the ball too long. Pinto and Malik were good defenders but the pace set up by the "Y" forwards in the second half proved too much for them. On current form, the "Y" look like having a very successful season. Here's luck!

I BELIEVE the "Y" ladies will be greatly strengthened by the inclusion of Miss Helen Becker, former D.G.S. star centre-forward. She has just arrived back in the Colony and will prove a great acquisition to the "Y" attack. Mrs. M. Read will in future be seen in goal and Miss Becker, I presume, will lead the attack. I can imagine the "Y" forwards bagging a heap of goals this season.

THE R.A.O.C. suffered the biggest defeat to date in the H.K.H.A. Tournament when they went down to the R.A.E. by ten goals to nil at Tak last Monday. The R.A.E. have a very impressive record, having played three games and won three, with 18 goals for and three against. The aviators have since their encounter with the Nomads had two goal-getters to aid them in Lieut. Woods (inside right), Lieut. Mead (inside-left), Lieut. Miller is also a tower of strength at right back. With this outfit they should be capable of holding their own against the stronger civilian teams.

all citizens were urged to install illuminated house numbers so that addresses could easily be located at night by visitors to the 1939 Golden Gate and International Exposition.

The position was unchanged at the 9th, the only hole of the outward half that was halved, all the others being either won or lost—a most unusual circumstance in a foursome. Four down at the tenth, where Morrice put his tee shot into the rhododendrons, was a serious if not a critical position. The end was now in sight. The 11th was halved in an adventurous 0, and then Mrs. Garon and Storey clinched the match with a great 4 at the 12th and a 2 at the next.

Four down at the tenth, where Morrice put his tee shot into the rhododendrons, was a serious if not a critical position. The end was now in sight. MOST children like the flavour of pineapple and a tin of chunks or rings can be made to go much farther round if used in conjunction with everyday food.

Let's start off with recipes for the children. Adding pineapple to rice is a capital way of getting them to eat this. Rice is so good for them that they really must be encouraged to like it.

This is how I serve "Sunshine Rice," and my family look on it as a treat. There is never any left over.

Bring one pint of milk to the boil, add 2½oz. of washed rice, and cook in a double saucepan until creamy and soft. This usually takes about two hours. Cool slightly, stir in a beaten egg and cook gently for a few minutes. Pour into a hot glass dish and add the pineapple chunks, stirring them into the rice.

Fine Feathers In Fashion's Favour

THE "longest ostrich feather cape in the world" and a feather bodi-embroidery all the colours of the rainbow were features of a London dress parade recently held in the presence of the Duchess of Kent.

Sponsors of the parade were the South African Government, playing hosts not only to a great assembly of well-known people but also to a large and wonderful collection of ostrich feathers from the South African farms where the industry is centred.

The dress show was the culmination of the come-back being achieved by ostrich feathers, the culmination, too, of this summer's revival of the lovely, graceful Edwardian fashions which are sweeping feathers into favour once more.

In shimmering satin, gleaming paillettes and elegant lace the man-fringed platform before us. And in presentation gown, day or evening ensemble, and Ascot creation, the crowning grace was the foaming, loveliness of ostrich feathers of every hue and style, wedded to exquisite materials and designs and enhancing the effect of every model they adorned or accompanied.

Hats in All Styles

Hats of every style, from tiny, close-fitting tailored toques to immense picture models worn with ankle-length gowns, had a new dignity and becoming softness given to them by the clever use of feathers. These feathers clustered over the crown, stood poised at the back or front of the toque or swept richly over crown and brim of cartwheel designs.

They picked up colour contrasts shown in the accompanying gown and completed the effect of ostrich-trimmed coatee or feather cape.

Eau de nil feathers, five feet long and lovely, as seafoam, composed an exquisite full-length evening cape. It was worn over a matching gown of shining duchess satin.

Nearly as long was a pale grey cape, formed of horizontal tiers of ostrich feathers falling nearly to the ankles over a matching grey chiffon gown.

A short day ensemble had a tiny hat on which perched an unusual and attractive bow formed of ostrich feathers.

A small cap almost covered with a mass of lovely plum-coloured ostrich feathers accompanied a tailored wool day dress and coat.

Bread Pudding

Made with left-over bread and butter. Arrange the pieces of stale bread and butter in a buttered pie-dish, sprinkling each layer with sugar and pineapple. Add some salt to ½ pint milk, heat, and pour it on to a beaten egg. Strain into the pie-dish, grate a little nutmeg on the top and cook for half an hour. Bake in a moderate oven.

Pineapple Jelly

There will be no pineapple jelly left to clear up, if you make it in this way.

If you serve it with cream and sweet biscuits this becomes quite a party sweet. Children, of course, love it. Empty the contents of a large tin of pineapple cubes into a large jug. Strain the juice into a saucepan, and make up to not quite a pint with water.

Add a pint pineapple jelly square, dissolve it in the water and stir it well before pouring into the mould, to make sure it all dissolves evenly. When the jelly is dissolved, pour a little into a mould and leave to set, then arrange a ring of pineapple and pour over a little more jelly and continue with pineapple rings and jelly, leaving each layer of jelly to set before the next is added.

Greaseproof Tips

A SMALL store of greaseproof paper in the kitchen can prove invaluable to the housewife in many ways. Here are some of them:—

A folded piece of greaseproof paper, well-floured, makes a good substitute for a baking board. No scrubbing is necessary as the paper is burned after use.

Dustbins keep much cleaner when lined with greaseproof paper which is changed once a week.

Greaseproof paper covers prevent cookery books from getting soiled and sticky.

Any fried foods placed on greaseproof paper for one minute before serving lose all softness and become crisp and appetising.

Tomato Crystals

DISSOLVE a pint packet of lemon jelly in slightly less than 1 pint of boiling water. Pour a little of the jelly into the bottoms of small individual moulds and leave to set.

Then place a thin slice of peeled tomato on the jelly and add a little more jelly. Leave to set again and continue in this way till the moulds are full.

When set turn out on to crisp lettuce leaves and decorate with chopped hard-boiled egg. B. M.

Try it with PINEAPPLE

adding more pineapple. Put a final layer of jelly. Stand in a cold place to set.

Pineapple Sauce

A pineapple sauce makes a plain steamed pudding taste better.

Blend 2 level teaspoonsful of best cornflour with a little of the pineapple juice, add a pinch of salt.

Boil the rest of the juice, pour on to the blended cornflour, add some sugar and boil and stir for 5 minutes. Serve with a plain steamed pudding.

Cold Party Sweet

For a cold supper party sweet. Cut five small sponge cakes in half, spread each with apricot jam, and place together. Arrange them in a glass bowl and pour over a dissolved pineapple jelly. Leave to set, then decorate with the shredded tinned pineapple and blanched and spiced almonds. Decorate with whipped cream.

New Winter Fashions

FASHION creators have excelled themselves this season in designing clothes which delight the eye and stimulate the imagination of woman. All the colours of the rainbow, the warm, rich tones of autumn leaves, the shades of flowers in a summer garden, a riot of pastel shades in blues, greens, and yellows, and sparkling silver and gold are at her command, and the styles are suited to her individual preferences.

An interesting display of new winter fashions, culminating in a bridal procession, was given recently in Edinburgh, when a wide variety of coats, hats, dresses, and furs were shown. The displays are to be given to-day and to-morrow.

A number of three-piece suits, consisting of a loose-fitting ¾-length coat over a tailored jacket and skirt were shown. Some of these three-piece suits were in checked tweed, while others were in self-coloureds. The coats of some, which patterned, were worn over self-coloured jackets and skirts, and vice versa.

Black was the colour of some smart long coats trimmed with black Persian lamb. A black coat, also in fashionable boucle material, was trimmed with seal on the sleeves and collar. An interesting black coat of face cloth was lined with ocelot fur fabric, and was reversible, so that it was really two coats in one.

One of the evening dresses shown featured the new corseted waistline, and among the materials for evening wear taffeta predominated, although satin, crepe, marocain, and lame were well to the fore.

Among the attractive selection of fur coats was one in the new romance-dyed musquash. It featured a Peter Pan collar and built-up shoulders. Another fur coat, in astrakhan, and for the fuller figure, had a brown fur collar, making a striking, but very effective, contrast. Another smartly-tailored fur coat was of American broadtail in the new double-breasted "coachman" style. It had a collar of contrasting grey fur. A number of beautiful fur capes for evening or day wear were also shown.

Many of the smart hats worn by the mannequins matched their dress, suit, or coat. The fashionable Edwardian styles of hats, with high crowns and veil trimming, added the correct finishing touch to the graceful ensembles worn.

Making The Most Of Needlework

ONE of the pleasant things about autumn and winter is that needlework comes into its own. Drawn curtains and dancing fire-light are such incentives to get out our workbags and go ahead with some attractive needlework.

Whether you are an old hand at the game or an enthusiastic beginner, embroidery hints are usually fascinating when it comes to planning out the shades of silk to be used in a piece of work? Are you aware that mid-shades of greens, pinks, or blues, placed against a darker background will appear quite pale? But put these colours against a lighter ground and they will at once appear much deeper.

For line stitches, fairly strong shades are the best choice, but for "filling in" purposes pin your faith to pale shades. They are, much more effective.

Purples, vivid blues, and the new shades of red, such as fuchsia, deep burgundy, "shocking" pink, and the deeper shades of mauve, are topical colour news, but for embroidery purposes do not lose your head over them if you are working a mixed colour scheme, or they will swamp the rest of the shades.

The Favourite Foundation Material

Linen is public favourite No. 1 as a foundation material, and, if good embroidery silks or cottons are used, it will return triumphantly from the wash tub time after time.

Washing is a process for light fingers. Soak and do up and down as much as you will, but avoid rubbing. And use powdered borax (in the proportion of 2 ozs to 10 gallons of nearly boiling water) instead of soda. Rinsing must be thorough, and the water must be warm only. A touch of blue in the last rinsing water will brighten the colours.

In ironing embroidery, whether a finished piece of work or after laundering, remember to use the iron on the wrong side with several thicknesses of soft cloth under a clean ironing sheet.

With a satin background, embroidery should be ironed first on the right side (to gloss up the satin) and the silk embroidery, and then on the wrong side (to throw up the embroidery into relief.) Do not use a damp cloth.

Applique Work

Applique work is very decorative and gives the artistic woman a good deal of scope for her creative instinct. But often with an important piece of work it is difficult to baste the pieces in their respective places. Try brushing over the back of each piece with a little thin starch and then place carefully into position. Leave until dry, or press dry with a hot iron. The starch will not harm the material at all, and will come out after the first washing.

And here is a useful tip about transfers. When a transfer design is to be stamped on to a piece of work there is no need to heat an iron.

Place the transfer sheet in position, then damp a cloth with methylated spirit and apply it to the back of the transfer until it is moistened all over. The result will be a beautifully clear design, and what is more attractive, the same transfer sheet can do duty several times in succession.

Rumanian Ruler's Great Welcome in London

LONDON, Nov. 16.
LONDON GAVE KING CAROL and Prince Michael a great reception when they left Buckingham Palace in an open carriage for the Guildhall to-day.

They were welcomed by the Lord Mayor, and a large company of distinguished people, including Mr. Neville Chamberlain and Lord Halifax.

An illuminated address of welcome was read, and a few presentations made to the King, after which King Carol, accompanied by Prince Michael, the Duke of Gloucester and the Lord Mayor, headed a procession to the luncheon hall.

Addressing the assembly and thanking the reception given him and his son by the people of England, King Carol said the fact that "in my veins flows the same blood as that of your King, I am convinced has contributed to this warm welcome."

"Moreover, in recent times, neither I, nor my people, could forget that Rumania belonged to the same mighty army of allies, fighting for the same cause and for the same faith."

The territory itself is said to be a compact part of the fertile equatorial coast of West-Africa. It will embrace a part of Cameroons, part of Angola and also a strip of Congo territory.

Apart from the excellent coast, this territory will have a rich and varied hinterland with a peaceful and scattered population of bush negroes.

Raw materials are said to be available in abundance. Moreover the Pirow plan proposes, says the Daily Mail, a formation by the European colonial powers of a common colonial pool with an international board of control.

Mr. Pirow intends, adds the London paper, to negotiate with Herr Walter Funk, the German Minister of Economics, regarding the extension of the trade between Germany and the South-African Union.

Mr. Pirow is said to be desirous of purchasing commercial aeroplanes in Germany or America while he is visiting England to supply war planes.

Mr. Pirow, asserts the diplomatic correspondent, is going to Germany with a clear insight into the policy of appeasement which Downing Street wishes to be applied to the colonial question.

His first proposal will be that Germany should forget about its former protectorates and express itself willing to back the idea of an international conference to discuss every aspect of the Pirow plan.

France and Belgium would be prepared to lend support to this conference provided Germany does not set its demand too high.

available regarding the Chinese advance on Canton it is generally believed that they are advancing from several directions.

That the Japanese are attacking considerable importance to the Chinese offensive against Canton is evident from the fact that they are preparing strong defence positions outside of the city. It is, moreover, reported that three Japanese divisions from Amoy have been ordered to march northwards to bring the Chinese advance to a halt. According to other reports the Japanese attempted unsuccessfully to land troops at Paon, north-west of Hongkong.—Trans-Ocean.

Apprentice Obtains Keys To the Safe

Before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday, Fung King-fai, a 17-year-old apprentice after employed at Gilman's Garage, Hennessy Road, was charged with breaking into the Garage on September 23, and stealing $3.00. Another after, Chan Ho, 28, was charged with counselling Fung to commit the theft.

Detective-Sergeant J. R. Bentley said that both men were employed at the garage, and early on the morning of September 23, Fung broke in by removing a pane of glass from a door. He opened a safe in the office and took $3.00. The youth had a relative named Wu Chik-kan, who was a clerk employed in the garage, and knowing that Wu kept the keys to the safe, had stolen them from his home.

Before the theft took place, Chan had urged the youth to steal the keys. Chan was paid wages of $30 per month, while Fung earned $6 per month. Sergeant Bentley added that there had recently been many petty thefts from the garage.

Mr. Forrest remarked that he viewed Chan's offence as more serious, as he had not only been prepared to steal, but had got another person to do the thieving for him.

Chan was sentenced to two months' hard labour, and Fung was bound over in the sum of $50 to be of good behaviour for a year.

Mr. C. Sloan, manager of the garage, appeared as complainant.

FIVE MAJOR PACIFIC EARTHQUAKES ROCK ENTIRE WORLD

7 Britons In Strange China Sea Adventure

ENGLISH LADY IN CREW OF JUNK

A DOCTOR, AN ENGLISH LADY and five Australians are believed to be the crew of the round-the-world junk which has been seized by Japanese authorities in Formosa after drifting in the China Sea for several days.

The junk is reported to be the Hummell-Hummell, which recently completed a successful crossing of the Pacific from San Pedro to Shanghai.

The vessel is owned by Dr. Jim Petersen, an American.

He picked up a new crew in Shanghai, before setting out on a new stage of his adventurous trip around the world, which will take him to the Philippines and Australia.

Included the crew is Mrs. Ursula
Lloyd, well-known English aviatrix.
According to a "Domest" message received in Hongkong this morning, seven Britons landed at Koshiu in the Pescadore Islands. They included a British lady.

The seven people were in a junk which, becalmed in the China Sea, drifted aimlessly for several days.
When the British people landed at Koshiu they were in the last stages of exhaustion.

They have been taken from the Pescadores to Makao, in Formosa, where they are now undergoing examination by Customs and gendarmerie authorities.

Hongkong naval authorities have received no report of this or any other junk carrying British people being missing.

A "United Press" message states that the junk, which has been detained by the Japanese authorities, contains a rich cargo of Chinese damask and costly camphorwood trunks, in addition to the crews' personal belongings.

The Hummell-Hummell is a 10-ton junk, and has an overall of 30 feet, a beam of six feet and a draught of three feet. There is no auxiliary engine.

The vessel formerly was owned by Mr. W. Emmertmann, German resident of Shanghai, who sold it to Dr.
Petersen for an adventurous trip around the world.

The crew which sailed the vessel to San Pedro from Shanghai were detained by U.S. immigration

Disturbances In Ocean May Bring Disasters

THE GREATEST SERIES OF EARTHQUAKES RECORDED FOR MANY YEARS HAS SHAKEN THE ENTIRE WORLD DURING THE PAST TWELVE DAYS.

Since November 5, a total of five major earthquakes, some of almost record magnitude, have been recorded on seismographs throughout the world.

In addition, there have been 25 earthquakes of varying magnitude.

All these disasters indicate that, an abnormal upheaval is in progress in the world's weakest area, between the southern coast of Alaska and northern Japan.

Fortunately, the epicentres of all the earthquakes have been in the Pacific Ocean or in uninhabited parts of Alaska and the Aleutian Islands.

But there is danger that a major catastrophe may overtake Japan, Formosa or the Philippine Islands if the shocks do not cease.

BRITISH ENVOY TO RETURN HERE

SIR ARCHIBALD KERR,
British Ambassador to China, will leave Hongkong on Saturday after interviews with the political leaders in the Chinese war capital, according to the Ta Kung Pao.

The Ambassador will pay a short visit to Hongkong on his way to Shanghai.

Yesterday Sir Archibald Kerr
called on Dr. H. H. Kung, President of the Executive Yuan and Minister of Finance, Dr. Wang Kang-hui, Foreign Minister, and General Chang Chun, Director of the Generalissimo's Headquarters in Nanchang.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei,
Vice-President of the Kuomintang, will meet the diplomat to-day.

The questions discussed are not disclosed.

The recent conversations between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Sir Archibald Kerr in Nanchang were satisfactory to both sides, the paper also added.

Gunfire Again Heard In S'hai

Intermittent gunfire was again heard in the outskirts of Shanghai during the past two days, according to a Shanghai message received here.

Strict vigilance, it is stated, is being taken by the Japanese for fear of surprise attacks from Chinese guerrillas.—Central News.

Village Near Hongkong Frontier Destroyed

THE DESTRUCTION of a small village in Chinese territory close to the Colony's borders, by a party of Japanese sailors from Japanese warships has been reported to the local police by Ng Ying, part owner of a junk, who returned to the Colony yesterday.

He said that while his junk was anchored off Ngau Tau, in Chinese water, on November 11, he sighted a number of warships approaching from the distance. Fearing that he would be attacked if he remained on his junk, he removed two rifles, two machine guns, 100 lbs. of ammunition, and 5 lbs. of powder to a shop in the village for safety.

During the early hours of November 12, the Japanese vessels entered the bay, and landed a party, who proceeded to the destruction of the village.
Ng fled, and took refuge inland, making his way to Hongkong in the morning, and arriving here yesterday.

These three countries are in the heart of the earthquake zone which, commencing in Alaska, runs through the Aleutian Islands, Japan, Formosa, the Philippines and New Guinea.

Japan is suffering severely from the ocean disturbances, apart from the possibility that it may find itself in the epicentre of further earthquakes.

It has been almost continuously rocked since November 5, the last major shocks being felt over a wide area in northern Japan at 8 a.m.
yesterday.

The epicentre of this earthquake was 42 miles north-east of Shoya Promontory in Fukuoka Prefecture, according to the Japan Meteorological Observatory.

No casualties have been reported from this latest disturbance, but the tremors were strong enough to send people out of doors at Sendai, capital of Miyagi Prefecture.

Mount Asama, Japan's sacred mountain, is also in eruption as a result of the disturbances, and lava flowing down its sides is threatening villages below.

All the shocks have been recorded at the Royal Observatory in Hongkong, and nearly all have been recorded at London, Sydney, Wellington and other parts of the world.

The five major earthquakes were recorded very strongly in Hongkong and London.

They will almost certainly cause tidal waves in the affected area.

Britain Orders Planes From U. S.

London, Nov. 16.
Sir Kingsley Wood, the Air Minister, announced in the House of Commons to-day that an agreement had been signed under which the Government was placing an initial order for large bombers with manufacturers in Canada.

The Canadian firms undertook to maintain for the next ten years a manufacturing capacity available for further potential orders.

Two central establishments would be placed in Montreal and Toronto for execution of the orders.—
Reuter.

INCREASE IN DISEASE HERE YESTERDAY

Another two cases of cholera were reported in Hongkong yesterday, and so far this year 529 cases have been notified. There were also eight cases of dysentery, making the year's aggregate to 922. Four cases of measles, four of enteric fever, two of diphtheria and one of small pox, in addition to two cases which were imported.

Trade Pact To Be Signed To-morrow

Washington, Nov. 16.
America's trade agreement with Britain and Canada will be signed at the White House at 9 p.m., Sir Ronald Lindsay for Britain, and Mr. Mackenzie King for Canada.

Details of both agreements, which are expected to include hundreds of tariff concessions, will be announced on publication on Friday morning.

The Anglo-American agreement will be announced simultaneously in Washington and London. British agreement will be accompanied by a note from the British Government expressing willingness to discuss with the United States the possibility of further tariff reductions on American exports after Britain has been released from some of the obligations under the Ottawa agreement.

The State Department announced that the agreement with Britain includes Northern Ireland, British colonies, and British possessions in Latin America.—Reuter.

U.S.-CANADA FACT

New York, Nov. 16.
It is believed that President Roosevelt and Mr. Mackenzie King will discuss the problem of defence and refugees after the signing of the U.S.-Canadian trade pact to-morrow, states a Washington report.

The defence discussion will touch on the question of defending the whole of the American continent, while it is understood that the refugee talks will be on the basis of a long-term scheme for handling the problem.

In Ottawa, that part of President Roosevelt's statement yesterday dealing with defence, is stated to be interpreted as an indication that Canada might co-operate actively with the United States in a unified programme of air and coastal defence.—Reuter.

796 Counties In China Affected By Invasion

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16.

AN OFFICIAL OF the Executive Yuan, speaking to the press to-day announced that according to data up to the middle of October, Japanese troops were at present in nine provinces in China proper, in which there are altogether 796 counties.

Out of the 796 counties, there were 489 still completely under Chinese control, 248 under partial Chinese control, and only 59 under complete Japanese control.—United Press.

Japanese C. in C. Dashes Hopes

NO RIVER TRAFFIC BETWEEN HONGKONG AND CANTON YET

HOPES THAT THE PEARL RIVER would be opened to British shipping within a few days were dashed by Admiral Shiozawa during a press conference aboard his flagship Myoko this afternoon.

While reiterating that the Japanese authorities were willing to re-open the river to foreign trade at the earliest moment, the Admiral could not say when that moment would be.

"We cannot talk in weeks," he said when pressed. "It may be months."

A press conference was held on board the Myoko a quarter of an hour before she left harbour at 2 p.m.

Admiral Shiozawa was all smiles
when he returned from his luncheon aboard H.M.S. Falkmouth and it was evident that he had spent a pleasant morning with his "opposite number" of the British Navy.

The results of the press conference was not so pleasing, however. Japanese naval units in the river it was still not safe as he alleged, for foreign navigation, Admiral Shiozawa said there were thousands of insurgent Chinese soldiers along both banks. The Japanese Navy had full control of the river but not of the banks.

He asserted that the Japanese were in control of a line in the South from Shikung to Samshui and were mopping up behind that line. They would eventually extend their operations further north.

BRITISH SHIP FOR JAPAN?

It was learned from other sources that the possibility of a British warship visiting Japan shortly was brought up at the conference and a ship will probably pay a call in the near future.

The Japanese had not attacked Fochow recently, an officer stated in reply to a question asking commucation on that point.

Asked what the Japanese policy was towards fishing junks in the vicinity of Hongkong, the officer said they would never interfere with peaceful fishers.

Asked in what connection the conference with Admiral Sir Percy Noble concerned Anglo-Japanese naval relations, a spokesman said it would be best to get this information from the English Admiral.

Several launches containing Japanese residents visited the warship and waited to see her skipper mooring.
Assisted by the British tug boat—and again slowly off to the accompaniment of long and prolonged "Banzais!"

declared a Chinese mili-

press conference yesterday evening.

While refusing to divulge the name of the Chinese commander, and also what Chinese troops were participating in the Chinese attack on Canton, the spokesman declared: "The Chinese commander and also the troops are considered to be among the best in China."

Questioned as to the present whereabouts of General Yu

"A fortnight ago Yu Han-mou was at Soehui, north-west of Samshui."

The spokesman added: "The Japanese are withdrawing towards Canton, awaiting reinforcements from 40 transports which are reported to be at the mouth of the Pearl River."

GUERRILLAS IN FATSHAN

Chinese guerrillas commanded by General Lee Fook-lum retook Fatshan on Tuesday morning, following a well-planned counter-attack, according to the Wah Kiu Yat Po.

Determined to recapture the strategic position of Fatshan, the key town midway on the Canton-Samshui railway which had changed hands several times, the guerrilla commander united all self-defence corps and partisans in the area for a joint attack on the 300 Japanese soldiers occupying the city.

Attacked by the numerically superior Chinese from several directions in the outskirts and surprised by the plan of the guerrillas who stole into the city before the start of the counter-offensive, the Japanese

MOSCOW EXPLAINS POGROMS

Moscow, Nov. 16.

Denouncing the "Fascist pogrom-making," the Pravda asserts that Germany's anti-Jew drives are the result of the "hopeless situation of the regime."

The paper says that the Tzarist Government resorted to pogroms to divert the attention of the masses from politics, and the German Fascists are repeating this practice in a still more brutal form.

The newspaper declares that in trade and finances Germany is experiencing unprecedented difficulties owing to the heavy war burden.

It is added that pogroms did not save the Tzarist regime, and they will not save German fascism.—Reuter.

57 Rounded Up In Raid On Gambling House

IN A RAID on a building in Chun Shing Street, late last evening, police discovered an entire floor in use as a gaming establishment. Fifty-seven persons, including a large number of women, were arrested.

Three of the arrested persons, Chan $100, while Chan and Yu were fined Yau, $2, Lai Sam, 47, and Yu San, 26, $50 each. The eleven gamblers were all unemployed, were charged before each fined $2, while the 43 absentees
Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central had their bail of $5 each extended.

Magistrate this morning with keeping the flat as a common gaming house.
Detective Sub-Inspector W. Ritchie said that $20.38 was picked up from the gaming tables, where games of dice were in progress.

Mr. Forrest ordered the money to be confiscated and given to the Court principal tenant of the flat, was fined poor box.

TEN DIE IN YAUMATI HOLOCAUST: CHILDREN TRAPPED, SUFFOCATED

THE SCENE OF THE TRAGEDY.—The building in Shanghai Street, Kowloon, in which ten people this morning lost their lives. Seven children and their parents were trapped on the top floor.

Many, Injured In Jump, Not Expected To Live

AT LEAST TEN PEOPLE ARE DEAD AND TEN ARE IN HOSPITAL CRITICALLY INJURED AS THE RESULT OF ONE OF THE MOST TRAGIC FIRES IN HONGKONG IN RECENT YEARS.

The outbreak commenced on the ground floor of 227, Shanghai Street, shortly after midnight.

Within two hours it had completely gutted the entire building, in which resided, it is estimated, at least seventy or eighty people.

Japanese Retreat Into The City

CHUNGKING, Nov. 17. SHATTERING THE JAPANESE outer defences, Chinese forces are closing in on Canton and are ready to storm the city itself, according to military advisers.

The main body of the Japanese troops which fell back from various directions is reported to have retreated into the city waiting for reinforcements. Over forty Japanese warships and transports are now basing themselves in the Canton River for the defence of the city.

After clearing up the Japanese remnants at Fashan, about 10 miles southwest of Canton, the Chinese column advancing along the Canton-Sumai Railway has reached Shikong, the eastern terminus of the railway, which lies on the south bank of the Pearl River opposite Wengshai. It is ready to strike at Canton imminently.

The spearhead of the Chinese column driving down along the Canton-Hankow Railway is now at Shaping, about seven miles from Canton.

Meanwhile, the Canton-Kowloon Railway has been cut at several places by the Chinese.

In the East River area Taungta, Poklo, Waichow, Tsengshing, Tamsui and Lungmoon have all been reportedly recaptured by the Chinese after a series of harassing attacks launched by the regular and guerrilla forces in close co-operation.

In view of the disruption of their communication between Biang Bay and inland as a result of the Chinese capture of Tamsui, the Japanese have made several attempts to retake the town during the last few days. Their assaults, however, have been repulsed by the Chinese.

A squadron of Chinese planes yesterday morning heavily bombed the Japanese at Samshui, and Salnam on the West River, which are still held by the Japanese. Heavy damage to their defence works is believed to have been done by the Chinese explosive dumper.

Fighting continues to rage between the Chinese and Japanese around Samshui, Salnam and Mahow. The Chinese are making determined attempts to dislodge the Japanese and remove the enemy's menace on the West River.—Central News.

Burma-Yunnan Highway Nears Completion

London, Nov. 16. "It is hoped that an all-weather road from Lashio to Yunnanfu will be open to regular traffic shortly. The practicability of constructing a railway is, I understand, being examined by financial interests concerned."

This reply was given by Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to a question by Mr. Hamilton W. Kerr in the House of Commons today.

Mr. Kerr asked the Prime Minister whether, in view of Japan's action in "hampering foreign trade carried on by sea on the east coast of China," the Government would pay increased attention to the importance of railway communication between Burma and south-west China, and would "co-operate with the Chinese Government," which now had the matter in hand, in constructing both road and railway which would carry British exports "free from Japanese interference."—Reuter.

A tragic feature of the disaster is that seven of the dead are children whose ages range from two to twelve years. They were members of a refugee family which was completely wiped out by the fire.

Eleven people were critically injured when they were forced to jump thirty feet from the first floor into an alleyway, thirty feet below.

One of the injured died en route to the Kowloon Hospital, and several of the remaining ten are not expected to survive.

The seven children and their parents were, it is now indicated, suffocated to death before the flames reached them.

They were living on the second floor and when the only stairway became a raging inferno sought escape through the communal kitchen at the back of the building.

FOUGHT THROUGH FLAMES

They fought their way through the flames and reached the kitchen, only to find that the only window was barred and locked on the outside.

They could not return the way they came and, one by one, fell unconscious as the poison-laden smoke choked off all oxygen from the ill-ventilated room.

The nine bodies were found huddled in a corner in the room, burnt almost beyond recognition. So far as can be ascertained at present, no other people were on the top floor of the building, although a thorough examination of the debris has not yet been made.

The fire started at 12.20 a.m. in the medicine store on the ground floor of the building.

Two folk living in the store were the first to raise the alarm.

When they rushed out on to the street, they left the door leading to the stairway ajar.

The draught quickly sent the flames shooting up the narrow and only passage-way, and the retreat of all the people on the first and upper floors was almost immediately cut off.

The people living on the first floor were driven to the rear of the tenement, and their only way of escaping was to jump to the ground below.

Only one or two escaped without broken limbs and they quickly disappeared in the crowd.

Among the seriously injured are an expectant mother and five children. The condition of the children is believed to be critical.

LIST OF INJURED

Of those injured in the fire nine were removed to hospital. One woman was in a grave condition and died shortly after admission.

The injured included: Chan Po Pang, 13, female; Sit See, 35, female; Chan Nan, 8, female; Ho Yu, 5, male; No Kwok Lan, 10, male; Leung Yuk, 30, female; Chan Hing, 20, female; Chan Wong Ying, 12, female; Chan Leung Chi, 11, male; Lai Fung Fat, 6, male; and a unknown woman.

The Kowloon Fire Brigade, which received the call to the fire at 12.40 a.m. and had the outbreak under control by 1.40, was in charge of Station Officer W. Woodard, and Mr. C. W. Brain.

This morning the Commissioner of Police, the Hon. T. H. King, was on the scene of the accident.

CHILD'S BODY IN DEBRIS

Besides the bodies of two adults and seven children found on the second floor of the gutted house, the body of a child was found among the debris on the first floor.

British Government Not To Give Away Any Territory

Policy Made Clear In House Of Commons Statement

"TIMES" SUGGESTS "IDEAL SOLUTION"

LONDON, NOV. 16.

THE POLICY AS REGARDS colonies was given considerable prominence during question time in the House of Commons to-day, when Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, dealing with representations from Tanganyika, said that a telegram had been sent to the Governor yesterday authorising him to announce that the Premier had given an answer the previous day to the effect that the British Government did not contemplate the transfer of any territory under British administration. (Loud cheers).

The position and activities of German planters in Tanganyika was raised in the House of Commons when Mr. M. P. Price (Lab) asked whether Mr. MacDonald was aware that German planters were heavily subsidised by the Reich Government, and therefore able to compete on unfair terms with planters of other nationalities.

Mr. Price also asked whether German Government credit was being used to purchase land for non-Germans, and generally whether the German community was becoming a totalitarian state within another State. Mr. MacDonald said he was aware that statements had recently been made on this subject, and he was asking the Governor to furnish him with the facts. Asked whether this would include some information regarding the intensive Nazi propaganda proceeding in Tanganyika, Mr. MacDonald was understood to reply in the affirmative.—Reuter.

IDEAL SOLUTION

The Times, in a leading article headed "Germany and Africa" likewise deals with the colonial problem and the prospects of reaching a settlement. The arguments used are coloured by the British reaction to the anti-Jewish measures in Germany. The writer merely confines himself to the suggestion that Germany should be asked to participate in a joint colonial undertaking in those parts of Africa where the races are still awaiting European guidance. This ideal solution is not attainable at the present moment, but will have to be kept in mind as an ultimate goal.—Trans-Ocean.

MR. EDEN'S 1937 STATEMENT ON COLONIES NOT CONFIRMED

LONDON, NOV. 16. Astonishment was expressed by the House of Commons this afternoon at the failure of the Government to answer a question submitted by Mr. Arthur Henderson asking whether the declaration made on December 21, 1937 by the former Foreign Minister, Mr. Anthony Eden, that England had no intention of discussing with Germany a solution of the colonial question at the cost of other colonial powers, still held good.

The Under-Secretary of State, Mr. R. A. Butler, left the question unanswered, merely remarking in reply to other questions concerning German colonial demands, that the Anglo-German colonial treaty of October 14, 1935 by which the British Government undertook to defend Portuguese colonies was still in force.—Trans-Ocean.

FRENCH ATTITUDE

Paris, Nov. 16. The text of the communiqué issued here to-day defining the attitude of the French Government towards the colonial problem reads as follows: "The French Government has not waited till now to announce its attitude to the colonial problem regarding which, a campaign has been in progress for some time past. Several weeks ago the French Government made it known that France would resist every attempt to diminish her colonial empire as settled at the end of the world war. Never has any session been considered, nor will any be considered at any future time. No negotiations on this matter have ever been envisaged."

The French Government renews the denial already issued against the false report that the colonial question would be discussed at the forthcoming deliberations with the British Minister.

"PIROW PLAN"

LONDON, NOV. 16. Mr. Oswald Pirow, the South African Minister of Defence, is said by the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Mail to be taking with him to Germany a so-called "Pirow plan," in which an offer is made to the Reich of extensive African colonial territory as well as economic advantages.

The territory itself is said to be a compact part of the fertile equatorial coast of West-Africa. It will embrace

Italy Jubilant Over Pact

Paves Way For New Negotiations

Rome, Nov. 16. A full-page headline, blazoned in every afternoon paper proclaimed: "Britain Recognises Empire." Sig. Gayda writes that the Italian nation salutes the day which consecrates the rights and powers of the empire. The Anglo-Italian pact runs parallel to, but without altering the spirit and functions of the Rome-Berlin axis, and the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo triangle. The Anglo-Italian pact provisions apply to future as well as present questions, and it should, therefore, be interpreted as an assurance against the possibilities of new divergences between Italy and Britain.

Italy gives formal adhesion to the London Naval Treaty of 1936. She is also preparing to participate in negotiations with the British and Egyptian governments to regulate the problems affecting Egypt and the Sudan. She is also ready to negotiate trade regulations between Italy, Britain, India and the British colonies.

We may therefore hope that the new relations are freed from hostile influences of third powers and war parties, and may restore one of the vital forces for peace and order in Europe and the world.

The signing of the declaration bringing into force the Anglo-Italian agreement was performed with a short, but impressive ceremony.

Lord Perth was conducted to the Victory Hall at the Palazzo Chigi, and met by Count Ciano and other high officials of the Italian Foreign Office. The Egyptian Charge d'Affaires was also in attendance.

Duplicate copies of the text of the declaration, bringing the agreement into force were first signed by Count Ciano and Lord Perth, who then signed duplicate copies of a letter to the Egyptian Charge d'Affaires, who will transmit the letter to his Government.

The letter contains agreements concerning Lake Tana and the Suez Canal.—Reuter.

The letter contains agreements concerning currency by the Japanese; whether any action had been taken by the Japanese to permit the resumption of normal credit facilities, and if not, what action the Government was taking.

Mr. R. A. Butler replied that the Government was aware of the position, and was keeping a close watch.—Reuter.

SMUGGLING DECREASE

LONDON, NOV. 16. Replying to Mr. H. Day (Lab) in the House of Commons to-day, Mr. R. A. Butler said that according to Foreign Office information, there had been an appreciable decrease in smuggling in North China.—Reuter.

Japan's Refusal To Re-Open Yangtse Causes Indignation

Chungking, Nov. 17.

British, American and French nationals in Shanghai are indignant at Japan's rejection of their demands for re-opening the Yangtze River for commercial navigation by third Powers, according to a Shanghai message.

They declare that on the pretext of military necessity Japan is depriving third Powers of legitimate commercial privileges in China and point out that Japanese mercantile shipping is freely navigating the Yangtze and monopolising trade on the river.—Central News.

Chungking, Nov. 16.

Regarding the Japanese refusal to open the Yangtze, a Chinese spokesman said to-day that this was Tokyo's reply to the French, British and American notes, and it indicates that Japan insists upon the "exclusive use of the most important Chinese waterway."

This measure is a "most powerful weapon with which to crush foreign trade all over China, besides enabling Japan to carry out other illegal actions."

The spokesman said that Japan, by so doing, intends to reduce China to an exclusive market for Japanese exporters.

He added that the Japanese will hastily exploit "the illegal position maintained by force," whereby Japanese mercantile ships can move freely.

He said that shipping was the last line of defence of Western commercial interests in China, and added that the measures taken by the Western Powers in presenting merely diplomatic notes was insufficient because in Tokyo there was a large heap of Western protests to most of which Japan offers excuses, and an effective "No" to the latest tri-Power protest.

The spokesman said that the Western Powers should take "firm action and suitable reprisals" against the Japanese position.

U.S. KNOWS OF BRITISH ATTITUDE

LONDON, NOV. 16. Mr. A. C. Moreland put two questions in the House of Commons to-day about the American note to Japan on October 6.

Firstly he asked whether the Government had notified Japan that it was in agreement with this note, to which Mr. Butler, in a written reply, referred Mr. Moreland to the answer given on November 10, adding "I am satisfied that the Japanese Government is fully aware of the attitude of the Government."

The second question was whether the Government, with reference to the note, had signified its desire to co-operate in maintaining a policy of the Open Door.

Mr. Butler stated that Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador to Japan, had been in "constant touch" with his American colleague, and he (Mr. Butler) did not think the United States Government could be in "any doubt" as to Britain's policy with regard to the Open Door.—Reuter.

BRITAIN NOT SATISFIED

LONDON, NOV. 16. "No," said Mr. R. A. Butler in the House of Commons to-day when Mr. I. C. Hannah asked whether the Government was satisfied with the Japanese reply in July regarding the effect of the Japanese recognition of the Peking-Mukden and other North China railways, upon British rights and interests.

Mr. Butler added that Sir Robert Craigie had made further representations on September 3, urging restoration of British rights arising from the agreements of 1903 and 1902. The Japanese reply was still awaited.—Reuter.

Commons And Japanese Control In Shanghai

LONDON, NOV. 16. Replying in the House of Commons to Commander A. Marsden's question as to what had been the result of Sir Robert Craigie's representations on July 13 with regard to the restoration to the Shanghai Municipal Council of Hongkew and Yangtszepoo, Mr. R. A. Butler said that discussions were still continuing, and he was unable to make a statement at the present.

Commander Marsden asked supplementary question whether any advance had been made at all, and Mr. Butler repeated his answer, adding that he realised the urgency of the matter.—Reuter.

POLITICAL INTRIGUES TO INCITE ANSCHLUSS DEMANDS IN RUTHENIA

BRIDGE BLOWN UP BY ALLEGED POLISH AGENTS Secret Meeting Raided

Hust, Nov. 16.

Hungarian and Polish agents trying to incite the population of Carpatho-Ruthenia to demand the anschluss of their territory to Hungary as desired by Poland, are becoming more and more evident in Hust, the new capital of Autonomous Carpatho-Ruthenia.

In course of the endeavours made in this region a band of men from Poland blew up a bridge at Voloschanka yesterday and then withdrew again into the impenetrable forests.

Gendarmes who immediately gave chase were not able to catch the culprits.

The police in Hust broke up a secret meeting yesterday among those present being the secretary of the former Carpatho-Ruthenian Minister, M. Fencik who after the session of a part of Carpatho-Ruthenia went over to the Hungarian side.

M. Fencik is now on Hungarian territory but has his agents provided with considerable sums of money, making propaganda among the population for an anschluss with Hungary. It is stated that the autonomous Government of Carpatho-Ruthenia is taking stern measures against the political agents from foreign States.

The political background for the continued Polish efforts in favour of the anschluss is stated by well informed authorities to be due to the fact that Poland under no circumstances wants to see an independent Carpatho-Ruthenian Republic for 5,000,000 Ukrainians living in Poland and who for years past have complained bitterly about the Polish minority policy.—Trans-Ocean.

OBITUARY

Daughter of Famous Victorian Actor

London, Nov. 16. The death has occurred of the actress Viola Tree, daughter of Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, famous Victorian actor.—Reuter Bulletin.

Viola Tree, distinguished British actress, theatre manager and author, was born in London in July 1884, and educated partly on the Continent. Her father was the eminent actor-manager Sir H. Beerbohm Tree. After studying at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art she acted in a number of plays produced by her father, first in London in 1904, and later at his Majesty's Theatre, London, as Ariel in "The Tempest," Hero in "Much Ado About Nothing," Perdita in "The Winter's Tale," with Ellen Terry and in the name Shakespear in "The Merchant of Venice." In the next few years she won marked success, showing deep feeling in tragedy and a keen sense of humour in comedy.

Her ambition, however, was to be a singer in 1910 she went to Milan in the hope of getting her voice strengthened. While there she corresponded with many distinguished people in England, including the late Lord Oxford and Asquith and Bernard Shaw. Two years later her hopes of becoming a singer were destroyed by a throat affection and she returned to the stage.

In 1919 she took the Aldwych Theatre, London, producing "Sacred and Profane Love" and "Pygmalion." In 1920 she brought the Gaiety family to London and earned much credit for their successful season at the Aldwych. After producing other plays and acting in a variety of parts she went to America in 1930, appearing as Lady Joan in "The Truth Game" in New York and touring with the Ziegfeld Follies. Everywhere she had an enthusiastic reception.

After her return to London she resumed her successes in a number of plays and also organised entertainments of her own. She appeared in one film, "Symphony in Two Flats." Miss Tree was author of the play "The Swallow" and part-author with Sir G. du Maurier of "The Dancer," both of which were produced. In 1920 she published "Castles in the Air" containing her reminiscences and interesting letters she had received from well-known people.

LONDON IS BUYING RAND GOLD Despite Discontinuance Of Shipments

London, Nov. 16. Although gold from the Rand mines is no longer coming to London, bullion circles believe that it is being sold to the British Equalisation Exchange Fund, which is storing it in the South African Reserve Bank. It is believed that this is part of the Government's policy for decentralising Britain's gold stocks. Rand gold shipments to London ceased during the Czech crisis. Production since then is estimated to be £13,000,000, of which the South African Reserve Bank has taken £2,500,000, and the remainder has disappeared, presumably into the Equalisation Fund.—United Press.

HUNGARY'S NEW ANTI-JEW LAWS

Budapest, Nov. 16.

Still severer Hungarian legislation against Jews announced by Prime Minister Imredy to be prepared in the next few days by a special committee of the Government party will consist of two laws, states the Liberal newspaper, Az Est.

One of these two laws aims at facilitating and promoting Jewish emigration from Hungary, while the other will deal with a percentage restriction of Jewish participation in activities not yet dealt with in the previous legislation.

This legislation will chiefly affect the ownership of property and various branches of trade and industry. It is also possible, writes the Az Est, that the participation of 20 per cent. of Jews in the occupations will be reduced.—Trans-Ocean.

DYNAMITE INJURES MAN'S HAND

Fishing with dynamite off Sha-tau-kei, New Territories, on Wednesday, Cheung Sam, a fisherman, suffered severe injuries to his right hand, when a stick of dynamite prematurely exploded. He was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital for treatment.

The first charge. There was no evidence that defendant had ever been in possession of the 15 cents. That the defendant had taken the money was merely suspicion on the part of the complainant, he said. Authorities were referred to in support of the arguments. There was also no evidence to support the second and third charges, he submitted.

Mr. Forrest agreed with Mr. Botelho regarding the second and third counts, saying that there was a possibility of the defendant having come into possession of the pocket-book honestly. He therefore dismissed these charges.

Defendant, giving testimony, denied he had ever put his hand into Fung's pocket, or had taken his money. He was merely travelling home on the tram, sitting behind Fung, when the latter suddenly accused him of pocket picking.

Questioned as to his means, defendant said his father owned a book-lending business, and gave him pocket money from his earnings. He travelled in the first-class compartment of the tram because he possessed a monthly ticket.

Convicting the defendant on the first charge, Mr. Forrest said that whether Fung in fact had 15 cents in his pocket, and whether the defendant had taken it, had to be proved, but there was evidence that Ho at one time did have his hand in Fung's pocket. His Worship said he could see no honest reason for Ho doing so, nor could he see any reason for Fung saying defendant had put his hand in, if Ho had not done so. There was no evidence of any bad blood between the men, which could have been a reason for the accusation.

Inspecting the defendant's criminal record, Mr. Forrest remarked that it was a bad one, and sentenced Ho to three months' hard labour.

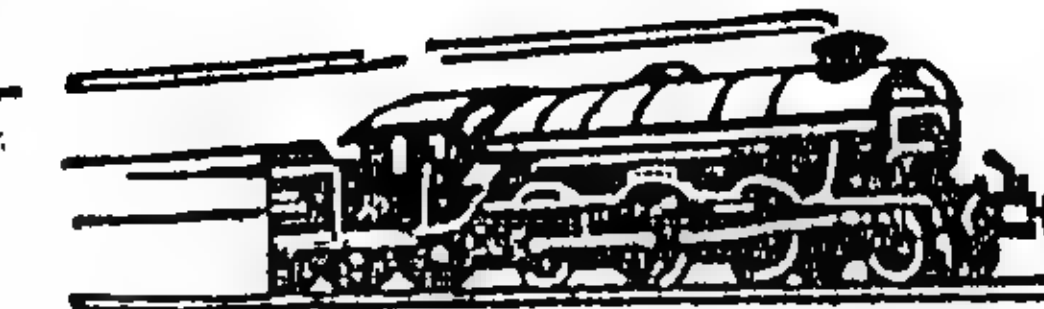

Pocket-Book Missed After evidence by Yiu Lin, tram conductor, and Lance-Sergeant C3 Cheung Yau, Lo Kwai-chung said he was travelling on a tramcar on October 18 from Wanchai to town, and on getting off near the Sincere Co., discovered his pocket-book missing. He had not at the time made a report of the loss to the police, as the book was only worth $1. Lo identified the pocket-book which was produced in Court as his.

Mr. Botelho submitted that the defendant had no case to answer on

History's Blot

To find a parallel for the insensate wave of anti-Semitism that has overwhelmed Germany one must turn back the pages of history fifty-seven years to the infamous Russian pogrom of 1881. This pogrom was paralleled in European history only by the Black Death massacres of the 14th century.

The revulsion of feeling which swept Russia and the rest of Europe after the 1881 massacres led to the belief that the word pogrom would never again be heard in European contemporary history.

Germany has proved to the world that modern civilisation can find room for barbarism in times of peace as well as in times of war. The events of recent years had led to the belief that mankind had advanced from the Middle Ages to the extent that the veneer of civilisation was sufficiently strong to preserve at least an elementary form of humanity in countries at peace with their neighbours. It is not in the Third Reich.

Majesty of the Law

The spectacle of police constables arresting small children for the heinous offence of selling newspapers is, to say the least of it, absurd.

It is realised that they would be denied a licence even if their parents applied for one.

Yesterday afternoon, an Indian constable was observed with a bundle of English newspapers in one hand—the damning evidence—the other hand firmly grasping the coat of a young criminal of some nine years of age—marching him off to the police station. With increasing crime in the Colony, it would be thought that the force could be better engaged, especially when it is borne in mind that it has been necessary to mobilise the Special Police Reserve. In any case, the child is making an effort to lead an honest life, and doubtless wonders why he should be prevented from so doing.

It is usually the English newspapers which appear to be singled out for this unpleasant business, although the sellers do not make a nuisance of themselves by shouting. To say that they cause obstruction is also absurd, and they are outnumbered by the sellers of the vernacular papers by probably five to one. The sellers of the English newspapers receive two cents per copy commission, and are thus able to make a comfortable living. Actually, the commission equals the price at which some of the Chinese papers are sold. One wonders whether there is any discrimination shown against sellers of English journals, and if so, why?

creator of the famous wartime character, reports:

Old Bill marches again

OLYMPIA has sheltered many spectacles of considerable diversity in its time—tournaments, prize fights, circuses, mystery plays and exhibitions.

But one might safely assume that the recent display was perhaps the most peculiar in the career of the mammoth show garage.

Over a thousand ex-soldiers, each shedding his peace-time garments and rapidly emerging disguised by the British Legion as an entirely new mammal, known as the Plebsite Policeman—that is what one could see.

It is only a short while ago that any of this sturdy array of men became even Czechoslovakian conscious, yet here they were ready to leave for that tempestuous and agonised land in the capacity of Pleb Cops.

One might imagine that this most bizarre and unexpected happening would lead to bewildered excitement. Not at all.

Uniforms and equipment were dealt out as prosaically as at any military depot, for any ordinary expedition. You can turn yourself into a Plebsite Policeman as easily and methodically as collecting component parts for a meal in a cafeteria.

You just move along from table to table and collect what you want.

Sturdy, bronzed survivors of the twenty years ago struggle took the whole thing as calmly as if it were just one more belated phase of the last Big Boil, which as a matter of fact it is.

More astonishing still is the fact that the men look not only fit enough to be capable temporary policemen, but able to tackle another war as well if necessary. To me they had all the appearance of the best of our veteran soldiers as they existed in reserve battalions when the late war started.

If I had the misfortune to be running a battle at this present time I could wish for no better cast. Put them in khaki and they would be just right for scrambling over mud or lurking in trenches.

This widely representative array of men is culled from all walks of life and from many diverse jobs, which, I was glad to hear, are all being kept open for them to go back to when the stunt is over, by the co-operation of their respective employers.

Some few of them are unemployed, so one welcomes this fairy-

tal-like opportunity for them to have a short, colourful and novel experience coupled with the feeling that they are doing a good job and getting paid for it.

Whether employed or unemployed, whether they come from Devon or Northumberland, Little-Crumble-under-Ledge or London, they all fall into the same mental mould which forever seems to have formed the British soldier.

There he is, as always, the dear fellow, ready to go anywhere just as a matter of course, and with that "theirs not to reason why" attitude which gives one the mixture of a lump in the throat and a laugh.

Terrible as that last war was, it failed to kill the cheer resulting from soldierly companionship. Even the worst wars are not all battle, and these excavated ex-warriors are tickled to death to gather together again, whatever the new job may bring forth.

Their past experiences in common, the brotherly affection

bred of joint hardships and anguish endured in the past, have cemented them forever into one great fraternity.

They are eminently suitable to play the part they are now being organised to play in Czechoslovakia, with that restraint and strength which only comes from hard experience.

They are all around 40 or 50 years of age. Aged in the mud, one might say, and there are not a few who have distinct traces of Old Billism.

Many and many a memory have they mutually and pleasantly to discuss, and they are not going to wait till they get to Czechoslovakia to do so.

Their conversation already, although composed of comparing notes on their peace-time homes and occupations, is highly sprinkled with old war-time memories of the "Remember when we was back of the line at La Bassée" order.

To find Old Bill himself in this environment was what I fully expected, and what came to pass.

It may not be generally known, but Old Bill is now a taxi-driver, and has been of this persuasion for the last ten years.

He belongs to that almost ex-

ting species of driver that has a cab about as old as himself. Rather rare, ultra-loyal within, very high off the ground, a syncope engine, and a wheel base that can do miracles of turning in impossibly narrow streets.

His business largely depends on picking up people when it's pouring with rain and they can't see what they are doing, or being hailed by stray and exhausted pedestrians in taxi-less areas in the dead of night.

It is only natural, therefore, that a chance of blowing a whistle at a Plebsite would form a welcome rest from his normal work.

I found Old Bill in the Water Bottle Department, and I guessed by the profound look on his face that he was probably calculating how much of the cheapest Pilsen one receptacle would hold.

"Hello, Bill," I said, coming up quietly behind him. "So you are off to Czechoslovakia, eh?"

The great amphibian turned and regarded me with an old and mild stare.

"Yus, Sir, I never been on a Plebsite job before, but I'll have a good go at it. It's a Plebsite sight better than a war, anyway."

"It's nothing to do with a war, Bill. All you've got to do is help sort everybody out, and see that they all go where they want to go."

Bill frowned. "I'll get the Homes and Aways all right, but the Draws is goin' to be difficult."

A general noise of men mustering together as at a "Fall In" disturbed our conversation. Turning, I saw that a company of Legionnaires had by now been completely served out with their equipment, and were about to march in a body out of the hall.

"Come on, Bill, let's see them come out into the road. Perhaps there is a parade out there or something."

Old Bill agreed, and together we left Olympia, going out into the road and night outside. Buses roared past, and a medley of yellow street lights punctuated the damp, cold darkness.

Out came the body of Legionnaires, carrying their loaded dark blue kit bags over their shoulders. For no other reason than habit, they started trudging two deep along the shiny wet pavement towards Hammersmith.

With slow, confident tread, the veterans plodded on, those self-same veterans who had long ago plodded so often together before.

Perhaps to many of them the lamp-posts became shattered trees; the pavement, a muddy sunken road; Hammersmith, maybe, was Hooge, and the sound of buses the noise of clanking equipment. Who knows?

By the look on Old Bill's face I think they did to him.

Man Who Started The Supreme Court In H.K.

ONE of the early officials in the service of the Hongkong Government was Mr. Robert Dundas Cay, the first Registrar of the Supreme Court. He was a man of unusual ability, and his name is inseparably linked with that of the establishment of British justice in the Far East; for like the founder of the Court, Judge John Walter Hulme, he was noted for his rigid adherence to the course of duty.

SCOTTISH OUTLOOK

Mr. Robert Dundas Cay was born at North Charlton, Northumberland in the year 1807. He was the youngest son of Robert Hodshon Cay, Esq., a landowner of some means and incidentally a Calvinist of strong leanings. This factor and the proximity of the County to the Scottish border were largely instrumental in determining that the education of his son should be entirely in a Caledonian atmosphere. As a result, Mr.

By T. PAUL GREGORY

Cay grew up more Scottish than English in his outlook—a fact which was abundantly evidenced in his speech—which, according to contemporary accounts, was, in addition to the customary Northumbrian burr distinguished by a fund of anecdote typically Scottish in origin, and testified his cultural affinities with the land and people of Sir Walter Scott and Robbie Burns.

Although very little is known of the early life of Mr. Cay in his Homeland, we do know that after his graduation at the University of Edinburgh, he obtained the situation of writer to the Signet which he held for many years. His diligence in this post won for him a wide recognition among members of the legal profession, so that by the time that he was thirty-five or thereabouts, he came under the notice of John Walter Hulme, who had just been appointed to organise a Court of Superior Jurisdiction in

Her Majesty's newly acquired Colony of Hongkong. As a result of the recognition of Judge Hulme of his capacity, Mr. Cay was chosen to accompany him to the Far East as a member of the personnel of the new Governor, Sir John Davis.

STARTED COURT

Mr. Cay, as a component of one of the most distinguished official groups which have ever set sail for the Far East arrived in Hongkong on board H.M.S. Spiteful on May 7, 1844. The specific task of creating a complete court of judicial procedure was no sinecure, and it is an eloquent testimony to the determination of the founders that the work which they set upon to accomplish was completed less than six months later, and the Supreme Court of the Colony of Hongkong was opened on October 1, 1844.

So admirably did Mr. Cay acquit himself in the duties of his

Funeral Takes Place This Morning

AACHEN, Nov. 16. A SPECIAL TRAIN carrying the mortal remains of the German Legation officer, Herr von Rath, who was assassinated in Paris, reached the German border at Aachen this morning.

A guard of honour presented arms when the train entered the station, where thousands paid silent tribute. The Secretary of State, Baron von Weizsaecker represented the Foreign Office at the ceremony before the Catedral, where the provincial party leader, Herr Grobe made a speech voicing the horror felt by the German people at the crime, and expressing gratitude to the French people for their sympathy. The funeral will take place at Dusseldorf on Thursday.—Trans-Ocean.

Australians Recognise Annexation

CANBERRA, Nov. 16. The Prime Minister, Mr. Joseph Lyons, announced to-day in the House of Representatives that the Commonwealth Government will proceed without delay formally to recognise de jure the conquest of Abyssinia by Italy.

The Prime Minister expressed the hope that the Anglo-Italian agreement would have the effect of restoring and consolidating the old traditional friendship between the two countries.—Trans-Ocean.

British Envoy In Capital

CHUNGKING, Nov. 16. The British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Kerr Clark Kerr, called on Dr. H. H. Kung this morning, and Mr. Wang Chung-hui this afternoon.

Mr. Wang Chung-hui's dinner in honour of Sir Archibald to-night has been postponed owing to the Ambassador's slight eye trouble. Sino-British circles point out that Sir Archibald's visit is a routine one. In British circles it is understood that the Ambassador has not offered to mediate in the Sino-Japanese conflict because he has not received a mandate to do so.—United Press.

Meanwhile according to a Vienna report, Herr Bueckle, in a speech at a factory to-day said:

ALL JEWS MAY BE WITHDRAWN FROM REICH

LONDON, Nov. 16. The Daily Mail political correspondent stated to-day that it was possible Mr. Joseph Kennedy, the American Ambassador, was in possession of Britain's views on the settlement of German Jews overseas, and that Mr. Kennedy would leave for the United States during the week-end personally to confer with President Roosevelt.

It is suggested that plans are under consideration which envisage the withdrawal of all Jews from Germany.—United Press.

LONDON CABINET HEARS PROPOSALS

LONDON, Nov. 16. It is understood that proposals for helping German refugees were discussed at this morning's usual meeting of the Cabinet.

A Berlin message says that Germany will not recall her Washington Ambassador, Herr von Dieckhoff, as an answer to the recall of Mr. Hugh Wilson, the American Ambassador to Berlin. This is indicated in the newspaper Essener National Zeitung, which observes: "The United States may be convinced that National Socialist Germany is not affected by the anti-German agitation in the United States, and its official reaction, because it has long been a tradition of United States policy to create anti-German sentiment by unfair methods in order to overcome domestic difficulties."

"Mr. Wilson's trip to the United States may be even useful if thereby the anti-German campaign is stopped by the White House, as he witnessed the Austrian Anschluss and the Sudeten's return to the Reich, and he is therefore in a position objectively to report about Germany."

Mr. Hugh Wilson made his farewell to-day, when he visited Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop. In some quarters it is doubted whether the Ambassador will ever return, while the newspapers say that his recall is a concession by the United States Government to the Jews.

Another message from Berlin says that it is learned that the United States has formally made representations regarding damage to American property, reserving all rights which include a demand for reparations. It is reported that other countries have taken, or contemplate taking, similar steps. It is understood that Americans have at least four claims, one of which is outside Berlin.

Diplomatic circles emphasised that foreign governments were not only interested in forcing recognition of damage claims, but were desirous of obtaining a definite ruling concerning foreign Jews being exempted from fines. They were also determined to obtain a reply to the contention that foreign Jews are entitled to re-open their shops.

Meanwhile Germany has answered world-wide attacks with a furious press onslaught on foreign countries, including America, and some well-informed circles believe that Herr Hitler will answer President Roosevelt's condemnation at Herr von Rath's funeral at Dusseldorf.—United Press.

CATHOLICS INCLUDED IN STATEMENT

Washington, Nov. 16. It was stated at the White House to-day that President Roosevelt's statement regarding Germany's treatment of the minorities applies to Catholics as well as Jews.

Mr. Stephen Early, the President's secretary, stated that President Roosevelt's statement was treated in the press as a rather unusual and firm statement regarding Jews only.

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Nov. 16.

CONSIDERABLE EXCITEMENT has been aroused here by reports of the meeting of the Tanganyika League at which Dr. S. B. Maitik, an Indian member of the Tanganyika Council, read with the authority of the Governor, a communique issued by Sir Mark Young.

The Governor in the Communique, referred to Mr. Chamberlain's negative reply to the House of Commons question whether the Government was contemplating the transfer of territory on any terms, and added that Mr. Chamberlain had authorised him to state that Mr. Chamberlain's answer is to be understood as meaning that His Majesty's Government is not contemplating the transfer of any territories under British administration.—Reuter.

FRENCH ATTITUDE

Paris, Nov. 16. The French Government's attitude towards the colonial problem was defined—more rapidly than had been anticipated—in a communique issued by the Premier, M. Daladier to the press this afternoon, in which it was emphasised that the French Government does not contemplate entering into negotiations regarding the cessation of any part of French colonial possessions.

It is further stressed that no such negotiations have ever been opened at any previous time. Publication of the communique was followed by a visit paid to the Premier by the deputy chairman of the Chamber's Colonial Commission, M. Taittinger.—Trans-Ocean.

POSITION DEFINED IN COMMONS

LONDON, Nov. 16. In the House of Commons to-day Mr. G. L. Mander asked the Premier what action he proposed to take with reference to the demand for the return of colonies advanced by Herr Hitler at Godesberg, and whether he would give assurance that it is still the policy of the Government that the matter will only be considered as part of a general settlement.

In reply, Sir John Simon referred Mr. Mander to the reply given by Mr. Chamberlain on November 10. Mr. Mander asked for a specific answer to the latter part of the question with regard to a general settlement, and Sir John Simon answered that the statements that had been made on the subject could certainly stand.—Reuter.

ANGLO-AMERICAN TRADE PACT

LONDON, Nov. 16. Negotiations for the Anglo-American trade agreement have successfully concluded, and the agreement will be signed to-morrow in Washington, declared Mr. Oliver Stanley amid cheers in the House of Commons to-day.

He added that the agreement would come into force on January 1. Mr. Stanley said he understood the agreement between the United States and Canada would be signed simultaneously.—Reuter.

It refers to the Catholic situation too. Mr. Early added that the statement intended to cover the stoning of Cardinal Innitzer's house in Vienna, and measures against Catholics, who, Mr. Early said, had been mistreated in other parts of Germany.—Reuter.

These Two Looters Were Caught In Canton

TWO OF THE HUNDREDS OF LOOTERS who ravaged Canton after its evacuation by Chinese troops and police and preceding the Japanese entry into the city. Chinese Self-Preservation police, who operated even after the Japanese entry, rounded up the looters and tied them to posts with suitable notices pinned to their clothing. What happened to them subsequently is unknown.

France Not To Have A National Government

Paris, Nov. 16. Any idea of a National Government in the near future was nipped in the bud by a unanimous decision by the congress of the largest publican Federation, the largest right-wing group in the Chamber refusing "either to support or to participate with any other party in maintaining contact with the Communists."

The resolution also congratulated the party leaders in having barred the way in March, 1938, to the formation of a so-called Ministry of National Union, which was "destined only to save the Popular Front and to install the Communists in the Government and Councils."—Reuter.

WIN ALL TEST GAMES: A SPLENDID RECORD

The Nawab of Manavadar's team, which included six members of the last Indian Olympic side, have just returned to India after a successful tour of New Zealand where they won 30 of their 31 matches.

Their only reverse was at Auckland, where the provincial team defeated them by five goals to four and thus earned the distinction of being the first team in that country ever to lower the Indians' colours—a splendid achievement and one which received the unstinted congratulation of the Nawab, who did not plead that casualties had played havoc with his side.

Mr. Amar Singh

Auckland, in fact, won on their merits and the Indians were as pleased as the home team, who had fashioned their tactics on those of the visitors.

FOUR TESTS WON

The Indians, however, had the satisfaction of winning all four of the Test matches—by 2-1 at Dunedin, 5-1 at Christchurch, 4-0 at Wellington and 3-2 at Auckland.

The biggest victory of the tour was scored at Rotua where the Indians beat the local team by 24-0. They also entered double figures on ten other occasions.

The major portion of their trip (omitting matches in Ceylon and Australia) brought the Indians a total of 243 goals and only 19 were netted against them.

In the opinion of New Zealand players, the Manavadar State XI was even better than the Indian Hockey Federation side which toured the islands in 1935. The latter side, it is true, scored more goals, but were favoured with far better weather, which entailed heavy pitches on only three occasions whereas the Manavadar XI enjoyed good conditions only three.

Those who participated in both tours considered that the standard of play in the islands had risen perceptibly.

RETURN VISIT

India wants New Zealand to pay a return visit, but the New Zealand hockey authorities are inclined to think that the standard of their own players has not yet attained a sufficiently high level and that it is unlikely to do so until the game is played during both summer and winter.

At the beginning of the year. The club seems to enjoy travelling for already it is endeavouring to arrange a visit to Luxembourg at Easter and a tour of Iceland in July. The team which visited Hongkong has not been together since the end of its tour but it will be on view at the end of this week when a side is to be fielded against Tottenham Hotspurs.

Sherwood and Miller, two of the outstanding forwards, have since turned professional with Reading and Fulham respectively, but they have been granted special permission by the F. A. to turn out in this game.

STICKS FOR LEADING SCORERS

Generous Gesture By
Mr. Amar Singh

As the ladies have just commenced their League and the new Hongkong Hockey Association Tournament is in full swing, I have approached Mr. Amar Singh, manager of International Sports, for a generous donation of Indian sticks to be presented to the top goal-scorers of each League, the Czer Clark Cup, Brown Cup and the Hongkong Hockey Association Tournament.

A stick will also be given to the best all-rounder in the Czer Clark Cup and Hongkong H. A. Tournament.

The most-improved player in the Brown Cup will also receive a stick. Six sticks in all will be presented and towards the end of the season the winners, who will be nominated by me, will have their names and photos published in the Telegraph.

The winners will have their own choice of sticks, either "The Royal Prince" or "The Tournament." These are splendid Indian sticks which can be seen on display in the International Sports' shop-window.

At the close of the season, Mr. Amar Singh himself will present the sticks to the winners.

HERE AND THERE WITH "PILGRIM"

THE C.B.S. "A" crashed very badly in their first match in the Czer Clark Cup competition at King's Park last Saturday. Miss Nora Whitehead, at centre-half, was the only one who played her usual game; she did grand work both in defence and attack. I was very surprised to see Miss E. McKelvie give such an erratic display at left back. I am positive she is capable of doing better.

MISS D. McCaw, as leader, attacked strongly but like the rest of the line, was not quick enough to break through the home defence. The girls, to improve their forward line, must try and develop long passing tactics—a phase of the game in which they are not too happy. Most of their short passes, while at times clever, were very often intercepted by their faster opponents. A four-nil defeat is not too encouraging for a debut game, but the girls must bear in mind that they are playing in a higher division and naturally a higher standard of play is necessary. If they keep their chins up, they should learn a great deal in their first season among the senior teams.

THAT St. Andrew's won so easily was due to the opportunism of their forwards, Miss E. Wong, Miss P. Gittins and Miss A. Greiner, but there were also some bad finishing and misses by Miss E. Churn and Miss Wong when in the circle. The Saints' defence marked very closely and kept their forwards well piled with the ball. I hope Miss Marie Roza has secured her place in the team; she played amazingly well at left back. The game clearly showed the difference between the standard of hockey as played in the senior and junior divisions. The school-girls individually or combined were no match for the team-work of their opponents.

IN the Brown Cup series the C.B.A. proved themselves far superior to the C.B.S. "B", being faster on the ball and more ready to take advantage of openings. As a team, they showed a marked improvement on their last-season form. They should do well for themselves in future games.

The quality of hockey served up by the junior school-girls was very poor. They relied on "hit and rush" tactics and many attacks were broken up by the more solid defence of their opponents. The girls should have done better, though they have lost a few players who have gone to their senior XI. I would like to remind their coach that the juniors must always be seriously considered. I need not point out that in hockey, as in every other sport, the junior player constitutes the backbone. Break that backbone (Continued on Page 9)

Lt. Patterson Hit
In The Face

A good goal scored by Tom Whitely just before the interval gave the Club victory in a friendly hockey game played on their own ground last evening against the Royal Scots. Speedy forwards and equally capable defences were fielded by both teams.

The second half found the Club attack definitely superior; but their shooting when in the circle was poor. S. Fowler and Dwyer missed a couple of sitters when well placed. The forwards, however, received splendid support from Lowe and W. A. Reed, the halves.

The re-start was only ten minutes old when an unfortunate accident befell Lieut. Patterson, the Scots' inside left. During a raid on the Club goal, he received a nasty crack from a stick across the nose. He was wearing glasses at the time and received a deep cut under the left eye. Bleeding freely and in a dazed condition, he was immediately taken by car to the Military Hospital. The game ended there and then, due to fading light.

Robb, in goal for the Scots, defended well, while Kennedy on the right wing, put in some nice centres. The game lasted only 35 minutes—which is hardly sufficient to really test the capabilities of either side.

Winners of the Worplesdon mixed golf foursomes—Mrs. M. Garon and E. F. Storey—receiving their trophies from the Duke of Sutherland after the final last month.

Mrs. Garon And Storey Win Mixed Golf Title In Worplesdon Tourney

By George Greenwood

London, Oct. 15.

Mrs. Marjorie Garon, a former English champion, and Eustace Storey, an ex-Cambridge captain and Walker Cup player, won the Open Scratch Mixed Foursomes at Worplesdon yesterday. In the 36 holes final they beat Miss Wanda Morgan, a former holder of the British and English titles, and Kenneth Morrice, captain of Oxford in 1934, by the surprisingly big margin of 6 and 5.

This overwhelming defeat was due principally to the inability of Miss Morgan to produce anything approaching the game of which she is capable. Not only had she lost her putting touch, but some of the in-between shots were unconvincing. The side produced something of a rally, but it was of the briefest nature and gradually but inevitably the match developed into a procession.

In the first half the tale of misfortune was largely one of putting; in the second, bunkers and heather were the fatal attraction. With Morrice far less accurate than usual there was little hope of the side's success. Mrs. Garon putted beautifully, and it was mainly through her efforts that the side had only 31 putts for the first 18 holes.

"If you hit 'em straight they'll drop," was the dictum of Bobby Jones. This is precisely what Mrs. Garon did, and appropriately enough, finished the match by holing a putt of 12 feet for a 2 at the short 13th.

She was ably supported by Storey,

who, faithful to his "corkscrew" stance, and using a putter with a head no longer than a safety-razor blade, holed several useful putts. In brief, by outplaying their opponents at practically every point of the game, Mrs. Garon and Storey richly deserved to win. At the same time it was possible to sympathise with the losers, whose display was far too indifferent to be true.

Mrs. Garon and Storey finished the first round a hole to the good, having been three up at the 18th. Making their first concerted effort, the opposition won the next two holes and would have squared at the 18th had not Miss Morgan hooked an iron shot wide of the green. Miss Morgan's iron shots lacked their customary crispness and the putting, usually one of her strong points, was indecisive.

MRS. GARON'S LONG PUTT

With six holes played the side were two down, having lost the fifth, of which they made a complete hash. (Continued on Page 9)

London, Nov. 10.

William Hall, of Tottenham, playing at inside right for England, in a brilliant display of opportunism and marksmanship, scored five goals and helped England to overwhelm Ireland in the international soccer match at Manchester to-day by seven goals to nil.

Hall's feat of scoring five times was an England international record, and his three goals in three minutes becomes the first of international fast scoring records.

The Irish defenders were unable to check the speedy English forwards, who indulged in long swinging passes and brilliant combination.

The Irish forwards were given little of the ball by the English defenders, who were deadly in their tackling.

Other English goal-scorers were Lawton, the centre-forward, Matthews, outside right.

England led 4-0 at half-time. Ireland's defeat ensures that they will finish at the bottom of the international table.

One change was made in each side, Morris, the Wolverhampton right back, coming in to take the place of Sproston, who was injured, and Twoomey, of Leeds, playing in goal for Ireland instead of Breen, of Manchester United.

Team: England—Woodley; Morris, Hapgood; Willingham, Cullis, Mercer; Matthews, Hall, Lawton, Stephenson and Smith.

Ireland—Twoomey; Hayes, Cook; Broily, McMillen, L. D. Brown; Cochrane, Stephenson, Baird, Doherty and Brown (Birmingham)—Reuter.

TWO FIXTURES DECIDED IN "B" DIVISION

Only two matches were played in the "B" Division of the Men's Doubles Badminton League last evening, the other two games being postponed.

At Talkoo, Chung Wah had little difficulty in disposing of the V.R.C., winning by seven games to two. Among the players turning out for Chung Wah were several who represented the C.R.C. in the League last year.

St. John's, winners of the "B" Division last season, made a good start in their game against the Wanderers and conceded only one game out of nine.

As the St. Andrew's Hall was not available, the tie between St. Andrew's "A" and Club de Recreo was not played. It is understood that St. Andrew's cannot play home matches on Wednesdays.

Scores: V.R.C. v. CHUNG WAH. At Talkoo, Chung Wah defeated the V.R.C. by seven games to two. Scores:

S. A. Rumjahn and W. Fisher (V.R.C.) beat S. S. Lee and W. H. Choy 2-0; lost to P. C. Leung and S. C. Liang 2-2; lost to C. F. Chiu and H. L. Chau 2-2.

O. el Arculli and F. Castro (V.R.C.) lost to Lee and Choy 2-1; lost to Leung and Liang 15-21; lost to Chiu and Chau 5-21.

A. Alves and D. Xavier (V.R.C.) beat Lee and Choy 2-11; lost to Leung and Liang 23-24; lost to Chiu and Chau 16-21.

WANDERERS v. ST. JOHN'S. St. John's won their opening match, beating the Wanderers by 8-1. Scores:

F. H. Kwok and D. Beavan (St. John's) beat T. J. Ong and C. Y. Yung 2-13; beat S. L. Cheung and J. S. Ho 2-12; beat S. W. Liang and E. S. Ho 2-0.

P. Wilson and N. Smith (St. John's) beat Ong and Yung 2-10; beat Cheung and Ho 2-13; lost to Liang and Ho 2-24.

D. Kwok and S. Newman (St. John's) beat Ong and Yung 2-10; beat Cheung and Ho 2-13; lost to Liang and Ho 2-24.

ROYAL SCOTS BEAT CLUB "A" SIDE

Helped by a couple of Club players, the Royal Scots defeated the Club "A" XV in a rugby match at Happy Valley yesterday by nine points (three tries) to eight (a goal and a try).

Exchanges were fairly even throughout the encounter.

J. C. WHITE INJURED

Famous Left-hand Bowler Loses Eye in Shooting Accident

London, Nov. 16.
England slow left-hand bowler, who has played in fifteen cricket Tests between 1921 and 1931, lost his left eye in a shooting accident today. An operation was performed immediately, but he may not be able to see again.

White took 100 wickets in each of fourteen consecutive seasons.—Reuter.

ELIMINATION BOUT

Tiger Jack Fox Matched With Al Gainer

New York, Nov. 15.
Tiger Jack Fox, of Spokane, has been matched with Al Gainer, of Newhaven, for a 15-round bout at the Bronx Coliseum on November 29. It is the first of a series of eliminations in the light-heavyweight division. Both are negroes.

Athletic Commission physicians have examined Ceferrino Garcia and Henry Armstrong, and have pronounced both in excellent condition. They are training daily for the welterweight bout in which Armstrong will defend his title.—United Press.

Mixed Golf Foursomes Tournament

and the sixth, where Mrs. Garon, one of the soundest putters in women's golf, holed from 15 feet for an eagle 3.

Down the bank at the back of the green, Storey lost the eighth for his green, and was extraordinarily fortunate to match a half at the next, where he sliced his drive over into the woods. Eyspying an opening in the trees, Mrs. Garon got the ball on to the fairway and finally holed on the long putt for a great half in 4.

Miss Morgan was the culprit at the long eleventh, bunkering her approach shot and then missing a second putt. This was two down, the side becoming three down at the 13th, where Miss Morgan again missed a short putt for a half in 3, after the opponents had been bunkered. This time it was Storey who holed the putt.

There was a curious incident at the 14th. Playing out of a bunker, Storey inadvertently struck the ball twice, the second time with the shaft of his mallet. The side gave up the hole, but regained their lead of three up by winning the 15th in 4, Mrs. Garon again holding the vital putt. With the game running against them, Miss Morgan and Morris made a sudden spurt, and winning the next holes, went in to lunch only one down.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS
The match was squared at the third, but Miss Morris hit his tee shot into thick heather at the short fourth and the side were one down again. Meeting with a chapter of accidents, including a dead stump, they lost the fifth and were two down once more. There was a similar story at the sixth, Morris hitting his drive into the rough and Miss Morgan topping the next shot a few yards—three down.

The position was unchanged at the 8th, the only hole of the outward half that was halved, all the others being either won or lost—a most unusual circumstance in a foursome. Four down at the tenth, where Morris put his tee shot into the rhododendrons, was a serious if not a critical position. The end was now in sight. The 11th was halved in an adventurous 6, and then Mrs. Garon and Storey clinched the match with a great 4 at the 12th and a 2 at the next.

This city has held "Illuminated House-Numbering Week," in which

and the health of the game quickly disappears. It may sound facetious but in all sport, the "rabbit" provides the real and definite foundation.

THE K.I.T.C. last Saturday received a surprise reverse from the Y.M.C.A. when they suffered a 5-1 defeat on the "Y" ground. Praise must be given to the "Y" defence, in which Taylor, Austen and Dawson gave a highly creditable display. The attack, with Bartlett and Rose, continually worried the K.I.T.C. defence and prevented them from settling down. The K.I.T.C. attack (without their military players) led by Pyara Singh were rather overshadowed by the home side, except for a brief period at the beginning of the first half. A. P. Souza, at inside-left, was dangerous but held on the ball too long. Pinto and Malik were good defenders but the pace set up by the "Y" forwards in the second half proved too much for them. On current form, the "Y" look like having a very successful season. Here's luck!

I BELIEVE the "Y" ladies will be greatly strengthened by the inclusion of Miss Helen Bockler, former D.G.S. star centre-forward. She has just arrived back in the Colony and will prove a great acquisition to the "Y" attack. Mrs. M. Read will in future be seen in goal and Miss Bockler, I presume, will lead the attack. I can imagine the "Y" forwards bagging a heap of goals this season.

THE R.A.O.C. suffered the biggest defeat to date in the H.K.H.A. Tournament when they went down to the R.A.F. by ten goals to nil at Kai Tak last Monday. The R.A.F. have a very impressive record, having played three games and won three, with 18 goals for and three against. The aviators have since their encounter with the Normals had two goal-getters to aid them in Lieut. Woods (inside-right) and Lieut. Medd (inside-left). Lieut. Miller is also a tower of strength in right back. With this outfit they should be capable of holding their own against the stronger civilian teams.

all citizens were urged to install illuminated house numbers so that addresses could easily be located at night by visitors to the 1939 Golden Gate and International Exposition.

AMERICAN GIRLS ARRIVING ON SCHARNHORST

Mr. Vic Hugo, who is making arrangements in Hongkong for the American girls football team, has received a cable from Manila, where the Americans are at present, requesting a fifty per cent. interest in the gross gate with a guarantee of U.S.$500 for an appearance in the Colony.

Following exhibition games at Bacoed and Cebu, the players will depart for Hongkong aboard the steamer Scharnhorst to meet unnamed opponents in Hongkong on November 30, and from thence are proceeding to Shanghai where they will play further matches on December 3. They will leave for Japan on December 4, and from there will catch the Chichibu Maru for Honolulu, where a several days' schedule has been arranged.—United Press.

SEVERE PAINS IN THE STOMACH

Everyone who has endured the torment of stomach pains will sympathize with Mr. P. Many who still suffer with stomach trouble can benefit from his experience. If you neglect nature's warning you may be faced with serious danger. If you do as Mr. P. did—as tens of thousands of stomach sufferers have done—then you have no need to fear.

"I was suffering agony with pains in the stomach, wind round the heart and loss of appetite. I tried medicine, tablets and various other remedies, but seemed to get worse instead of better. A friend recommended Maclean Brand Stomach Powder and I purchased a bottle. After one dose I felt relief and now, after a fortnight's treatment, I am well again; all pain has gone and my appetite is practically normal."

Now remember, for your own sake, the very next time you feel pains in the stomach—however slight they may be—go out and get a bottle of the genuine MACLEAN BRAND Stomach Powder. Make sure the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" is on the bottle and carton. Then you are certain of quick relief from stomach discomfort. Genuine Maclean Brand Stomach Powder is sold only in bottles in cartons. Never sold loose. Powder or Tablets. Cheap imitations are useless, and may only make your trouble worse. If you have any difficulty in obtaining it from your local chemist or store, write to Banker & Co. P.O. Box 750, Hong Kong. K.S.450.

THE CROWD ROARS!!

AND
THE PRESS OF ENGLAND RAVES!!

READ WHAT THE DAILY HERALD AND SUNDAY CHRONICLE HAD TO SAY:—

"VERDICT: Smash hit! This is the most exciting film I have seen for a year. The prize-fighting sequences betray the touch of the master. It becomes clear that Robert Taylor can pack a punch with the best of them. And that (lol) can act. He grows in sincerity and downright good workmanship. This is the most vivid and enthralling entertainment you or I are likely to encounter in a month of Saturday nights."

Sunday Chronicle.

"Magnificently done. Mr. Taylor and the director do a splendid job of entertainment. Frank Morgan, Lionel Stander, Edward Arnold and Nat Pendleton are immense. Every possible device of suspense and humour is used, the dramatics of boxing which the stage can never approach are fully exploited and interludes of wowing and gangsterism balance a brilliantly made picture which holds you for every second."

Daily Herald.

M. G. M. HONOURS

They were "The Crowd Roars," "Love Finds Andy Hardy," and "Marie Antoinette." The first named film is due for release at the King's Theatre shortly.

Japanese Aroplanes Make Liuchow Raging InfernoINCENDIARY BOMBS RAZE MANY BUILDINGS TO THE GROUND

Wuchow, Nov. 17.

Liuchow, important city in central Kwangsi, was turned into a raging inferno yesterday by incendiary bombs rained indiscriminately by 21 Japanese planes in relays.

For hours columns of smoke and fire shrouded the city. Rows of shops and civilian houses in the crowded parts were quickly consumed in the spreading conflagration. The streets were littered with charred and mutilated bodies and smouldering ruins.

The raiders dumped at least 100 explosive and incendiary bombs, causing several huge fires, which spread in all directions.

The air holocaust is said to be the most horrible one which Liuchow had ever experienced.

The whole Kwangsi province spent a nervous day yesterday as the air raid alarm, which was raised at 6 o'clock in the morning, was not called off until nine hours afterwards. A number of towns in the province were visited by the invading aircraft for reconnaissance.

A report from Wuchow states that 11 Japanese planes from off the Pakhoi coast raided Nanning on the Wat River in Kwangsi yesterday afternoon. Several bombs were dropped in the suburbs.—Central News.

JAPANESE PLANES BOMB SIAM

Siam, Nov. 17.
Siam, provincial capital of Siam, was again raided by 13 Japanese planes in two squadrons yesterday. Flying low under a thick cloud bank, the raiders dumped over 40 missiles outside the Changchomphon (gate). Top of the bombs landed in the vicinity of the railway station, reducing 20 houses to a shambles. More than 40 civilian casualties were inflicted.

Chinese anti-aircraft batteries opened up at the machines, forcing them to fly away shortly afterwards. Simultaneous with the attack on Siam, six other Japanese aircraft conducted reconnaissance flights over areas north of the city.—Central News.

SEE-SAW BATTLE IN SHANSI

Yunkuo, Shansi, Nov. 17.
A see-saw battle between Chinese and Japanese forces has been raging in the vicinity of Changchun, east of Anyi in south Shansi, during the past two days.

The Japanese at Wangkukow, north of Changchun, heavily shelled the Chinese positions on Monday. Poisonous gas shells were alleged to have been freely used. To avoid unnecessary sacrifices the Chinese withdrew to the west. Heavily reinforced the Chinese on the following morning launched a counter-attack. While one column engaged the Japanese on the main front, another contingent made a detour to attack the Japanese rear. Following a fierce battle of eight hours, the Japanese were defeated with considerable losses and retreated towards Wangkukow.

Hot on the heels of the fleeing Japanese, the pursuing Chinese recaptured several strategic heights overlooking Wangkukow.

Meanwhile, at Tsiangchuen, Wut-sun and other villages west of Yunkuo in southwest Shansi, fierce fighting has also been in progress in the past few days. The Japanese have suffered at least 300 casualties during the series of combats.

More than 600 Japanese reinforcements have arrived Changchun, east of Yungli (Fuchow), terminus of the Taitung-Puchow Railway in southwest Shansi. A clash has already occurred between them and the Chinese there.—Central News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"Spinnaker" Is Right!

To the Editor,
Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—You have a picture of yachts with "gigantic spinnakers" in today's (Wednesday) issue. But surely these are balloon jibs?

SNOTTER

(Editor's Note:—Not They are spinnakers. If "Snotter" will look carefully he will see the spinnaker pole (or spinnaker boom) on the bow of the leading yacht. Local yachtsmen may also be interested to know that under British rules, the crew allowed for 12-metre yachts is four paid hands only.)

Bride Bombed

Madrid.
A young woman who was to have been married was one of three women, two children, and two men killed in an air raid recently on Almeria, Southern Spain. Seven people were injured. Five Franco planes dropped about 20 heavy bombs. Several houses were destroyed and it is feared that there may be more dead among the debris.

202 DEATHS
FROM R.A.F.
DISASTERS

London, Nov. 16.

An R.A.F. crash in Kincardineshire which resulted in the death of the pilot of the machine, has raised the total number of accidents for the year to 106, with 202 deaths, as compared with 93 fatal accidents last year, with 163 deaths.—Reuter Special.

Highcourt Judge Leaves His Clerk £3,000

A faithful clerk is remembered in the will of Mr. Justice Horridge, published recently. They had been together for nearly fifty years.

The judge, who retired in May of last year, left a net fortune of £27,468. He gave £3,000 to his clerk, Mr. Thomas Edward Barton, of Canon's-road, Hoxton, Oak, S.E., and another £10,000 goes to him on the death of the judge's widow.

"Tommy" Barton entered the service of the judge in Southport nearly half a century ago. He followed him to London when he was called to the bar, was with him when he was building up a big reputation as a K.C. — When Mr. Horridge, as he then was, was elevated to the Bench, the day after Mr. Justice Avory was made a judge, "Tommy" Barton went along.

Barton was the ideal judge's clerk. He knew his master and his methods so well he could usually anticipate the judge's needs. He always sat alongside him on the bench, followed him to the cases heard by Horridge that he often had text books ready before the judge called for them. When ill-health and failing eyesight finally drove Mr. Justice Horridge from the Bench, the faithful Barton went along too, but preferred not to change. Judge and clerk were both Lancashire men.

BONFIRE NIGHT
"BLACK-OUT"

The Home Office A.R.P. Department decided recently to stage a "black-out" test throughout the whole of Hertfordshire on November 5—Guy Fawkes night!

The "black-out" ran from 11:45 p.m. to 2:30 a.m., and the idea was that no light should be visible from the air.

Herts County Council put all the local A.R.P. organizations into the practice, including the warning signals.

Bonfires and fireworks displays were rather encouraged, I fancy, because they usefully represented the effect of incendiary bombs and do not distinguish any particular place," said Mr. Elton Longmore, Clerk to the Hertfordshire County Council.

12,000,000th Visitor
For Empire Exhibition

London.

Mrs. George Wilson, of Glasgow, was welcomed through the turnstile recently, as the 12,000,000th visitor to the exhibition. (Glasgow). In the south bandstand she was presented by Sir Cecil Weir, chairman of the board of management with a gold watch and a cheque for £10. Had she been a season ticket holder the cheque would have been for £15. She was also given the freedom of the exhibition. It was hoped that 15,000,000 people would visit the exhibition, but that was too much to expect.

Gas Masks,
Or Be Fined

Paris, Nov. 16.

A decree has been passed making it an offence subject to a fine of 100 francs if persons fail to keep their gas masks in order, or to put them on when ordered by A.R.P. officials.

All air raid precaution measures will be paid by the Government, but the local municipalities will continue to make payments to the Treasury for this purpose.—Reuter.

King Carol Talks With ChamberlainBritain May Take More
Rumanian Exports

London, Nov. 16.

King Carol received Mr. Neville Chamberlain at Buckingham Palace to-night. It is thought that the conversation might have dealt with German economic activity in Rumania, and the possibility of increasing Rumanian exports to Britain, particularly oil and grain.

Their Majesties, Queen Mary and other members of the royal family, with the Archbishop of Canterbury, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, members of the Cabinet and Mr. Clement Attlee were present at a banquet given in honour of King Carol at the Rumanian Legation to-night.

The Queen wore a crinoline gown of silver grey satin, a diamond tiara necklace and bracelet.

After the banquet, Their Majesties gave a reception at Buckingham Palace in honour of King Carol, attended by 800 people, including foreign ministers and Dominion high commissioners.—Reuter.

GREAT WELCOME IN LONDON

London, Nov. 16.

London gave King Carol and Prince Michael a great reception when they left Buckingham Palace in an open carriage for the Guildhall to-day.

They were welcomed by the Lord Mayor, and a large company of distinguished people, including Mr. Neville Chamberlain and Lord Hallifax.

An illuminated address of welcome was read, and a few presentations made to the King, after which King Carol, accompanied by Prince Michael, the Duke of Gloucester and the Lord Mayor, headed a procession to the luncheon hall.

Addressing the assembly and tendering thanks for the reception given him and his son by the people of England, King Carol said the fact that "in my veins flows the same blood as that of your king, I am convinced has contributed to this splendid welcome."

"Moreover, in recent times, neither I, nor my people, could forget that Rumania belonged to the same mighty army of allies, fighting for the same cause and for the same faith."—Reuter.

BRIDE WAITS AN HOUR AT CHURCH

Miss Iris Liddington, aged twenty-two, waited for an hour at Croydon Parish Church for a bridegroom who did not appear. The wedding was then postponed.

Miss Liddington, of Crowley-crescent, Waddon, Surrey, said that she was to have married Mr. Robert Henderson, who had been lodging in Davidson-road, Addiscombe. She met him at a Croydon dance two years ago, and had given up her work to marry. She hoped to hear from him. Inquiries had shown he was no longer at his Addiscombe address.

New Defence Scheme For The Philippines Is Indicated By Roosevelt's Declaration

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. MILITARY AND NAVAL circles have intensified their speculation as to a possible change in the United States defence policy in the Philippines as a result of President Roosevelt's indication that the United States will protect the islands as well as the Continent.

The declaration that the flag flies over the Philippines is generally interpreted that the United States must consider the Philippines in its defence programme as long as it remains a part of the United States.

Navy and military officials indicated that the statement did not pledge the United States to increase the military establishments in the Philippines but merely to include the Philippines in national defence projects, and to consider the necessary steps if the Philippines should be attacked.

They said that President Roosevelt's statement might mean an enlargement of military facilities or increased encouragement to the islands' own defence plans.

It was pointed out that the plan developed for the Philippines envisaged mobile land forces and a "mosquito fleet" with which to prevent or delay occupation of the islands, although not opposing naval entrance, and the conquest of any island would be delayed until support arrived from Hawaii or elsewhere.

Military observers said the matter of strengthening the Philippines defences depended entirely on a solution of the broad problems of future Philippines-American relations.

They said that if Congress wished to maintain the Philippines as a permanent base, it would be necessary to arrive at some understanding with the military strategists. Under the present circumstances they could not successfully defend the entire archipelago, although some areas, notably Manila, were practically impregnable.—United Press.

Summery Temperature Back Again Thermometer Hits The 74 Mark

With an increase of three degrees in the maximum temperature yesterday, the thermometer in Hongkong during the last three days has shot up by no less than seven degrees.

The 74 mark was touched during the last 24 hours, while the minimum temperature reached 60.

The glass remained high this morning at 70, indicating that the maximum recording for the day may even top yesterday's mark.

The warmer weather is likely to continue according to the local forecast, which, issued this morning, read:—North-east winds; moderate to fresh; fine.

The Royal Observatory weather report stated that the anti-cyclone is stationary and unchanged over China and the neighbouring seas; pressure is relatively low over Borneo and the Pacific to the eastward.

The depression is situated to the north of the Bonins, moving north-eastward.

office that Governor Davis saw fit to appoint him in addition to the post of Master in Equity, and his nomination was only duly published in the Gazette on January 5, 1847.

Exactly a week later, he was named to serve in the additional capacity as Registrar of the Admiralty Court, whose Proctor was the brilliant but unfortunate Mr. Norcott D'Este Parker, of whom mention has been made in a previous article in this series.

ESCAPED SCANDAL

Mr. Cay was fortunate in being a man who was interested solely in the pursuit of his official duties, and appears not to have become involved in the series of scandals which were early to centre round the career of Judge Hulme, who was accused by his enemies of being a drunkard, and therefore incapable of occupying the highest seat on the local bench. It was undoubtedly this aloofness from colonial politics which enabled him to remain in his post until April 29, 1856, when he resigned his Registrarship. No reason is given in contemporary records for his withdrawal from his appointment, but it is hinted, that, owing to the death of his wife four years earlier, Mr. Cay found life in Hongkong to be utterly intolerable, and considered it advisable to return to the land of his youth. There he dabbled in politics, and except acting as an agent for the Oriental Bank, entirely severed his connections with the Far East.

The news of his death at Shepperton, near Edinburgh on March 19, 1888, at the age of 81 years, was received with particular regret in the Colony where he had passed some twelve years of his life. The local newspapers spoke of his passing as "marking the end of a decade in our earlier history, which was signified by the presence of great men, who, during the first years of Hongkong's existence, laid the foundation of the Colony which shall remain throughout the ages as a perpetual memorial to the achievements of the British people."

Lambeth Walk Is Now The Royal Walk

So was set the royal approval on this dance which Eddie Cantor calls a "frenk", but which Hongkong socialites are raving about since Pat Sykes and Andy Andrews demonstrated it at the Gloucester Hotel a fortnight ago.

Unnoticed for generations, casters lurched in Lambeth and "Oled" each other, while the West End gawgotted, polkaed, fox-trotted, tanggotted, Charlestoned, shimmed, Big Apple and shuffled around while truckin'.

Now it's "Oi, Oi, Oi" everywhere. They're doin' the Lambeth Walk.

"Oyez, oyez, oyez!" they're doin' the Lambeth Walk, even in Balmoral Castle, though north of the Border they are apt to forget themselves and cry "Hoch Oi!"

Communists, Fascists, Republicans, Royalists; rich men, poor men, beggarmen, thieves—all dance it.

Negroid wiggles were relegated to the ham-ban-bammy shores whence they came, crooners forgot their desire to go back to Dixie, and in the stately homes of England dowagers ejaculated joyful "Ois!"

Yet it all began in Maida Vale. Mr. Douglas Furber, playwright who has wrought 50 plays, was brought a new piece of music by composer Noel Gay, ex-choirboy of Wakefield Cathedral and deviser of a too-clever revue called "Stop Press."

Furber was inspired. In seven minutes he wrote the words. "It's easy once you get the knack," he said, but no one believes him.

The newly-born dance number was incorporated in "Me and My Girl," the then new Victoria Palace show, and was danced by Lupino Lane, Teddy St. Denis, and the company.

Audiences rolled in their seats, shouted "Oi!" with the company. Astute dance-hall director C. L. Heilmann saw it, sent Miss Adele England, his chief dance teacher, to see it and prepare a ballroom version.

In July the London Conference of the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing decided to take notice of it. They Walked. In August the citadel of dignified tradition at Cowes capitulated, and the elegant company at Northwood House stuck their thumbs in the air and "Oled" with the best of them.

"CHILDISH JIG"

The Walk crossed the Channel and gamblers left the tables to dance it. A Frenchman, shocked at the lack of English "phlegm," wrote: "The Lambeth Walk is in principle a sort of childish jig, danced by couples who walk arm in arm, clapping their hands occasionally to convince themselves that they are very happy, and who at times utter, probably for the same reason and at certain moments indicated by the rhythm, crazy cries."

Now the King and Queen have danced it. The Lambeth Walk has become a Royal walk. It has progressed from Lupino Lane to Park Lane. It has arrived.

Try it with PINEAPPLE

MOST children like the flavour of pineapple and a tin of chunks or rings can be made to go much farther round if used in conjunction with everyday food.

Let's start off with recipes for the children. Adding pineapple to rice is a capital way of getting them to eat this. Rice is so good for them that they really must be encouraged to like it.

This is how I serve "Sunshine Rice," and my family look on it as a treat. There is never any left over.

Bring one pint of milk to the boil, add 2½oz. of washed rice, and cook in a double saucepan until creamy and soft. This usually takes about two hours. Cool slightly, stir in a beaten egg and cook gently for a few minutes. Pour into a hot glass dish and add the pineapple chunks, stirring them into the rice.

Fine Feathers In Fashion's Favour

THE "longest ostrich feather cape in the world" and a feather boa embodying all the colours of the rainbow were features of a London dress parade recently held in the presence of the Duchess of Kent.

Sponsors of the parade were the South African Government, playing hosts not only to a great assembly of well-known people but also to a large and wonderful collection of ostrich feathers from the South African farms where the industry is centred.

The dress show was the culmination of the ostrich-cape being achieved by ostrich feathers, the culmination, too, of this summer's revival of the lovely, gracious Edwardian fashions which are sweeping feathers into favour once more.

In shimmering satin, gleaming pouterettes and elegant lace the mannequins glided over the flower-trimmed platform before us. And in presentation gown, day or evening ensemble, and Ascot creation, the crowning grace was the foaming, loveliness of ostrich feathers of every hue and style, wedded to exquisite materials and designs and enhancing the effect of every model they adorned or accompanied.

Hats in All Styles

Hats of every style, from tiny, close-fitting tailored toques to immense picture models worn with ankle-length gowns, had a new dignity and becoming softness given to them by the clever use of feathers. These feathers clustered over the crown, stood poised at the back or front of the toque or swept richly over crown and brim of cartwheel designs.

They picked up colour contrasts shown in the accompanying gown and completed the effect of ostrich-trimmed coats or feather cape.

Eau de nil feathers, five feet long and lovely as seafoam, composed an exquisite full-length evening cape. It was worn over a matching gown of shining duchess satin.

Nearly as long was a pale grey cape, formed of horizontal tiers of ostrich feathers falling nearly to the ankles over a matching grey chiffon gown.

A short day ensemble had a tiny hat on which perched an unusual and attractive bow formed of ostrich feathers.

A small cap almost covered with a mass of lovely plum-coloured ostrich feathers accompanied a tailored wool day dress and coat.

Bread Pudding

Made with left-over bread and butter. Arrange the slices of stale bread and butter in a buttered pie-dish, sprinkling each layer with sugar and pineapple. Add some salt to ½ pint milk, heat, and pour it on to a beaten egg. Strain the pie-dish, grate a little nutmeg on the top and soak for half an hour. Bake in a moderate oven.

Pineapple Jelly

There will be no pineapple jelly left to clear up, if you make it in this way. If you serve it with cream and sweet biscuits (this becomes quite a party sweet). Children, of course, love it. Empty the contents of a large tin of pineapple cubes into a large jug. Strain the juice into a nappiepan, and make up to not quite a pint with water.

Add a pint pineapple jelly square, dissolve it in the water and stir it well before pouring into the mould, to make sure it all dissolves evenly. When the jelly is dissolved, pour a little into a mould and leave to set. Then arrange a ring of pineapple and pour over a little more jelly and continue with pineapple rings and jelly, leaving each layer of jelly to set before the next is added.

Greaseproof Tips

A SMALL store of greaseproof paper in the kitchen can prove invaluable to the housewife in many ways. Here are some of them:—

A folded piece of greaseproof paper well-floured, makes a good substitute for a baking board. No scrubbing is necessary as the paper is burned after use.

Dustbins keep much cleaner when lined with greaseproof paper which is changed once a week.

Greaseproof paper covers prevent cookery books from getting soiled and sticky.

Any fried foods placed on greaseproof paper for one minute before serving lose all sogginess and become crisp and appetizing.

Tomato Crystals

DISSOLVE a pint packet of lemon jelly in slightly less than 1 pint of boiling water. Pour a little of the jelly into the bottoms of small individual moulds and leave to set.

Then place a thin slice of peeled tomato on the jelly and add a little more jelly. Leave to set again and continue in this way till the moulds are full.

When set turn out on to crisp lettuce leaves and decorate with chopped hard-boiled egg.

B. M.

THE young mother who has had very little to do with sick-rooms often finds herself completely bewildered by some instructions, given as routine treatment by the doctor who has had occasion to visit her child.

Steam-kettle Required

My daughter, aged three, has occasional attacks of bronchitis, and the doctor has ordered a steam-kettle in her bedroom. How can I carry out these instructions?

YOU will need a fire in the bedroom in the first place with an iron trivet screwed to the bars to take the kettle; these trivets can be bought for about 9d. A steam-kettle is a tin kettle with a specially long spout ending in a flattened mouth-piece to disperse the steam.

If none can be procured, use an ordinary large tin kettle with a straight spout. Fill with boiling water and add two teaspoonsful of firar's balsam, unless the doctor has specified the use of some other soothing preparation.

Let the kettle simmer quietly on the trivet and fill up every two hours or so with more boiling water.

The use of a kettle of this kind is very soothing in all cases of affection of the respiratory system, when the warm, moist and aromatic atmosphere in the room will give relief.

Light Sleeper

My little boy has been very ill with pneumonia: at the height of his illness he hardly noticed when more fuel was put on the fire in his bedroom, but now that he is convalescing he is disturbed each time we attempt to mend the fire during the night. How can this be avoided?—Temporary Sick-Nurse.

RAISE out the ash before your patient settles down for the night, spreading a newspaper before the grate so as to save the dust from flying about the room. Then pack small coal on the glowing embers in the grate, and finally add a couple of shovelfuls of well-damped coal-dust. Built up like this, your fire will need no attention for several hours. Then wrap up pieces of small coal in newspaper parcels and place them in readiness by the fireplace.

One or two of these can be lifted on to the fire in the early hours of the morning without any noise.

Not Fat Enough

The doctor has ordered a fattening diet for my daughter, aged 14, whose height is 5ft. 2in., but who only weighs 8st. 2lb.—Mother.

YOUR daughter is a little above the average height if she is only just 14, but she is much underweight. She should weigh about 102lb. now, instead of only 80lb.

If you will write to me privately I shall be very pleased to send you a special fattening diet to help her to put on weight.

In reply to your query regarding games, I advise you to have her excluded from strenuous games for the present.

Making The Most Of Needlework

ONE of the pleasant things about autumn and winter is that needlework comes into its own. Drawn curtains and dancing fire-light are such incentives to get out our workbags and go ahead with some attractive needlework.

Whether you are an old hand at the game or an enthusiastic beginner, embroidery hints are usually fascinating when it comes to planning out the shades of silk to be used in a piece of work? Are you aware of that mid-shades of greens, pinks, or blues, placed against a darker background will appear quite pale? But put these colours against a lighter ground and they will at once appear much deeper.

For line stitches, fairly strong shades are the best choice, but for "filling in" purposes pin your faith to paler shades. They are much more effective.

Purples, vivid blues, and the new shades of red, such as fuchsia, deep burgundy, "shocking" pink, and the deeper shades of mauve, are topical colour news, but for embroidery purposes do not lose your head over them if you are working a mixed colour scheme, or they will swamp the rest of the shades.

The Favourite Foundation Material

Linon is public favourite No. 1 as a foundation material, and, if good embroidery silks or cottons are used, it will return triumphantly from the wash tub time after time.

Washing is a process for light fingers. Soak and dab up and down as much as you will, but avoid rubbing. And use powdered borax (in the proportion of 2 ozs to 10 gallons of newly boiling water) instead of soda. Rinsing must be thorough, and the water must be warm only. A touch of blue in the last rinsing water will brighten the colours.

In ironing embroidery, whether a finished piece of work or after laundering, remember to use the iron on the wrong side with several thicknesses of soft cloth under a clean ironing sheet. With a satin background, embroidery should be ironed first on the right side (to gloss up the satin and the silk embroidery) and then on the wrong side (to throw up the embroidery into relief.) Do not use a damp cloth.

Applique Work

Applique work is very decorative and gives the artistic woman a good deal of scope for her creative instinct. But often with an important piece of work it is difficult to baste the pieces in their respective places. Try brushing over the back of each piece with a little thin starch and then place carefully into position. Leave until dry, or press dry with a hot iron. The starch will not harm the material at all, and will come out after the first washing.

And here is a useful tip about transfers. When a transfer design is to be stamped on to a piece of work there is no need to heat an iron.

Place the transfer sheet in position, then damp a cloth with methylated spirit and apply it to the back of the transfer until it is moistened all over. The result will be a beautifully clear design, and what is more attractive, the same transfer sheet can do duty several times in succession.

FAR EAST SERVICE

New Planes To Speed-Up Air Mail

With the introduction of the Ensign type of aircraft by Imperial Airways on the Far East route, a number of changes will be made in the arrangement for carrying mail to Egypt, India and other countries, all of which will mean a speed-up in the delivery of the air mail to Hongkong.

At present most of the delays on the main route from London have occurred in India, where the weather often is against flying. The present flying boat services are to be supplemented as far as Calcutta by land services operated over a new route. Between London and Calcutta Imperial Airways will operate jointly with Indian Transcontinental Airways, a company in which Imperial Airways has a large shareholding interest and which in the past has operated between Karachi and Singapore.

To enable this to be done the capital of the company is to be trebled, and it will take over four of the eight new Ensigns for use on the Calcutta route.

At the moment, as well as flying boats, Hannibal and Atlanta aircraft operate two of the services on the Far East route between Alexandria and Karachi, each service being operated by one machine of each type so as to cope with the heavy mail and freight. The normal services between Alexandria and Sydney will continue to be operated by flying boats.

In consequence of the reorganisation of services and the introduction of the new planes, the cost to the Indian company for the carriage of mail will be reduced to little more than one shilling and threepence per ton-mile.

ICE FORMS ON WINGS

Delphinus Has Adventurous Trip With Air Mail

The Imperial Airways plane Delphinus reached Kai Tak at 5.50 p.m. yesterday with the inward mail from Bangkok, where it had been held up for two hours by engine trouble.

According to a message which reached Hongkong yesterday, it was understood the plane had been forced to return to Bangkok, but Captain Wilson explained on arrival at Kai Tak that the trouble developed before the plane had taken off. When flying between Hanoi and Fort Bayard, the plane climbed to 14,000 feet to catch a tail-wind, but was soon forced to descend several thousand feet when ice began to form on the wings and the instruments became dead. This is unusual in this part of the world.

The Delphinus reached Hongkong in six hours flying time. If it had arrived a quarter of an hour later, he ground lights would have had to be lit.

Della Takes Passengers

The Imperial Airways plane Della left Hongkong yesterday for Bangkok with two Japanese Government engineers on board. They were Mr. Kiso Tuboi and Mr. T. Ono.

REPLACING PLANES

Hongkong's Relation To Main Air Companies

In view of local opinion and discussion on the types of aeroplanes being used by the Imperial Airways, line companies at Kai Tak airport, a declaration by Edward J. Noble, recently appointed head of the Civil Aeronautics Bureau—the American equivalent of the British Air Ministry—is of particular interest.

In one of his first public statements, Noble pointed out that aircraft, properly cared for, virtually never wear out. This is a truth which men in aviation have long realised, but a fact which the general public in general does not appreciate. It is difficult for the Hongkong

Cause of Disaster To Dutch Air Liner

Amsterdam, Nov. 16. The number of victims of the disaster to the Dutch Airways machine Jlsvogel, which, as previously reported, crashed on Monday night near the Amsterdam airport, at Schiphol, was announced on Tuesday morning to amount to six, namely, four members of the crew and two passengers. All the other 12 passengers, of whom eight were Germans and four British, were more or less severely injured.

Among the dead are the commander of the aeroplane, Captain Dimeelaar, who was an experienced flier on the East Indies route, and the second pilot, Captain Van Gemenen, who was at the head of the school of aviation at Soesterberg. The two passengers killed were German women.

It is stated that the machine, just before crashing, flew over the airport at Schiphol but could not land owing to dense fog. The pilot therefore flew back to Amsterdam, but then veered round and returned to Schiphol, evidently in the hope that the fog would meanwhile have lifted somewhat.

The machine was heard to strike the ground violently twice, and it slid some hundreds of metres before coming to a standstill at the edge of a ditch. The violence of the shock caused the machine to lose its wheels, propeller, and motors, and the occupants were thrown out.—Trans-Ocean.

WINTER IN GERMANY

Doubtful Report About Colonel Lindbergh

Berlin, Nov. 16. It is learned that Colonel Lindbergh will return to Germany late in November to get the aeroplane which he left on a recent trip due to bad weather.

However, those well informed are sceptical of reports that Col. Lindbergh is considering spending the winter in Berlin.—Trans-Ocean.

Brooklyn, Nov. 16. Treasury officials announce the seizure aboard the British steamer freighter, Silver Yew, of eleven sacks containing 655 tins of smoking opium, valued at $255,000.

Canadian Bank In Mexico Closes Down

Panama, Nov. 16. The Royal Bank of Canada, one of the three foreign banks in the Republic, will begin to-morrow to return deposits preparatory to retiring its business from Panama.

The action is the outcome of the new banking law signed by President Arce on October 26, requiring foreign banks to invest 20 per cent. of their total deposits in guaranty bonds, which were to be issued to the total value of $5,000,000.—Reuter.

Apprentice Obtains Keys To the Safe

Before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistrate yesterday, Fung King-fai, a 17-year-old apprentice after employed at Gilman's Garage, Hennessy Road, was charged with breaking into the garage on September 28, and stealing $3.90. Another apprentice, 24, was charged with counselling Fung to commit the theft.

Detective-Sergeant J. R. Bentley said that both men were employed at the garage, and early on the morning of September 28, Fung broke in by removing a pane of glass from a door. He opened a safe in the office and took $3.90. The youth, who was a clerk named Wu Chik-kan, had a relative employed in the garage, and knowing that Wu kept the keys to the safe, had stolen them from his home.

Before the theft took place, Chan had urged the youth to steal the keys. Chan was paid wages of $30 per month, while Fung earned $6 per month. Sergeant Bentley added that there had recently been many petty thefts from the garage.

Mr. Forrest remarked that he viewed Chan's offence as more serious, as he had not only been prepared to steal, but had got another person to do the stealing for him. Chan was sentenced to two months' hard labour, and Fung was bound over in the sum of $50 to be of good behaviour for a year.

Mr. C. Sloan, manager of the garage, appeared as complainant.
